STEEL MASTERS IN STEEL CITY

Members of the British Institute Reach Pittsburgh.

THREE DAYS HERE

Local Committees Have Plans Well in Hand for Varied Entertainment of Visitors.

MANY FUNNY INCIDENTS ARISE

After 14 years' interval, the Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain, which is becoming more and more an international organization, is again the guest of Pittsburgh and right loyally will the 201 members who arrived here last evening be entertained by the steel and other business men of this city.

The entertainment includes almost every form, from visits to steel works to regulation evening dress receptions. Three days will be devoted to it, starting today, and when the visitors leave Pittsburgh they will have received a comprehensive idea of the city's present industrial eminence.

One point was evident among all the visitors here last evening. They realize that they have now reached the serious part of their American tour. Other cities have been visited already and more are to follow, but Pittsburgh is the heart of their tour and here they expect to see American iron and steel manufacture exemplified in its every form with the most modern facilities and processes.

Their special train reached Pittsburgh over the Baltimore & Ohio at 6:35 last evening in charge of General Superintendent W. C. Loree, Superintendent B. W. Dyer and Assistant General Passenger Agent E. D. Smith, representing the railroad company.

Local Committee Does Good Work.

The arrangements for the quick removal of the whole party to their quarters were well made and worked perfectly. At the station were a number of carriages and about dozen special cars of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. Of the 201 guests about 50 went to the Country club, 60 to the Hotel Henry and the rest to the Schenley. At the Schenley headquarters are established and the main social events of the visit will take place there. About 70 women are in the party.

From Pittsburgh a party of about a dozen from the local committees went to Connellsville to welcome the guests. Among those who rendered this courtesy were Julian Kennedy, J. M. Camp, C. W. Bray, F. J. Torrance, Alexander M. Jenkinson, H. K. Porter, Dr. John A. Brashear, D. C. Ripley, William Flinn, Robert Finney and A. C. Dinkey.

At the hotel last evening the plans for tomorrow were discussed and other arrangements completed, no set program having been made for the time. Most of the party retired early to be ready for the busy times today.

The party on its visit here is headed by Sir James Kitson, Bart., senior past president, who represents President Andrew Carnegie. The active charge of the arrangements is in the hands of Theodore Dwight, honorary secretary of the American reception committee, and Charles Kirchoff, chairman of the executive committee of the American reception committee.

The Party Divides Here.

Mr. Kirchoff spoke interestingly at the Schenley last evening concerning the institute's visit. He said:

"So far all the trip has been sightseeing in a way, although small parties have paid visits to the Bethlehem steel works, the Cramp and New York shipyards, the Baldwin locomotive works and the Sparrows Point steel works at Baltimore. It has been more a matter of specialized interest in those cases, however, than the study of methods of American steel manufacture. Now, in Pittsburgh, this is all changed. The steel men in the party will be back in business for the next three days. They will see in operation here the great works for which Pittsburgh has won her wide reputation and they will learn much from what they see.

"The party splits after finishing its Pittsburgh visit. About 80 will go to St. Louis, leaving Thursday afternoon over the Panhandle. The others go to Cleveland to see the ore-unloading plants there and the other sights of interest. They will leave Cleveland Saturday for a daylight trip to Buffalo, stopping over at Conneaut Harbor to see the famous Carnegie port. They will see Niagara Falls on Sunday."

Visit Homestead and Duquesne.

The plans for today call for a start at 9:30 this morning. Special trolley cars will take the guests at the Henry, Schenley and Country club to Homestead and a visit will be paid to the Homestead steel works. They will leave those works at 1:30 p. m. by special trains for Duquesne and en route luncheon will be served, a novel plan for which the credit of invention goes to Col. Homer J. Lindsay of the Carnegie Steel Company. The two trains of guests will be placed on the outside tracks of a group of three. Between them will be placed baggage cars and in the baggage cars the dinner will be prepared and served on both sides to the occupants of the coaches.

After seeing the Duquesne works the party will return to East Liberty in their special trains and special trolley cars will convey them to the Schenley and Henry.

This evening at 8 o'clock a reception will be tendered the visitors at the Schenley. Braddock and East Pittsburgh, with a dinner at 6 p. m. at East Pittsburgh are on tomorrow's program. The Westinghouse dinner is described as "a formal dinner in informal dress." A fine tribute to the guests has been pre-

Sober Reflection.

RECONCILED TO HIS DAUGHTER

Ensign Timmons' Bride Goes to Visit Her Father, Senator Fairbanks.

HE OBJECTED TO MARRIAGE

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 31.—Ensign John W. Timmons, United States navy, and Mrs. Timmons, who arrived in Cincinnati Saturday morning to visit Mr. Timmons' brother-in-law, the Rev. James Aiken Smith, will leave town tomorrow for Indianapolis to spend a few weeks with Mrs. Timmons' parents, Senator and Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks.

Behind this personal lies the story of the reconciliation of Senator Fairbanks and his only daughter, Adelaide, which was effected here, and in which the telephone played an important part.

Shortly before Senator Fairbanks left Cincinnati, Mrs. Timmons, having come here for the purpose, called him up by telephone and broke the ice. So far as is known, this the first time Senator Fairbanks has been in communication with his daughter since she married Ensign Timmons against the senator's wishes.

TAKAHIRA IS SAFE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—"Restless from the reaction always following a surgical operation, but with no symptoms of dangerous complications apparent, and every indication for a speedy recovery" was the reassuring news tonight from the bedside of Mr. Kogoro Takahira, the Japanese minister.

So quickly had Mr. Takahira recovered that only the peremptory command of his attending physicians prevented him from reading a part of his mail, and from attending to some of his official business.

"If complications not now visible do not set in within two days," said Dr. Shrady, "there is no doubt of Mr. Takahira's quick recovery."

OFFICER FIRES AT REVELERS.

Bullet Accidentally Strikes a Boy and Crowd Threatens Man Who Shot Him.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The Hallowe'en jollification here tonight was marred by the accidental shooting of Harry McGeary, aged 15. Boys were throwing flour and confetti, when Policeman George Spencer ordered them to desist. They paid no attention to the officer and to frighten them he fired a shot from his revolver. The bullet missed the crowd, as intended, but struck the sidewalk and glancing, hit young McGeary, several rods away.

The policeman assisted in taking the wounded boy to the hospital, where the revelers gathered and threatened Officer Spencer. They were held in check by Chief of Police Palmer. It is thought McGeary will recover.

ASKS $10,000, CHARGING BROKEN PROMISE TO WED

GREENSBURG, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Miss Alice Cummings of Hempfield township has brought a $10,000 suit against J. McC. Miller, a wealthy farmer, alleging breach of promise. She charges that Miller gave her an engagement ring and money with which to purchase her trousseau.

BOY FATALLY SHOT HIS LITTLE SISTER

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Lillie Brown, an 11-year-old girl of Remington, O., was shot and instantly killed by her 14-year-old brother, Nicholas, this morning because he did not know his Flobert rifle was loaded. Nicholas ran screaming into the woods. At a late hour tonight he has not been found, although a posse is searching for him.

AMERICAN CONSULATE DESTROYED IN CHINA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The state department today received a cablegram from Amoy, China, announcing the destruction of the American consulate there, together with valuable papers. The message came from Consul John H. Wesler, at Amoy, and reads as follows: "Consulate burned with most of the records."

CONSIDER LEASE OF WABASH COAL

Directors of the Pittsburgh Coal Company Will Discuss the Plan Today.

LIST STOCKS IN NEW YORK

The leasing of the local coal properties of the Wabash by the Pittsburgh Coal Company will be considered at the monthly meeting of the board of the Pittsburgh Coal Company today. These properties were recently secured by the Wabash interests through the purchase of a controlling interest in the Pittsburgh Terminal Railroad and Coal Company.

The terms of the proposed deal are not made known. The Pittsburgh Terminal bond issue of $7,000,000 must be provided for largely by the earnings from the coal properties and it is expected that the lease of the mines will be at a figure which will meet these obligations.

Negotiations have been under way for some time between the Pittsburgh Coal Company and the Wabash interests on this matter. It had been proposed at one time that the mines should be turned over to the Consolidated Coal Company, one of the Gould coal interests in the west, for operation, but it is believed that this plan has been abandoned on account of the great difference in operating and marketing conditions between the east and the west.

A satisfactory price basis has been reached, it is believed, in the negotiations with the Pittsburgh Coal Company. A month ago the board of directors of that company gave consideration to the matter of closing a deal with the Gould interests in case a favorable contract could be made.

The directors have given authority also to the officers to list the stocks of the Pittsburgh Coal Company upon the New York stock exchange, and this will be done shortly. The purpose is to provide a wider market for these securities, as in the case of the Westinghouse and some other local stocks.

WESTINGHOUSE GETS A BIG MOTOR CONTRACT

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is about to equip its Long Island division with electricity, and once more Pittsburgh comes to the front and gets a big contract that further emphasizes the fact that she is "the workshop of the world."

A contract has already been made by the Pennsylvania people with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company for the motor equipment for 122 cars, each car to be supplied with four 125 horse power motors of the same type as those in use on the cars of the new sub-way in New York.

The power house of the Long Island division is already nearing completion, and the massive machinery to be used in it was furnished and installed by the great Westinghouse works at East Pittsburgh.

THE PISTOL PROPOSED.

Jacob Marsch, Therefore, Consented to Wed, but Now He Seeks Release.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Wedded, as he alleges, through fear of a pistol to a woman whom he has not seen since, Jacob Marsch is seeking freedom from the marital bond which he says he was induced to enter by "force, fraud and coercion." His wife was Sadie Lewis.

Mr. Marsch says he met Miss Lewis about seven years ago, while living in New York. One day Miss Lewis, accompanied by her brother, called on him and demanded that he marry her. Her brother flourished a revolver and vowed he would shoot him at once if he would not comply. Marsch says he complied.

GRANDMOTHER SUES FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Mrs. Anna Pessing, a 61-year old grandmother, sued Henry Yoering today for $5,000 for alleged breach of promise. Yoering is 71 years old and a retired cobbler. Mrs. Pessing says he made love to her as they sat together in the city parks. He proposed marriage and was accepted, but in a short time his love grew cold and her h[illegible] was broken.

SICKLES CANNOT BE A DEMOCRAT

Gen. Howard Says Without Veterans There Would Be No Treasury.

OLD SOLDIERS FOR ROOSEVELT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The Roosevelt and Fairbanks League of Veterans of the Civil War held a Republican ratification meeting in Cooper Union tonight, presided over by Gen. Daniel E. Sickles. Among the prominent Grand Army men on the platform were Maj. Gen. O. O. Howard, Gen. St. Clair Mulholland, Warner Miller, Gen. I. S. Catlin, Gen. Horatio C. King, Wallace Bruce and Col. John W. Vrooman.

Gen. Sickles in his introductory remarks said:

"I am a Democrat when I get a chance, but they make such platforms that I cannot stand for them. I was raised on the good old Jefferson principles, but I can't find anywhere today the good old Democratic party of my fathers."

Gen. Howard said that some one had declared that the veterans wanted their hands in the treasury all the time. "The fact is," he shouted, "that if it was not for the veterans there wouldn't be any treasury."

PET BULLDOG IS GIVEN FUNERAL OF A HUMAN

Maryland Man Has Body Buried in a Coffin—Boys Act at Pallbearers.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ELKTON, MD., Oct. 31.—William Boulden yesterday afternoon gave his pet bulldog "Prince," a fine funeral. He had the animal dressed in white and laid in a small white casket with four handles. Four small boys acted as bearers. The coffin was covered with cut flowers. A large number of citizens of the town dropped in at Boulden's home and viewed the remains before it was buried.

This is the last of Boulden's pets, all former ones having been buried in a similar manner. Small marble stones mark the spots of their burial in the rear of the house.

KAISER'S VIEW NOT FOLLOWED

Federal Council Expresses Opinion That Leopold Is Entitled to Lippe-Detmold Regency.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—It is reported that the federal council has expressed the opinion that the present regent of Lippe-Detmold, Prince Leopold, is entitled to the regency, and that other disputes relative to the succession should be decided by a court formed under the presidency of some German prince from the members of the imperial supreme court. The Lippe-Detmold government has assented but the competitors have not yet indicated their positions. Prince Luitpold, regent of Bavaria, is mentioned as president.

This altered action of the federal council is in conflict with Emperor William's telegram, stating that the legal questions concerning the regency were not quite clear.

MOONSHINER IS MURDERED.

Before He Died He Accused His Rival and Father of the Girl He Loved.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Oct. 31.—Peter Bowles, a moonshiner and ex-convict, was brutally murdered this morning. He said before he died that Albert Maynard and he were in love with Thomas Trail's daughter. The two men met at the girl's home. Maynard in the presence of the girl whipped out a knife and slashed Bowles' throat. Trail picked up a windchester rifle and shot Bowles. Both men escaped.

Late this afternoon, Maynard was arrested. When brought back a mob assembled, but deputies prevented a lynching. Trail is still at large.

PARKER'S STATEMENTS MAKE TAFT FEEL QUEER

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Secretary W. H. Taft spoke on the Philippine question to a large audience in Mount Vernon tonight. "Judge Parker's recent statements about the Philippines," he said, "sometimes make me feel as if I had never been there."

STEEL POSTAL CARS BUILDING

Standard Steel Car Company Successfully Designs Them.

A NEW INDUSTRY

WILL DEFY FIRE AND WRECKS

Almost a new industry, calling for an enormous tonnage of steel, is promised to the Pittsburgh district as a result of the successful efforts of the Standard Steel Car Company in building all-metal passenger train equipment.

At the big works of the company at Butler, there is today nearly completed an all-steel postal car built on strictly Master Car Builders' standards in all respects, designed to suit modern railroad conditions and furthermore to give to the life of the postal clerks and the mails in the cars greater protection than has ever been enjoyed before. It is an axiom in railroad operation that the postal cars are the surest marks for serious damage in case of a wreck, and the killing or maiming of clerks with the destruction by fire and otherwise, of the mails, is reported with great frequency. It is to overcome these conditions that the new cars have been designed, and the railroad postal representatives who have been acquainted with the work at Butler are greatly impressed with the results.

The plans of the Standard company do not stop with the building of postal cars alone. Baggage and express cars, which are liable to the same rough usage between engines and heavy Pullman equipment, are as easily constructed, and it is considered but a matter of detail and a little time until day coaches are built all-steel quite as regularly as freight cars are at present.

Safe from Fires and Wrecks.

From the steel freight car, essentially a Pittsburgh product, to the high-speed steel equipment for passenger trains is an evolution in which the same men who are pioneers in steel freight car building have led. As the steel freight car has proved itself practically indestructible by fire and wrecks, so the steel passenger train equipment is expected to turn out.

The steel passenger equipment has the advantage of the freight car, having preceded it and taught the railroad shops the methods adapted to the handling of steel equipment in case of minor damage. The need of cars of this kind has been apparent to railroad managements and the general public for a long time. The construction of the cars now building at Butler is such that there is really little experiment in them. Cars are now being built there for several of the leading trunk lines, the Erie and the New York, New Haven & Hartford leading in the demand for them. The first car to be sent out into actual service will go to the Erie in less than two weeks, complete in every particular. It is 85 feet long, and in outside appearance bears a very close resemblance to the regular mail cars, but it is of all-metal construction and will stand far more shock and strain than any wooden body could.

Cost Not a Serious Factor.

The cost of these cars will be, it is stated, not so much in excess of that of the old style wooden cars, as to make the difference a matter of serious concern to the railroads. The saving in the cost of maintenance alone, without reckoning the greater safety of human life and of the important mail, express and baggage in transport, far outweighs the difference in price.

It is a rather remarkable fact that America has been so slow in building steel cars for passenger trains. There are some in use in foreign countries, but they are far smaller. What efforts have been made heretofore in this country are said to have been with inferior designs which would not withstand the trials of actual service. The experience of the Standard company with freight equipment has taught the management of that concern what is needed.

The matter of greater protection to postal clerks has been seriously considered by government officials at times and the new car is expected to receive high favor from them.

GOING HOME TO VOTE.

After Casting His Ballot President Roosevelt Will Go to Washington to Hear Returns.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—President Roosevelt has nearly completed his arrangements for going to Oyster Bay to vote. He wants to be in Washington Tuesday evening to receive the returns. In order to do this he will leave here for Oyster Bay on an early train Monday, remain over night, vote the first thing Tuesday morning and then hurry back here.

The telegraph companies will put in special wires to the White House, and the president and family with a number of intimate friends will read the bulletins.

CHINESE DECISION IS A BLOW TO RUSSIA

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Under date of October 31, the Daily Telegraph correspondent at Tientsin says: "The Chinese government today formally declared itself against any further infringements of neutrality in the dispatch of supplies to belligerents, and in this connection has sent troops to Shanhaikwan. This is a serious blow to Russia, who is now without open ports in the east."

Mount Vesuvius Emitting Dust.

NAPLES, Oct. 31.—(Copyright, Cable.—Since this morning Mount Vesuvius has again been giving signs of activity, the crater noiselessly emitting dense columns of dust, which the wind carries westward in such quantities that at Torre and Portici umbrellas were necessary.

PAY CASH FOR PARKER VOTES

FARMERS SATISFIED

Senator Fairbanks Is Campaigning in Prosperous Belt of Hoosier State.

PRESIDENTIAL BOOM FOR 1908

FT. WAYNE, IND., Oct. 31.—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks made 15 speeches today and preached the gospel of Republicanism to at least 43,000 people in the Hoosier state. He traveled over a portion of the same route traveled by William J. Bryan a couple of weeks ago, and has had the satisfaction of drawing much larger crowds than the Nebraskan.

At many points today J. Frank Hanly, the Republican nominee for governor, introduced Fairbanks as the Republican candidate for president in 1908. The announcement was greeted with cheers each time and aroused much more enthusiasm than did a discussion of the issues of this campaign, the senator has received such introductions in all parts of the country, and the suggestion is always well received.

The route was 175 miles in length and for the most part was through a farming country. On every hand was evidence of the farmers' contentment with existing conditions. The great number of new barns told the story of paid-up mortgages and prosperity. The special train was crowded all day with leading men in the various counties through which the senator passed. In conversation with a farmer this homely expression of the way the agriculturists of Indiana feel was secured:

Know When They Are Fed.

"Pigs never squeal when they are full. The farmers of Indiana know when they are satisfied. Eight years ago our corn sold for 16 cents and now it brings 60 cents. Oats then sold for 10 and now we get 30 cents. The other day I heard a Grant county farmer brag that his wife's hat cost 80 bushels of oats."

The Indiana gas belt was also entered today. This supply of natural fuel is failing fast, and has resulted in the removal of a number of glass houses and some factories of other kinds. This withdrawal of the industries has caused the Republicans a loss of a good many votes.

In the gas belt a new story about vote-buying was secured. At Summitville and Alexandria the Republicans have secured conclusive proof that the Democrats are paying cash for votes and taking receipts. Some of the men who have given the receipts have confessed. Under the laws of Indiana, the man who accepts a bribe is liable to punishment, while the giver cannot be reached. This gives the Democrats an opportunity to traffic. In the gas belt they are paying $3 a head to secure a pledge from a Republican to stay away from the polls. When the cash is paid, the receiver of the money gives a receipt. If he tries to vote, this admission of his guilt will be flashed on him. The Republican leaders say that the same scheme is being worked in all parts of the state.

Greeted by Thousands.

In the town of Elwood, which boasts of having been the first in the tin plate business, there were an even 1,000 people to greet Senator Fairbanks when he arrived here at the noon hour. This crowd was overshadowed by the one at Fairmont an hour later. The fair grounds there are on the line of the Big Four railroad. The speakers' stand was inside the enclosure. When Senator Fairbanks started to speak a Big Four engine 20 feet away proved annoying by its determination to blow off excess steam. Dozens of Republicans were heard to blame M. E. Ingalls, president of the Big Four, for the bad behavior of the locomotive. Ingalls was a Gold Democrat and supported McKinley. This time he is working for Parker, but it is not likely that he sent an engine to disturb Mr. Fairbanks. The Republican leaders are generally of the opinion that the great mass of railroad men in the state will support Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

Frank Hanly, the nominee for governor, is accompanying Fairbanks. Fifteen years ago Hanly was digging ditches, but at the same time he was preparing himself for the practice of law. At 41 he is the candidate of his party for governor, and is rated as one of the best lawyers in Indiana. The trip today was through the congressional districts of Charles and Frederick Landis, they are brothers. The former has been in the house for a long time, and is a probable successor Senator Fairbanks. Frederick Landis is 32 years old and is finishing his first term as a national lawmaker. His district will return him by an increased majority.

Must Get Out the Vote.

While the audiences today have been large, there has not been a great deal of enthusiasm. The candidates for state offices all say that they have not been able to arouse the voters to any great degree. Their investigation has shown that the Hoosiers are desirous of seeing the Republicans remain in power, but are not inclined to exert themselves. Fortunately the Republicans have a superb organization in the state and it will be up to this body of workers to get the voters to the polls.

The Indianapolis Star, a strong supporter of the Republican ticket, had a leading editorial today under the caption, "Indiana in Doubt." It bases its assertion on the lack of interest being shown. The editorial concludes: "Indiana is in doubt, and the result depends upon the fidelity or faithlessness of its voters. The Democrats will be out on election day. How about the Republicans?"

The papers insist that [illegible] will be no question about the result if the Republicans awaken to the necessity of getting to the polls. The trip of Senator Fairbanks is expected to do an immense amount of good in stirring the Republicans to be on guard on November 8.

On every hand is heard of Thomas Taggart's attempt to elect a legislature that will send him to the United States senate. Numerous stories were told of how he is devoting his entire attention to this end of the campaign.

Taggart Promises a Roll.

The Democrats are being promised that a big wad of money will be distributed in the last days of the contest. They are depending upon Taggart to make good, and the Republicans are confident that he will not be able to corral the cash. The Republicans are telling the story that the Democratic national committee gave the state $100,000, and that 80 per cent of it was put into an Indianapolis newspaper that is controlled by Taggart for the purpose of spreading the Democratic gospel.

Attorney General Hicks of Wisconsin was on the train this morning. He is a bitter opponent of Gov. LaFollette. "I am afraid," said he, "that LaFollette will win, but if he does, the margin will not be great. Three weeks ago he would have won by 50,000, but conditions are changing rapidly. LaFollette is endeavoring to put the badge of Populism on Republicanism. The national ticket is safe, and I believe that Congressman Babcock will pull through. There is danger, however, that LaFollette will control enough members of the legislature to defeat the re-election of Senator Quarles. I am of the opinion that the legislature will be deadlocked, and Wisconsin will have but one senator for the next two years."

Democratic Prophecies Failed.

Senator Fairbanks' address here tonight was, in part, as follows:

Eight years ago conditions were different from what they are today. Then we were told if we would adopt the free coinage of silver, unanfacturing would increase and that prosperity among the people would be largely augmented. Our Democratic friends said unless we coined silver freely there would be no prosperity on the farm. We refused to accept their advice then. We did not believe it was good than, and we have not changed our minds since. We have not changed our views, either, as to the wisdom of Democratic policies or as to the wisdom of Democratic leadership.

We have had prosperity upon the farm ever since then. It was not long after President McKinley and the Republican party came into power until we witnessed a very radical change upon the farms of the country.

Contrary to Democratic predictions, after the Republican party came into power up went the price of oats and wheat and corn and horses and cattle and mules, and it was not very long until up went a great many Democratic prophets.

"The great leader of Democracy in 1896 and 1900 says that when this campaign is over he will proceed to reorganize the forces of Democracy. That is a pretty frank confession. It is full of significance. I have never yet known it was necessary to reorganize an army upon whose banner was inscribed the word victory.

Put Country Above Party.

I cannot forget that in the great contest of 1896 there were many patriotic Americans who put country and their country's welfare above mere party success. I cannot forget that in that great contest, which so deeply stirred the American people, our great leader, William McKinley, had the loyal and splendid support of thousands and hundreds of thousands of Democrats from one end of the country to the other.

Now, my Democratic friends, what have you to your credit during the last seven years? All that has been most splendid, all that has advanced your welfare and your prosperity, all that has raised your country higher and higher in the esteem of the world has been accomplished by the Republican party, not by the Democratic party, but in spite of the Democratic party.

The Democratic party has opposed all our past achievements. It has criticised William McKinley (how cruel that seems now), one of the wisest and best men ever born into this world of ours. When he lived and wrought among us, when great responsibilities rested with almost crushing weight upon his patriotic shoulders, he got little sympathy and no support from the Democratic party. They did all in their power to embarrass and render unsuccessful what we were attempting to accomplish in the interest of our common country. I do not object to our Democratic friends because they did that, but I do insist upon this, that all their past opposition should not entitle them to the control of the affairs of this government.

MUMMERS PARADE DREW BIG CROWDS

Hallowe'en Celebration Spread Out Over Two Cities and Good Humor Prevailed.

SOME OF THE MANY INCIDENTS

Pittsburgh celebrated Hallowe'en last night, so far as the street demonstrations went, in a noisy, foolish, clownish manner. From what was popularly termed a Mardi Gras point of view the celebration was a great success. Hundreds of mummers paraded the streets while thousands looked on; good humor was at a premium, and the spirit of give and take was as prevalent as at any carnival in Rome, where fun reigns supreme and confetti is king.

East Liberty saw the greatest crowd in its history, the entire East End population turning out to witness the Hallowe'en parade under the auspices of the business men of the district. From 20,000 to 30,000 people crowded, pushed and trampled each other in the principal streets. Over in Allegheny there was a fairly creditable parade got up by the merchants of the Fifth and Sixth wards which passed through the principal streets of that section. In this parade there were floats gaily decorated and occupied by persons clad to represent many nations. Throughout the city there was no disorder beyond that expected on such an occasion and the police had little difficulty in preserving the peace, though at times Federal street, which was the principal scene of the free-for-all parade, was wild and tumultuous, especially after it got to be understood that the police were not going to be as strict as the fun-makers had started out believing they would be.

Had No Set Program.

In the Pittsburgh downtown district there was no set program, but for hours a parade of maskers passed up and down Sixth street, Fifth avenue and Smithfield street.

Oakland citizens turned out in great numbers to see the mummers, and for several hours Forbes street, between Meyran avenue and Bouquet street, was alive with people. In Oakland's Fifth averue, however, there was no celebration whatever. At Atwood and Forbes streets the crowd was most in evidence and every car that passed was jammed with gaily-dressed young men and women maskers, on their way to the East End, to participate in the parade. A feature of the Oakland celebration was a bevy of young girls dressed in suits of the Morin baseball club. Together with their escorts they stopped at the saloon of Councilman John Morin for whom the club is named. Here the girls, dressed as boys, called for sarsaparilla, while the boys, arrayed in trailing skirts, looked upon the "red eye."

Last year in the downtown district many Hallowe'en hoodlums were arrested for forming "flying wedges" and scattering spectators right and left, this time the hoodlums were fewer. A few showed up last night and were promptly arrested. Scores of girls disguised as men paraded the streets. Men dressed as women secured drinks at certain bars in the downtown district, but as long as they behaved themselves the police closed their eyes, keeping them open only for the occasional hoodlum, bent on making trouble.

Many Funny Sights to See.

Along Fifth avenue and Sixth street a space was left for the mummers in the middle of the street, spectators lining the sidewalks and half of the street. Harlequin and Columbine, Uncle Sam, circus clown, Kaffir, plantation negro, Hardscrabble matron, Irish "greenhorn," German Lieschen, Tyrolese Jaeger, truculent Turk, negro minstrel and many a football player paraded up and down. Now and then came a wagon load of costumed freaks, occasionally a bunch of maskers fell in behind a fife player or a drummer, and formed a little procession of their own.

Fakirs stood at street corners selling bags of confetti—round disks of colored paper—horns and minature feather dusters. Men and women, boys and girls, bought and used these wares freely. Nobody was spared, but everybody seemed to take especial delight in annoying the dignified chap with his wife or sister or best girl, who had come down town to take in the sights.

In front of the Farmers bank building a man and woman got into a quarrel; the woman seized the man by the ear and gave him a great wiggling, while the crowd cheered. Then the woman let out a roar, in a man's voice, and the man piped a soprano remonstrance. Then the crowd felt cheap, for the man was a woman and the woman was a man, brother and sister, clad in each other's clothes, so a spectator who seemed to know them said. The quarrel was only a joke.

Fell Through the Windoy.

Somebody was standing in front of a window of the restaurant opposite the postoffice in Smithfield street, viewing the passing show. A girl clad in coat and trousers danced along the sidewalk, tripped and fell against the spectator. Crash went the window and the man landed in the restaurant through the broken pane. "Jack" Wilson took it good humoredly, for the girl was then far away and the window was insured, anyway.

Union station was a veritable bedlam. Every evening train brought large crowds of masqueraders to the city and much larger crowds of spectators.

Among the masqueraders was a woman from Pitcairn. She was attired in a neat fitting sailor suit and wore a cape dotted with stars and stripes. She won a $25 prize at a masquerade ball a few days ago. There was another woman dressed as a man, who entered the women's waiting room and was ordered to get out of there by station employes, who mistook her for a man. She partially disrobed before fully proving that she was a well-developed female. The usher who had remonstrated with her got a special salute of tin horns and cowbells.

The East End parade embraced about 500 wagons, most of them decorated, and anywhere from 500 to 5,000 marchers, depending entirely on whether the gaily costumed hosts felt like marching in the street or crowding upon the sidewalks. They did both at will, and it was the delightful informality of the thing which made it so thoroughly enjoyable. At least once a minute the parade was halted while, somewhere a half mile or so in front, a tangle of street cars, pedestrians and vehicles was straightened out.

The only organization in the turnout which boasted a uniform was the Carlisle club, the members of which, to the number of about 200, were attired as Indian chiefs, with great paper feather headdresses. In each headdress was a tiny lantern, which lit it up and made that body a most conspicuous one.

There were all kinds of costumes, "Happy Hooligan," "Gloomy Gus," "Weary Willie" and all the characters of the funny supplements were there, but "Buster Brown" and his dog "Tige" amused the crowd more than all the others.

In the crowds which thronged the sidewalks none attracted more attention than four girls—real girls these, attired as fencing girls. The black uniforms, with skirts that came just to the knee, the white waists, and the blood-red hearts on their left breasts, made them particularly noticeable and they looked as pretty as the celebrated pictures of those same girls. They carried fencing foils and wore masks which, if they could not defy a rapier point, at least, turned aside all rude glances which sought their identity.

Another feature was a Musselman family. The father wore a fierce looking white beard and mustache and was attired in turban and flowing surtout.

AMALGAMATED COPPER HAS OPTION ON HEINZE MINES

Death of an Attorney of Butte Reveals the Secret of Negotiation for Montana Plants and End of Litigation.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BUTTE, MONT., Oct. 30.—F. August Heinze some months ago gave an option for the sale of his properties to James W. Forbis of this city, representing August Belmont and John W. Gates. Belmont and Gates took up the negotiations with Heinze at the instance of James J. Hill and others, who were interested in a settlement of the disastrous mining litigation in Montana, and it is understood that they represent a syndicate friendly to the Amalgamated Copper Company, and that if the option is taken up, which is said to be certain, the Heinze property will eventually pass into the possession of the Amalgamated company.

Heinze refused to deal directly with Gates and Belmont, but offered to do so with Mr. Forbis, their attorney in this city, and the contract was made with him. Mr. Heinze having the utmost confidence in Mr. Forbis. The fact of the pending deal would not have become public, but for the unfortunate and unexpected death of Mr. Forbis last week. The contract was found among his effects by his widow and executors. The price mentioned is said to be between seven and eight millions of dollars, and the contract provides for $300,000 in commissions.

According to the best information the transfer will include all the property of the United Copper and sub-companies, among them are the Rarus, Johnstown, Minnie Healey, Corra, Rock Island, Nipper, Miners Union, Lexington, Belmont, L. E. R. and a number of interests in other properties, the smelter of the Montana Ore Purchasing Company and the Basin reduction plant; in fact, all of the Heinze mining interests in the Butte district. According to Senator Clark the transfer will be actually made about the middle of January, and the property will eventually pass into the possession of the Amalgamated Copper Company and the Montana war will come to an end.

The mother wore the customary heavy veil, which left only her eyes visible, and the little boy was attired in a loose gown and red turban. They were much observed.

Banker Brothers had the most mirth-provoking float—an automobile which was continually in trouble. At every stop, and they came every 100 feet, the machine fell apart with a tremendous clatter. A ladder was dropped from the rear, the entire party descended with sledge hammers, and proceeded to put that machine back into commission. A goat team pulled a little wagon on which was erected an Indian teepee. The Owl club, to show its disregard for unlucky numbers, was out in a wagon drawn by 13 horses, some of which were mules.

An express company, in addition to its wagons, had an animal cage, the property of some defunct circus, in line. On the top of the cage was a drum corps and inside were masqueraders. Another business man had a fine display of poultry inside a wire cage, with numerous colored men on the outside trying to break in. A brewing company on one of its wagons had an enormous canvas globe, with a colored "Atlas" bearing it on his shoulders.

Police Arrangements Poor.

The principal feature of the night in the East End was the miserable police arrangements. The parade did not get fairly started until it was tied in a knot. It was headed by an escort of mounted police and there were police on foot all along the way. But traction cars and vehicles of every description jammed their way into the line of march and there were sometimes a break of a block or two in the line that was filled with street cars, delivery wagons, cabs and anything except what belonged there.

The sidewalks were filled with a struggling mass of humanity. Confetti, feather dusters and tin horns helped to keep on the move those who would have stood still. In the rush confetti venders were knocked off their feet and their wares quickly scattered to the four winds.

The restrictions the Allegheny police threatened to put upon the antics of the mummers sent hundreds of them to Pittsburgh and the festivities on the North Side lacked many of the picturesque features that in previous years attracted thousands to watch the parade of fun-makers in Federal street. The latter thoroughfare, however, was crowded all evening with men, women and children who blew horns, rattled cow bells and scattered confetti in a manner that did justice to the occasion.

Were Afraid of Police.

Supt. Campbell of the police department was somewhat disappointed that his orders were so literally construed, for hundreds who would have remained in Allegheny, had they had no fear of police interference, lost no time in crossing the river to make merry on Fifth avenue.

Some of the pranks of the mummers were really novel. One progressive young man of unusual stature lead a band of maskers who carried various old musical instruments miserably out of tune. Only the sounds of a bassdrum, a tambourine and a crippled trombone rose above the awful din of bells and horns. In a mock-serious manner the leader conducted a long service that was intended for a burlesque on the Salvation Army. At a point further down the street a man in imitation of Creatore madly swung his arms and tore his hair in conducting a band of two pieces, a bass drum and a shrill fife.

The popularity of the colored Sunday supplements of the newspapers was well attested. The best "Yellow Kid" was represented by a child, apparently no more than 3 years old. The little one was being buffeted about in the crowd at Federal and Lacock streets, when Capt. James Wilson discovered it. Thinking the tot had been lost by some older persons, Wilson took it by the arm.

"Yellow Kid" Not Afraid.

"Lemme go, I'm havin' fun," remarked "Yellow Kid," as he slipped away and joined the procession in the middle of the street.

Two young women dressed in the robes of nuns attracted considerable attention as they walked down Federal street, each holding a hand of a child dressed as Cupid. The incompatibility of such characters in close relation struck the crowd instantly, and caused many a laugh along the street. There were the usual number of farmers, Uncle Sams, clowns and a few teams looking like "Alphonse" and "Gaston." With an anxious eye on all the policemen, scores of girls appeared in the garments of the other sex, but most of these went to Pittsburgh.

The parade in lower Allegheny was witnessed by a crowd of more than 10,000 people. Walter Shook acted as chief marshal and the procession was reviewed by the judges at Washington avenue and Market street. William G. Frederick was marshal of the horse brigade of 50 mounted men; George Fearnly was marshal of the floats and Thomas McBride had charge of a brigade of 20 pony carts and riders. Dr. P. B. Boyle yead 15 automobiles in the parade. The judges were Alderman F. J. Scheliman, Thomas H. Harvey, Adam Hoffman, John Gray and Norman McAfee. Over 80 prizes were distributed among those who wore the best costumes.

Samuel Prentiss of Market street became boisterous and engaged in a quarrel with a policeman. Prentiss drew a revolver and was promptly clubbed into submission and locked up in No. 3 patrol station.

In Frankstown avenue, East End, the crowd was so dense that it was impossible for the patrol wagon at No. 6 station to get out and the officers making arrests had to drag their prisoners to the station house by roundabout routes. A disturbance arose at Penn avenue, near Frankstown, and Policeman Peter Waters attempted to arrest C. F. Schaul. As he did so Schaul pulled a revolver and got squelched very vigorously. At the station house the weapon was found to be fully loaded. H. W. Conrad sought to interfere and was locked up with Schaul, who gave his age as 20, and his address as Bella street, Brushton. Conrad said he was 22 years old and lived in Kedron avenue.

Several others were arrested for slight disorder, among them a man named McMillan, who was charged with taking hold of the bridle of a horse ridden by a policeman and refusing to let go. He explained that he did so to prevent being run over. He was released on a forfeit.

Only One Masquerader Arrested.

There was only one masquerader, and that was a woman, locked up at Central station. About midnight, when the fun was about all over, a woman who gave her name as Delia McCurry, aged 25, and said she lived in Bellevernon, was found opposite the Safety building intoxicated and dressed in men's clothes. She said her companion had deserted her. Eleven men and boys were arrested for molesting the mummers, charged with disorderly conduct. Detectives Elmore and Sieffert arrested three professional pickpockets at Fifth avenue and Market street. At the station house they gave their names as Charles Connelly, James Martin and J. H. Mills. They live in Allegheny.

John Smith of 435 Washington street, Allegheny, dressed as a masquerader, was struck by a traction car at Stockton avenue and Sandusky street, and at the Allegheny General hospital 19 stitches were placed in his scalp.

Casualties of the Night.

M. Inskeep of South Thirteenth street, struck Edith Kleemer of 17 Wilson street at Grant street and Fifth avenue. The blow dazed the woman and Officer Jacob Rodgers took both to Central station. The woman was watching the funmakers and said she could give no cause for the assault. Inskeep was not in costume.

Dominick Adomo, an Italian, did not understand the pranks of the masqueraders. Some boys touched his face with a feathered "flekter" at Fifth avenue and Congress street, and he drew a knife and made for them. Policeman John Reed was standing nearby and he sent the angry Italian to the Center avenue station house.

James Kusten, a 12-year-old newsie, known professionally as "Pie-Face Jim," won the free-for-all pie-eating contest at Pickering's furniture establishment last night before an enthusiastic audience of 5,000 or more people. There were 14 contestants who competed under the A. A. U. rules, viz.: Eating pie without the use of hands.

Younk Kusten buried his face into a large, inviting pumpkin pie at the word and smeared up the object of his attention in seven seconds flat, thereby reducing the world's record a half second. He gets a gold dollar and an overcoat. "Patsy" Jones, known as the "Table Finisher," took second honors, a silver dollar. A separate contest for colored boys brought out seven starters. Lewis Johnson won in a gallop in nine seconds.

Following the pie-eating contest judging of competitors in the fancy costume competition began. The contestants, of whom there were over 100, lined up 10 at a time. It was an international affair throughout, representatives being present from all countries in the world and from worlds still unconquered.

Hallowe'en was celebrated last night in Braddock and enormous crowds crowded the streets, causing delay in street car service. Thirty-five special officers were sworn in to preserve order. Wilmerding and Turtle Creek were almost deserted, the residents participating in the Braddock celebration.

STEEL MEN ARE HERE

pared, but it will be enjoyed in the business suits.

The English of It Shows.

The visit of the Iron and Steel Institute, with its prevailing English membership, has been productive of some humorous incidents of the kind that, as one of the party expressed it, makes life worth living. Col. Robert Finney, the well-known general agent of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Pittsburgh, figured prominently in one of these yesterday.

The local committee had prepared for each of the guests a very handsome souvenir pocketbook filled with a program, a map and a book of description of Pittsburgh and other interesting pamphlets, all neatly arranged in this morocco book. Mr. Finney was one of the committee who met the visitors' train at Connellsville, and was giving the books to the gentlemen for whom they were made. As he handed the souvenir to one of the titled Englishman, the latter reached in his pocket, and then extending his hand to Mr. Finney, said benevolently:

"Ah, thank you, me boy. Very much obliged, don't you know."

"Ah, thank you, me Lud," said Mr. Finney with an humble bow, as he took the proffered shilling.

This shilling became an object of much curiosity to Mr. Finney's friends last evening and he figures that he has the English "Lud" backed clear off the board in the way of a souvenir of this trip.

Hallowe'en in Visitors' Honor.

One of the visitors who is stopping at the Henry became attracted by the great noise of the Hallowe'en celebration last evening, and stepping to the door peered through his monocle at the passing throng for a moment. Then inquired of another watcher:

"Ah, my good man, do they do this in Pittsburgh every evening, or is it in special honor of the institute?"

It was evident that others of the party considered the Hallowe'en celebration especially arranged in their honor by the gladsome populace of Pittsburgh.

One of the party became involved in a scrape in Philadelphia. Orders had been given that the baggage should be packed before retiring and placed in the hotel hallways so that the porters could secure it early. It appears that this traveler was attending a reception that evening and was wearing his evening suit. During his absence his wife packed his business suit and when he returned he put his dress suit in the trunk and shoved it outside the door. The arrival of morning found him without a suit and he had to stay in bed while his wife hunted up a department store and bought him some clothes on a guess.

Another of the party was annoyed by a light in the hallway shining through the transom of his door and stepped outside to turn it out. The door, with its spring latch, closed behind him and he found himself in the hallway at 1 a. m. locked out of the room in his night attire. After a bad half hour he finally stuttered an explanation to the night telephone girl in the rear of the lobby, who secured the pass key for him to re-enter his apartment.

ARE FACING FOR ANOTHER FIGHT

Japanese and Russian Armies Are Within Hail of Each Other.

CZAR'S FORCES OUTNUMBERED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

MUKDEN, Oct. 31, Via Pekin.—The manifestations of the Japanese in their center, which now converges at a point where the plain meets the hills, have attained the greatest importance. These manifestations are being fully met by the Russians, so that the situation at this point of the prospective battlefield is now one of the greatest interest and apprehension.

At the present moment the trenches on both sides are crowding with troops, and at many places the Japanese and Russians are within hailing distance. At the isolated hill of Manlion, in the plain where the Russians 10 days ago captured 14 guns and bayonetted 800 Japanese, the rival forces are only 600 paces apart.

The situation is perhaps the most remarkable in military annals. Two armies, each with the other as an objective, are approaching while constructing siege works, the making of which both sides are accelerating, each morning revealing the work done over night to the observation stations on every hilltop.

Last night there was the heaviest bombardment of the week from the Japanese batteries, and the Russians are seriously apprehensive of a crucial surprise. This bombardment was accompanied by a continuous rifle fire, while the infantry advanced by means of quick intrenching at intervals of a few hundred feet, under cover of darkness.

Japanese Are Reinforced.

The outcome of this activity is a tense vigilance along the entire extended front. This tension, taken in connection with the reported reinforcement of the Japanese by one and one-half divisions from Port Arthur, is likely to precipitate a great battle within a few days.

From their immediate bivouacs armies calmly behold each other, and are able to distinguish each other's intrenching gangs as they drop their tools when relieved. Japanese shells are daily breaking on Pagoda hill, which is most conspicuous in the Russian position, and in front of which the villagers remain in their houses, indicating that by some prearrangement with the Japanese their homes will not be shelled by the latter.

The Japanese army is being rapidly reinforced and it is expected that the new troops will shortly reach from 40,000 to 60,000. The whole energies of the Russians must be devoted to holding their positions, unless they can bring up large reinforcements speedily. The Japanese fortifications already are far too strong, supported as they are by siege guns and field fire pieces, to be carried by a frontal assault.

Shell Buries Man Alive.

Two battalions, returning early on the morning of October 29 from the banks of the Shahke river came under fire from Japanese 12-inch guns. Several shells falling in the Russian ranks did considerable damage. One man was rendered deaf and dumb, but otherwise uninjured, and another was thrown into a ditch and buried alive.

The northern slopes of the hills, held by Gen. Zaroubaleff's corps, resemble the homes of cliff dwellers. They are pierced with caves, which are warm and comfortable for the soldiers at night. Gen. Oganofak has for a fortnight been living in the cleft of a rock.

Gen. Kuropatkin continues in personal command of the army until the new generals arrive, when he will direct the operations from a central point.

In the battle of Shahke river, one Russian corps alone lost 273 officers and 7,150 men.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 1.—It is believed here that the second battle on the Shakhe river will prove to be as much bigger and more serious than the first, as the first was more serious than the battle of Liao Yang. Gen. Kuropatkin is pitted against a Japanese force stronger, even despite its recent losses, than that first opposing his southern advance.

Dispatches indicate the resumption of fighting on both extremities of the Russian front, from Bentsiaputze on the extreme east, to Sinchinpo, which is west of the Shakhe river, where that stream bends south after crossing the railroad. This probably constitutes the extreme Russian west, making the battle front about the same as when Gen. Kuropatkin began his southern movement.

The latest reports from Port Arthur are by no means encouraging. Gen. Stoessel is making a good defense, but the Japanese are approaching by parallels confessedly close to important Russian fortifications. While this form of attack is less spectacular and less costly in men than repeated assault, it is no less conclusive in ultimate results, demanding a sleepless defense and being almost impossible to frustrate.

RUSSIANS LEAVE VIGO.

Baltic Squadron Sails from Spanish Port Leaving Four Officers Behind.

VIGO, Oct. 31.—The whole squadron has sailed from here, leaving only four officers, one from each of the four battleships which opened fire in the North sea during the night of October 21-22. These officers are on their way to St. Petersburg, where they will make a formal report, and subsequently proceed to The Hague and give testimony.

Fearing complications from Great Britain, the crew of the German collier Elizabeth, now here, have refused to proceed to Port Said with the Russian warships. The men were discharged and a Spanish crew was engaged.

ALGIERS, Oct. 31.—Three Russian torpedo boat destroyers arrived here today. They will remain 24 hours to coal.

TANGIER, MOROCCO, Oct. 31.—Vice Admiral Charles Beresford arrived today on a torpedo boat, paid a brief visit to the British legation and soon left to rejoin his flagship, the Majestic.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—The British naval force now at Gibraltar is composed of 14 battleships, 15 first-class armored and other cruisers and a strong flotilla of torpedo boat destroyers.

Japanese Spies Everywhere.

HURL HAND GRENADES WITH DEADLY SKILL

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHEFOO, Oct. 31.—A steamer which has just arrived here from Niuchwang reports having heard heavy firing at Port Arthur last night and today until she was out of earshot, indicating a continuance of the battle which began October 24 in a preliminary manner, and developed yesterday into the third attempt of the Japanese to secure a commanding position.

October 24 the Japanese opened fire with their artillery along the whole line. The bombardment continued furiously until the afternoon of October 26, when the Russian guns on Etse mountain, Antse mountain and Rihiung mountain became briefly silent.

At 4 o'clock that afternoon a regiment of Japanese swept out from behind a recently captured hill adjacent to Rihiung mountain and advanced on the Russian trenches. The Russians stuck to their posts till the Japanese were within a few yards, both sides hurling hand grenades at each other. The Japanese infantry are now using mechanical devices which enable them to throw grenades with great accuracy and rapidity.

In the meanwhile another body of Japanese assaulted the trenches on the slope of Rihiung mountain, where the ascent became almost perpendicular. The Russian trenches seamed the slope. To advance against them over an unbroken slope which was mined, even without Russian resistance would have been a difficult task, but the slope had been torn up, great holes having been blown in it. The Japanese availed themselves of these indentations, which offered combined foothold and protection against bullets.

In the meantime the fire of all their available artillery was directed against the Russian trenches, the enemy eventually retiring, whereupon the Japanese in 30 minutes constructed trenches sufficient to shield themselves.

One company of Japanese, with remarkable coolness, executed with automatic exactness various maneuvers for the purpose of securing shelter, as if on parade.

That night the Russians made a sortie, but the Japanese had in the meanwhile brought up machine guns, with which the attack was repulsed.

Owing to the constant shelling of Port Arthur the Russian ships there maintain low pressure steam so as to enable them frequently to change their positions. Since October 6 the Retvizan, Poltava and Pereaviet have been often hit and one steamer used in sweeping for mines was sunk.

MILLIONS FOR WAR.

Nearly Four Hundred Will Be Asked from Japanese Diet—Methods for Raising It.

TOKYO, Oct. 31.—Preliminary estimates of the budget, covering January, February and March, 1905, and the fiscal year commencing in April next, have been completed and will be submitted to the diet at its meeting November 25. The expenses are estimated at $385,000,000 and the ordinary expenses at $65,000,000.

It is proposed to provide for the war expenses by increasing the taxation by $45,000,000, by retrenchment in the administrative expenses and by the suspension of public works to the amount of $35,000,000, also to raise the balance—$305,000,000—by loans.

VETERAN CALLED AFTER PRAYER

BODY WRAPPED IN THE FLAG

As the sound of taps, blown by a Hallowe'en festive maker, floated upon the air in Fifth avenue last night, Capt. Hugh Adams, a prominent veteran of the civil war, responded to the last roll call. Capt. Adams had just recited the chaplain's prayer at the opening of a meeting in the hall of Union Veteran Legion, encampment No. 1, when the music with which he became familiar on many battle fields came to the third floor of the building at 437 Fifth avenue.

Hardly had the sound of his voice died away when from the street came the call. Adams gently leaned forward in his chair and a friend of his youth, who was seated beside him, heard a gentle sigh. The sigh was quickly followed by another, more severe and alarming. Friends hurried to his side and it was found the veteran had collapsed. Dr. J. P. McCord, surgeon general of the grand encampment, was called and soon afterward Adams breathed his last. Apoplexy was given by Dr. McCord as the cause of death.

Adams had been chaplain of the encampment for the last eight years, and last evening on going to the hall took a seat beside Joseph L. Evans, his boyhood friend. The two talked of the time when they were apprentices on the old Commercial Journal of Pittsburgh, and of the war. Adams had remarked to his companions that he was feeling very well. His made the suddenness of his death a greater shock, and caused a sudden adjournment of the meeting.

Capt. Hugh Adams.

Died With Prayer on Lips.

When the meeting was called to order Adams went to the table in the center of the room and recited the following prayer: "O God, the protector of all that trust in Thee, without whom nothing is strong, nothing is holy, increase and multiply upon us Thy mercies, that Thou, being our ruler and guide, we may pass through things temporal, that we finally lose not things eternal. Grant this for Christ's sake. Amen."

He then walked to his seat and hardly had his listeners raised their heads before they were summoned to his side. He was gently laid on a cot and in a few moments he breathed his last. With loyal hands the members spread the national flag, which he had followed on many hard-fought fields, over his body. Word was sent to Adams' son at his home in Wilkinsburg, and an ambulance was called, in which the body was removed to Samson's chapel in Sixth avenue.

The police were notified of the death, and several officers were detailed to open a passageway in front of the building for the ambulance. The spectacle of the wagon suddenly appearing among the festive makers attracted the people in an awful crush resulted. When the body was brought to the street, Adams' comrades, without prearrangement, fell in line on each side of the basket holding the body, and started between the two lines to the ambulance.

Veterans Were Swept Aside.

On either side the merrymakers were aware of what was taking place, and in a concerted rush the passageway was broken. People were hurled with violence against each other, and the police guard was demoralized. Those who knew of the tragic end of the well-known veteran tried to help the police to push back the crowd, but they were also swept aside.

Walking with bowed heads the war-worn veterans of a generation ago were swept from their places, and some of them were heard so violently that the lost their grip. The body was jammed against the rear wheel of the ambulance, and the undertakers had much trouble to prevent it from being torn from their grasp. It was finally placed in the ambulance and taken away, the horses being driven into the crowd before the people would give room.

Adams was born in Ireland 63 years ago and came to this country in his youth. In 1858 he became an apprentice in the composing room of the old Commercial Journal in this city. After finishing his trade he went west. He enlisted in the Union army on January 8, 1862, as a private in Company C, Sixty-fifth Illinois volunteers. He participated in many battles, among which were Nashville and Harpers Ferry. At the latter place he was taken prisoner while with the Army of the James. He was paroled and at the close of the war he was honorably discharged on April 18, 1865, as captain, having been promoted to that rank while in the field.

Adjutant Completes the Data.

Adams joined the Union Veteran Legion on August 11, 1886, and after he was pronounced dead last night Adjutant J. L. Keiser completed his war record in the encampment roll book with the following data: "Died October 31, 1904, at 7:30 p. m."

After the close of the war Adams came to Pittsburgh and took up his residence on the head of Van Braam street, Sixth ward. He secured employment as a printer on the old Commercial and in 1865 he was made foreman of the composing room. He continued in this position till some years after the paper was consolidated with the old Gazette. He took an active part in Republican politics, and for some years was custodian of public school supplies, with headquarters at the Fifth Avenue high school. He also served as a director for about eight years on the school board of the Sixth ward.

Some years ago he removed to Wilkinsburg, his late home being at 556 Franklin avenue. Recently he had been engaged in the real estate business. He is survived by two sons and three daughters.

Firemen Saved Municipal Building.

A two-story frame barn, adjoining the new municipal building in Turtle Creek, was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning, entailing a loss of about $600. The roof and window frames of the municipal building were scorched, but the building was saved through the efforts of the Turtle Creek volunteer fire department.

PIE CONTEST

In explanation as to the method of awarding the prizes in the pie contest on Saturday, the judges selected say that it was the only equitable way out of the dilemma, as it was an utter impossibility to pass judgment on each separate pie in the sea of pies in the contest, and while many ways were suggested by different ones of the judges, yet there was always a serious flaw that might be looked upon with suspicion of favoritism, so that in the end the judges decided that the fairest means of settling the question was to place the numbers of all of the contestants in a box and thoroughly shuffle them up. Then cover the box and leave an aperture large enough to put in the hand and withdraw a number, the first one to represent the first prize, the second the second prize and up to the 20th. During the drawing all the Pickering firm and employes were excluded from the room, so as to leave the judges free in their work and that no influence could be exerted on them from the outside or from the firm. If you are a subscriber to any of the daily papers and wish to know anything more about the contest, just write to any of the gentlemen below. They had full charge of the drawing. If you are a winner, please bring your number in and get your prize. If you live out of town, mail it to us, we will ship prize to you. No pie contest next year. So many good pies that it is a hard matter to judge them.

COPY.

We, the committee selected to settle the pie contest, after thoroughly canvassing the question, decided it was absolutely impossible to judge 1,800 pies on their merits, and as the only fair means to all contestants of settling the question, the numbers were all placed in a box and the following numbers drawn out for the prizes, rotating from 1 to 20, viz:—

1st Prize, No. 1717.	6th Prize, No. 881.	11th Prize, No. 1709.	16th Prize, No. 1665.
2d Prize, No. 1497.	7th Prize, No. 571.	12th Prize, No. 1505.	17th Prize, No. 930.
3d Prize, No. 1606.	8th Prize, No. 1504.	13th Prize, No. 749.	18th Prize, No. 538.
4th Prize, No. 709.	9th Prize, No. 1422.	14th Prize, No. 753.	19th Prize, No. 497.
5th Prize, No. 1294.	10th Prize, No. 905.	15th Prize, No. 1633.	20th Prize, No. 704.

In one of our show windows today passersby will notice a very elegant brass bed. The price of that bed is $500.00. It is cheap at the price. Perhaps it may have a little too much hand-chasing to suit every taste, but all in all we think it one of the handsomest beds of brass that we ever saw.

This brass bed has company—other beds not nearly so expensive, but each of them blessed with considerable beauty.

In our fourth floor, West, the home of brass beds, is where variety is to be seen—the prices graduating from $500.00 down to a splendid brass bed for as little as $25.00. The most popular priced brass beds are those around $35.00, $40.00, $45.00 and $50.00.

How about the requisites for brass beds?

First the mattress. The best is the one of hair. We make these to order. They are made in our own workshops under special supervision of an expert foreman, the work done by thoroughly skilled mattress makers. We pay special attention to the ticking, using none but best grades. We make to order five different grades of hair mattresses, each of them containing pure hair. The general price range is from $6.00 for cot size up to the finest at $53.00. We make an extra super grade for single beds at $24.00, for double beds at $35.00.

The next best Mattress is the Yaprak, filled with a fine vegetable fibre. Very soft and springy. $11.50.

After the foregoing choice is among our Cotton Felt Mattresses, and we have these at $8.00, $9.00, $11.00, $13.50 and $16.00.

Fine Imported Umbrellas for Men.

The finer umbrellas, which men seem to prefer, come from London. And they are very English looking, substantial to a degree, with a wooden shank instead of the more common steel rod. However, for men who prefer the steel rods, we have a very good assortment.

Either trimmed or plain natural handles. Also handles of bamboo, malacca, acacia, whangee, steppe-partridge and weichsel.

$6.00 to $10.00 each.

On the Subject of Heating Stoves.

The subject of heating stoves is a mighty important one this time of the year. As soon as the weather becomes cool the family form pleasant groups around the fireside. To such people and to everyone, in fact, a heating stove that does not "draw" or does not do its work correctly means and endless amount of dissatisfaction.

In the Basement Housefurnishing Department we have everything that can add to the comfort of warmth, from the little Block Gas Heater at 65c, to the most elaborate Parlor Stoves and Radiators.

Stag or Yale Heaters, 80c.

Copper Reflector Stoves, $2.00 up to $7.00.

Asbestos Heaters, $3.00 up to $14.50.

Tuesday, November 1, 1904.

The new movement for Greater Pittsburgh, which Mr. Kline of the Fifth legislative district has in hand, is rationally conceived and it proposes to deal with the problem along lines which promise satisfactory results. The difficulties as well as the advantages of the proposition are receiving due consideration. Mr. Kline is entirely right in holding that taking in the whole county will mean a new charter and a revision of our whole system of government, including the representative arrangements. The change cannot be made in a hurry, nor is any haste contemplated, but action will be carefully matured before finality. The movement has the support of the Republican party organization and its eventual success may be confidently expected.

Pittsburgh welcomes the British iron and steel manufacturers with a cordiality born of mutual tastes. Many of the members of the institute have been here before. Some of them were here in 1890. To these Pittsburgh will present a changed aspect, for it has been making progress rather rapidly during the past 14 years. The changes in the city itself, however, are surpassed by the changes in and additions to Pittsburgh iron and steel industries. Old works have been enlarged and improved; new mills have been established; processes have been improved. There should be something in these changes to interest the visitors, and for the remainder, Pittsburgh hospitality will be below par if the time is not made to pass pleasantly for the distinguished gentlemen who honor the city by their presence.

It was announced that the fair would this year demonstrate the success of the air ships and with this end in view large money prizes were offered for aerial races from St. Louis. But the response of entries was disappointing and the climax came with the fizzle of Santos-Dumont, from whom much was expected. Since the destruction of his air ship there have been several attempts made to launch vessels, but with indifferent success. Yesterday there was an ascent which will give some encouragement to enthusiasts in air navigation. The Baldwin ship rose over 2,000 feet and was successfully directed against the wind so that it was brought back to the point from which it ascended. The fragile machinery did not break down and the owner was so encouraged that he announced his intention of competing in the long-distance race which the fair managers hoped might attract many contestants. Something will have been accomplished when an air ship can be directed, but then the question of carrying weight and the endurance of the machinery will need to be developed.

It is to be deplored that there is such delay in the passage of the ordinance for the installation of water meters. The filtration commission of 1896 laid great stress upon the importance of beginning this work promptly, and the first step has yet to be taken. It will require years to meter the service and yet that is essential to stop the waste of water and relieve people of the high water rates to which they are now subject. The great mass of people are now paying many times over the cost of the water they use while a comparatively small minority are paying a great deal less than they should. The per capita consumption upon which the present rates are based is far greater than the actual consumption of the great mass of householders; and if they paid only for what they use their water bills would be much smaller even if they used more than they do now. Director Bigelow says that a man who now pays from $20 to $22 a year would pay only about $8 a year under the meter system. The experience of Cleveland shows that even a greater reduction may be accomplished, as a water bill of $4 a year has been found enough to cover the consumption of the ordinary dwelling house.

The situation in Manchuria has become very mysterious. The opposing armies are in contact and each are busy constructing fortifications as if expecting the other to take the offensive. The Japanese have apparently changed their strategy and there is as yet no indications of their present purpose. In many respects they are behaving as if it were sufficient for them to hold what they had gained, including the important Yental coal mines. And yet Japan can hardly be satisfied to close the campaign without gaining possession of Mukden. It may be that the event for which Marshal Oyama is waiting is the fall of Port Arthur, which would release a large army for his immediate use. Reports from Port Arthur state that the Japanese are pushing their investment to the finish and are getting close to the point at which the last forts held by the Russians can be effectively attacked. Meanwhile there is no weakening in Gen. Stoessel's heroic defense, which will be memorable in history. The severity of the task which the Japanese are carrying through regardless of the cost in human life, gives an idea of the formidable undertaking which confronts Russia if ever she expects to regain Port Arthur. She will have to defeat Japan by sea as well as develop superior strength on land. It is safe to say that the task is entirely beyond her powers and that Japan will become as much of a fixture at Port Arthur as England at Gibraltar.

They Simply Won't Have It.

The letter from City Clerk Hassler, which we publish elsewhere upon this page, makes a valuable contribution to public knowledge concerning the recent franchise raid. Mr. Hassler admits the truth of the charge that the batch of franchises was passed in pursuance of a deal. He says that it was necessary to pass the street railway ordinances in order to secure the passage of the Duquesne Light Company's ordinance and thus obtain a "strong promise of competition and lower rates" in the supply of electric light. He justifies the refusal of councils to exact compensation, although elected under pledges to do that very thing, by saying that the members "have been confronted by conditions which have compelled them to modify their academical views." No doubt, and we think that those conditions deserve investigation.

So far as Mr. Hassler's letter is an argument instead of a confession it is based upon these assumptions: First—That it is unjust to exact compensation for loops and extensions while the main lines pay nothing; and second, that it is necessary to forego compensation in order to obtain public service.

Point No. 1 is really too absurd for discussion. No one, not even a Citizens party man, would argue in the case of a private owner who had leased property without due compensation, that he had no right to be more provident in new leases, and that in the case of applications for additional concessions by old leaseholders, he should not seize the opportunity to readjust their entire relations upon a more equitable basis. There is no question of justice involved. The city has the right to exact all it can get and at the same time secure public service. The very way in which the argument is stated is an unwitting admission of the very situation of which the public complains, namely, that councils act as the representatives of the corporations and not of the public. It is the duty of councilmen to look after the interests of the city and let the corporations look after their own interests, which they are abundantly able to do.

Point No. 2 is flatly contradicted by notorious facts. There is abundance of capital willing and eager to invest in public utilities and pay for the privilege, and all that prevents such action is that councils simply will not have it. Any application for a franchise which proposes compensation to the public is sure to be defeated. Take this very matter of competition in electric lighting which is made the excuse of giving away a batch of street railway franchises! That might have been had years ago with compensation to the city had councils been willing, as a company doing business in Allegheny had for years an application before councils, with an offer of compensation for the privilege of extending its lines into Pittsburgh. But the very fact that it was a going concern that would use the franchise itself, and was willing to pay the city, caused those who know the way things are done to anticipate that that application would never get through, and it never did.

There is nothing whatever in the geographical location or the topography of Pittsburgh, or the cost of materials here, that sets it apart from other cities as a place where capital will avoid opportunities which it seeks elsewhere. Baltimore has an extensive and growing street railway system by reason of a municipal policy which says to capital, "Come along and build your lines and we will give you all needful facilities provided you pay the city 3 per cent upon your gross receipts." Baltimore now receives about $400,000 a year from that source, and at the same time secures ample conveniences for the people.

Surely it will not be contended that railways can be built as cheaply in Toronto, Can., as in Pittsburgh, and there the city receives $800 per mile of single track annually and in addition a percentage of the gross receipts ranging from 8 per cent upon the first million up to 20 per cent of all receipts over three millions a year. Moreover, the company sells six tickets for a quarter, and at hours when people are going to or from their work eight tickets are sold for a quarter. For school children, during their hours of travel, the rate is cut to ten tickets for a quarter. Moreover, the company is required to lay new lines upon such streets as the city authorities shall designate, so that the railway system expands with the growth of the city. And yet the company makes money and its securities rank high. The capitalization is, however, small in comparison with the Pittsburgh standard, for there is not excessive franchise values to be represented in the issue of capital stock. One of the great defects of the Pittsburgh system of giving away the public rights is that it leads to such inordinate capitalization that the companies are compelled to squeeze the traffic to the uttermost to meet their obligations upon huge emissions of watered stocks.

Not only is Pittsburgh giving away privileges of enormous value, but it is giving them away in a manner which prevents the city from obtaining facilities of which it stands greatly in need. Our street railway system ought to be greatly extended. We ought to have a number of cross-town lines. We could get new lines without the least difficulty if councils would open the business to capital upon fixed rates of public compensation. The difficulty is that it is the settled determination of the interests which control councils that Pittsburgh utilities shall be a close preserve, and that nothing in the way of public compensation shall be permitted.

Last Week of the Campaign.

The national campaign will practically close this week and a week from today the American people will vote on the question whether they will retain the present administration for four years. Indications favor the Republicans, and the most skilled observers predict their success. The attempt of the Democrats to arouse the public and dispel the seeming indifference of the voters has been a failure, for the average man seems to be satisfied that executive acts have not threatened the Constitution nor modern achievements run counter to precedents of the forefathers.

Judge Parker has entered on a week of campaigning and last night he repeated his charges of reckless rule by Republicans. It will interest manufacturers to read his appeal in behalf of President Cleveland's first administration, which "promoted and enlarged" every legitimate interest. The attacks on the chairman of the Republican committee and the insinuation that he is blackmailing corporations will probably continue unanswered, as Mr. Cortelyou announces that he does not intend to take notice of them. In the meantime the chief executive has maintained a dignified silence as befitting the office, while his associate on the ticket has surprised old campaigners by the vigor of his addresses.

There is reason for rejoicing that the talk of intimidation and corruption at the polls about which we once heard a great deal, especially as election day approached, has almost disappeared. There is an occasional outburst from West Virginia that the Democrats are plotting to steal the state, and even in New York it is intimated that the attempts to colonize voters continue, but in most of the states there is comparative quiet. It is also a matter for satisfaction that business conditions which often exhibit the effects of uncertainty are little disturbed by this campaign. This is undoubtedly due to confidence that there will be no change in the administration.

Court House Changes.

The Gazette willingly gives space this morning to an open letter from James Evans, member of the board of county commissioners, replying to an open letter from Mr. D. L. Browne—published in The Gazette several days ago—affecting the proposition to alter the court house. Mr. Evans' letter gives evidence of careful thought and mature deliberation. He is opposed to the plans for superimposed stories on the court house for reasons that are artistic, economical and practical. He repels effectively Commissioner Mercer's plea that all objections are purely sentimental, for Mr. Evans takes a thoroughly business stand.

Mr. Evans does not rest content with opposition to the plan proposed, but offers a better plan. He points out clearly how the increased business of the county may easily be accommodated in the present building for probably another ten years. This can be done by certain interior rearrangement at very small cost as compared with the outlay of $2,000,000 or more on the wrong design prepared by Architect Osterling. Then when the real necessity for more room comes the county should be prepared to supply it by removal of the offices to a building, constructed for that purpose on the south side of Diamond street. In every respect Mr. Evans' letter is a valuable contribution to the discussion of the court house changes, now going on.

It would be wise for the county to begin preparations for the new building that will eventually be needed. It already owns the property at the corner of Ross and Diamond streets, and, as Mr. Evans suggests, should acquire the remainder fronting the south side of the court house. The rapid growth of the county may compel construction in less than ten years, though certainly not in less than five. It is always expensive to be in a hurry and the formation of a plan in the near future would prevent the possibility of being hurried at the finish. This procedure will avoid the project to destroy one of the finest architectural effects in the country. It will also save the taxpayers large unnecessary expense.

The Municipal Lobbyist.

Mayor Harrison of Chicago has taken no little satisfaction in his appointment of a representative to look after the interests of the city before the city council. He is to watch every measure before the board and enlighten the voters on its significance, so they "may know as much about such business as the members of the council themselves." The man who was formerly assistant secretary of the Voters' league was chosen in the place and he is expected to counteract the influence of the lobbyists kept at city hall by the corporations seeking favors or the prevention of certain legislation.

Much good is predicted from this movement, for its friends now announce that there is "someone to look after the interests of the city," which were before neglected. But what opinion of a councilman must one have to entertain such an idea about the need of the city for protection? Does not the member of the city government take an oath of loyalty and is he not supposed to defend it against those who seek to take advantage of it? The idea of employing such counsel for the city suggests that the councilmen are mere judges, not necessarily pledged to support the city, but holding a position non-committal to its friends or enemies.

The supposition has been that city officials were chosen to represent the municipality and act in its interest at all times, whether it is a question of borrowing money at the lowest rate of interest or loaning it at the highest market rate. The average voter has not supposed it necessary to hire a man to watch the official whom he elects to represent him. The implication would be that the councilman was ready to betray the interests of his constituents and needed a restraining hand to guide him. If the official has any civic pride he will regard himself as the lobbyist for the city to counteract all the scheming lobbyists of corporations. If he does not consider his trust in that light, he is unworthy of the office.

Greater Pittsburgh is to be taken up by the Republican organization. Good. It has been taken up by the chamber of commerce and it ought to be taken up by everybody. Then it ought to become a fact.

It is said the board of inquiry into the North sea incident may be composed of one Russian, one Frenchman and one Briton. It would be better to have one or two disinterested persons added to that list.

Talked of in Gotham

By FRANK A. PARKER.

(By Private Wire to The Gazette.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Continued irregularity marked the running of the subway trains today. Some of the expresses required 30 minutes to run from Ninety-sixth street to the Brooklyn bridge station, instead of the longedfor "15 minutes to Harlem." The express service before 8 o'clock apparently ran under no regular headway, trains being 10 and 20 minutes late. The express which should leave Ninety-sixth street at 7:25 o'clock was only a minute or two late, but after that train left it was 7:50 o'clock before another express pulled out. In the meantime eight local trains passed the station. The running time of the express from Ninety-sixth street to Brooklyn bridge was just 30 minutes, it being 20 minutes after 8 o'clock when the bridge was reached. Three local trains of the eight that had passed at Ninety-sixth street were passed by the express during the trip. Police Commissioner McAdoo this afternoon announced that he had reduced the subway detail to two-thirds of its original number, and that he hoped by the middle or latter part of the week to be able to withdraw most of the men, as by that time he believed traffic would have become normal.

"Election day will take the services of every man in the department," said Mr. McAdoo, "and the company will have to go it alone, despite the fact that it will be a heavy day for them."

A new rule made by the commissioner affects the traffic on the Columbus circle, the crossing of Fifty-ninth street and Eighth avenue in the future all traffic going north or south on Eighth avenue, or east or west on Sixty-ninth street, must keep to the right hand curb all the way round to the continuation of the street on which they wish to go.

Maurice Barrymore Not Dying.

Notwithstanding reports that he is dying, it was said today at the Long Island Home in Amityville, that Maurice Barrymore's condition was unchanged. He is apparently no nearer death now than he has been for several years past. Barrymore is not at the sanitarium in Amityville, as reported, but at the Long Island Home, where he has been a member for the past two years. He is apparently in good health and seems to enjoy the ease and comfort that he has well earned. Report had it that Barrymore was dying. He had strange hallucinations of the stage, and fancied that he was once again the actor who won applause as Rawdon Crawley, and as Mr. Wilding in "Captain Swift." That there is any immediate danger of death, however, seems erroneous.

First Subway Pickpocket.

Central office Detective Sergeants Reith and McMullen in the Tombs court, before Magistrate Whitman, today were complainants in the first pickpocket case in connection with the subway. The prisoner said he was Charles Brown. The detectives declare they saw Brown with his hand in the overcoat pocket of a man on the Forty-second street station platform. The citizen had declined to come to court because there had been nothing of value in his pocket. The prisoner was discharged with the words of caution: "Young man, in the future confine your operations to above ground."

Objects to Barber Sign.

Mrs. John Mayer, who occupied the ground floor of the Roxbury apartment house, was before Magistrate Baker in the Harlem court today on a summons obtained by Louis A. Dukain, the owner of the building, who stated to the court she had cut down a barber pole, which was in front of the house as a sign for a tonsorialist to whom the basement of the building had been rented two weeks ago. He said the barber had erected a pole in front of his store, about 10 days ago, but that it was removed by the bureau of encumbrances. The barber then put up another, this time inside the court yard, and that Mrs. Mayer had cut the rope with which it was tied. Mrs. Mayer did not deny that she had removed the pole, but said that it was objectionable, in that it might lead people to think that she was in the business herself. She said that she had requested the owner to have the sign removed, but that he declined, and that she had taken it upon herself to do so. The hearing was put over till tomorrow.

Woman Arouses the Voters.

It wasn't a man who aroused 500 voters at the noonday political meeting at No. 501 Broadway to intense patriotic fervor, but a woman, Miss Helen Varick Boswell of Washington, D. C. "Three cheers for the lady," was the characteristic greeting which welcomed Miss Boswell to the platform, while her speech on the preservation of the home, for which she asked their support of Theodore Roosevelt, was broken every few seconds with applause. After summing up the events of the last eight years, Miss Boswell asked her audience if they thought the country was worse or better off than previously.

"A million times better off," came voices, while the speaker continued.

"Well, I know what the women think. Our homes are more prosperous. They are happier and you men can vote for a continuance of all these good things if you will. Now, aren't you going to keep on for the sake of the women, if not for yourselves?"

"You bet we are," called out one man, while shouts and applause came from other parts of the hall.

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Well, what do you think of Hallowe'en now?

If you had your own way would you suppress it, or modify it, or let it go on as it is going?

And if it goes on as it has been what will it be a decade hence?

Why not turn it into a well regulated Mardi Gras or something of that sort? In this way it may be regulated to some extent.

The fact is that people must be given opportunities to break out in an orderly way or they will break out themselves without regard to order.

As a rule the tendency is to disorder unless the amusements of the people are regulated. This can only be done by fixing their entertainments definite character and purpose. Without a definite purpose and intelligent regulation a crowd of people is almost certain to develop into a mob and become more or less disorderly.

The better way to control a mob is from within, and not from without. By being in it, and a part of it, you can lead if you shout loud enough and keep well to the front, for a mob always follows the most demonstrative leader. When once in the lead you can so direct it that it will expend its force with the least possible damage.

* * * * *

Mardi Gras festivals, which have become attractive features in some of our southern cities, occur on Shrove Tuesday, the last day before lent. These are gotten up in the most extravagant style, are more or less artistic, and draw great numbers of people from far and from near.

Only cities like New Orleans and Memphis can well afford to indulge in carnivals that cost so much in time, labor and money. Other cities which thrive by manufacturing cannot spare the time devoted to arranging, rehearsing and exhibiting displays of this character. Manufacturing plants and business houses are compelled to close on account of their workmen taking part in the parades and various carnival features.

It was on this account that the Oriole festival established in Baltimore some years ago by Mayor Pangborn, was discontinued. While it drew crowds from neighboring cities, towns and countryside, the interruption of business entailed losses far in excess of the gross gains.

One failure in attempting to establish regular festivals should not discourage those who have the welfare of the people at heart. The people will have 'em, you know; therefore let them be so regulated that they will aid civilization and not retard it.

* * * * *

In the good old days in merry England when churchmen were held to be guides and examples to the people Shrove Tuesday was a day of terror.

Instead of shooting at turkeys, as was once a universal holiday custom here, they tied a cock to a stake and shied a broomstick at it at a penny a shy, the schoolmaster getting the money, also the brutally murdered rooster.

One among the jolly sports was to tie a hen to the back of a man and fasten a bell or two about his neck, and start him through a crowd of blindfolded men and boys armed with sticks. The game was to kill the hen, guided only by the sound of the bells. An old account of this sport says it gave occasion for much merriment as the man was as often hit as the hen, and squawked as loud, while the men with sticks sometimes hit each other.

That would be real funny, don't you think?

"A shroven, a shroven, we become a shroven," was the cry of the gamins as they went from house to house. If they were not given something, or were told to be gone they would pain stones, sticks and pieces of broken crockery against the doors and windows, sometimes doing great damage. None were exempt from being shroven, not even those of royal blood.

* * * * *

"Let me write their songs and I care not who schools the children," wrote one who knew human nature well. Sentiment combined with melody continues long in both mind and heart.

How much more effective it would be to write the plays and direct the amusements of children, for their tastes are according to their environment. With romping plays without coarseness, boisterous without roughness, strenuous without excess and sociable without familiarity and ill manners, there can be no reasonable doubt that coming generations would be greatly improved over the present.

This is the kindergarten idea, but it is too soon dropped. Why not continue it on through the primary grades of our common schools? Indeed, manners and conduct should be taught through all grades, and given particular attention in high school, for if there is one particular thing in which our young people are lacking it is good manners.

Anyway, something ought to be done to curb the roughness and vulgarity which characterizes our holiday sports and entertainments. As things are now the rough, tough element takes the lead on these occasions, thereby setting bad examples to all who take part in the festivities.

* * * * *

Are there no ways and means by which children can have lots of fun without indulging in coarse and vulgar sports? Surely, if only grown-up folks would take the interest in them that they should.

How much of a child's education do you suppose is gained on the streets in songs and sports and amusements? More than in school, do you think?

Compare the time actually spent in school with that spent elsewhere, and take into account the fact that children are more deeply interested in plays, songs and sports than in their studies, and you may be led, unwillingly, no doubt, to the conclusion that the lesser part is obtained in school.

This is an element of the educational problem that is usually overlooked, and yet you see how essential it is to a correct solution.

About the fact of the matter is that our schools do not educate—lead out—as much as do the homes, the streets and social environments.

Would it not be well, therefore, for us to take into account these everyday things which play such a prominent part in the education of children and in later years determine the characters of the men and women who shall be the fathers and the mothers of coming generations?

With the sights and sounds of last night still clear and fresh before you it would be well for you to think this over, and think it over seriously, for surely it is a matter fit for serious thought.

Spain's New Sunday Law.

(From the Zion Herald.)

A new Spanish Sunday law, passed in March last, has been interpreted and applied by a commission on social reforms, and the conclusions of the commission have just been approved by a royal decree. This "repose of the Sabath law," as it is called, prohibits Sunday work—with numerous exceptions. These exceptions include various means of transportation, gas and electric light plants, hotels and places of amusement, industries using perishable raw materials and all shops in which food is sold. Bull fights on Sunday, however, are strictly prohibited.

Political Drift.

No cheers, no many-voiced murmurs of applause, greeted Charles S. Deneen when he entered the Masonic temple at Chicago to deliver a campaign address. But in spite of the unprecedented silence his audience was vibrating with enthusiasm. A hundred index fingers were thrown up into the air with a sharp, twisting jerk, and a series of swift, subtle motions of the followed the gesture. "Hurrah for Deneen" was being expressed in the sign language of deaf mutes. The Republican candidate for governor took the platform and faced an assembly of more than 100 voters whose silent eyes showed a keen interest in political issues, but whose tongues were speechless and whose ears heard not. Mr. Deneen began to talk, not with the usual tent meeting volume of sound, but as if dictating to a stenographer in his office. By his side stood a bright-faced little woman in brown, and it was upon her, not upon the speaker, that the eyes of the audience were riveted, for her fingers, nimbic as those of a virtuoso at the piano, were expressing Mr. Deneen's thoughts as rapidly as he gave them voice. Whenever the speaker made a telling point, intelligent applause followed; whenever he indulged in wit, smiles were swift to come. But without the aid of that unique interpreter, Miss Frank Chester, wife of a deaf mute, although herself unhandicapped with the lack of hearing and speech, he might as well have talked to empty chairs.

The Harvard College Preps. club has issued its campaign number which gives the reasons for supporting Roosevelt, among which is the following: "Harvard men are going to vote for Theodore Roosevelt here and throughout the country in great numbers, because he is Theodore Roosevelt; because he is a man as well as a president, and a man whom we thoroughly respect, honor and love, a Harvard man of that strong and individualistic type which is the pride of Harvard to foster, a college man who has carried his education into the forum, the ranch and the public service; a real, genuine, hearty, vigorous man, mond of his friends, courteous to his enemies; seeking no quarrel, avoiding no attack; a man singularly open in his disposition, who consults widely, matures slowly and expresses his final conviction with such energy that timid people call him impulsive, a man upon whom the verdict of his country on the 8th of November will be the same as the criticism of Abraham Lincoln on General Grant: 'I can't spare that man—he does things.'"

"The fight for the senatorial election in Connecticut," says a New Haven dispatch, "ever since it started this summer, when Gen. Hawley was known to be in no physical condition to go again to Washington, narrowed down to two candidates—ex-Gov. Morgan G. Bulkeley of Hartford and State's Attorney Samuel Fessenden of Stamford. Conditions now seem to point certainly to the election of Gov. Bulkeley. The latter has an extremely strong following in the larger counties, and is held in high regard by those supporters of Gen. Hawley at whose request he withdrew from the last contest Gen. Hawley made for his seat. Moreover, Gov. Bulkeley represents the present ascendancy of faction in his party in Connecticut."

Mr. Samuel Dixon of Fayette county, W. Va., one of the heaviest coal operators of that state, makes confident predictions as to the success of the Republican candidates, state and national in West Virginia. "I am absolutely certain," he said, "that Roosevelt will get 15,000 more votes in our state than Parker, and Mr. Dawson will beat the Democratic nominee for governor, though, probably, by not quite such a plurality. The Republicans are harmonious, confident and aggressive. At first some were disposed to resent the failure of Teeter to get the gubernatorial nomination, but this feeling has ben healed, and Dawson is getting the hearty support of all Republicans. The labor vote of West Virginia is on our side this year. Labor is in great demand, and the men are getting splendid wages. In the coal fields the miners are making more money than anybody, and are well satisfied to stay with the party whose continuance in power is necessary to a maintenance of the good conditions now existing."

"The very lowest and most conservative estimate of the result in Indiana would give the state to the Republicans by 20,000 votes," says Hon. James S. Bareus of Terre Haute. Mr. Bareus is a state senator, a successful newspaper man, and he commands the confidence and esteem of a wide circle of friends in his own and other states.

"Mr. Bryan has undoubtedly done good to the Democratic cause by his recent speeches, but they will not avail to place Indiana in the Parker and Davis column. Outside of the fact that the state is Republican under normal conditions, the personality of Col. Roosevelt would decide the election in his favor."

CITY CLERK HASSLER EXPLAINS.

The Reasons Which Actuated Councils in the Recent Franchise Raids.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

I have read with interest your editorial entitled "The Franchise Raid Completed." Permit me to give to you some reasons why I think you have done an injustice to the majority in common council. While it is true that the Citizens party members were elected on platforms pledging the requirement of compensation from corporations for the use of the city streets, the members, on entering councils and taking up the work of practical legislation have been confronted by conditions which have compelled them to modify their academic views. The old administration, in control of municipal affairs for many years, granted franchises, without compensation, for the use of most of our highways. The corporation operating the street railways pays nothing for the grants it enjoys. The argument of the administration members, amply set forth in common council but neglected by the reports to the press, has been that it is unjust to require compensation for a short distance or connection while the main lines pay nothing, and that the proper way to exact compensation is by general ordinance, levying license taxes on all the street railway lines. Both branches of councils are possessed by a strong sentiment in favor of such general taxation, if it can be effected legally. The Citizens party members in the last councils supported an ordinance levying such license taxes by the flaccid tax ordinance. That ordinance has been declared void by our common pleas court and an appeal is now pending. Until that appeal is decided it would be useless to attempt another ordinance for such general taxation. If that ordinance be sustained by the supreme court the city will receive a just revenue from the street railway franchises. If the ordinance be overturned another, on more conservative lines, will be supported by the councilmen who have pledged themselves to exact compensation.

It is set forth in all standard works on political economy that all operations of government are successfully accomplished by compromise. There has been a compromise in the handling of the franchises recently considered by councils, and it is not unreasonable for an administration to support such compromise. There has been grievous complaint about the cost of lighting the public streets and there is strong promise of competition and lower rates in the enactment of the franchise ordinance for the Duquesne Light Company. To secure the passage of that ordinance it became necessary to pass the ordinances for the new lines of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, while at the same time the argument may be made in favor of the latter ordinances that they will give to the company better facilities for the handling of passenger transportation in the city. I do not believe that the members of council were influence by the railway company interests or that there was any undue influence on the members to secure the passage of the ordinances. Councils were confronted by conditions which they were forced to meet in the most practicable manner presenting itself. I desire merely to show that there are arguments on both sides of this question, and that the arguments in favor of the ordinances fairly appeal to an honest man for his support. Yours respectfully,

E. W. HASSLER.

WILL STRIKE AT TRACTION EVILS

Measures Designed to Improve Service Will Be Introduced in Common Council.

WANT LICENSE FEE INCREASED

Half a dozen measures striking at traction evils will probably be introduced in common council tomorrow night, including an ordinance to increase the annual license fee on street cars, which this year amounted to only $22,146 27. This amount was paid to City Treasurer Steel yesterday. The license fee on street cars is $60 on each car that runs wholly within the city limits, and $30 on each car that runs both inside and outside the city limits. This year there were only 10 cars on which the full $60 tax was paid.

It is said that the company can evade the $60 tax and secure the $30 rate by occasionally running $60 cars on lines outside of the city. The company also obtains exemptions from tax by claiming that about two-thirds of its cars are not operated the entire 24 hours of every day, and a reduction is allowed on these representations. The proposition will be to make the license fee on cars uniform, so as to apply to all cars, whether they run outside the city or not.

Assistant Controller Morrow advocates increasing the car tax to $300 a car a year and a number of councilmen advocating traction reform also favor this figure.

Want Opinion from Solicitor.

It is promised that at tomorrow's meeting a motion will be made having for its purpose the securing of an opinion from the city solicitor defining what power councils and the city authorities have over the traction franchises, whether councils and the mayor can compel satisfactory service and whether councils can revoke the franchises of the street car company for neglect of its duty in not serving the public.

It is the general opinion among councilmen that they have all the law they need in order to proceed against the traction company, but an opinion from the city solicitor is wanted to confirm any action they may take. A member of common council said yesterday he would probably introduce a resolution, directing Director Moore of the department of public safety to stop the overcrowding of cars, and thus put an end to the everyday menace to life and health.

The people of the West End are severely criticising their councilmen for not voting against the transfer amendment when the ordinances of the Pittsburgh Railways Company for downtown loops were passed last week. The West End people are thoroughly in earnest, and it is stated that a large delegation from that section will go to city hall whenever the traction question is to be voted on.

Public Sentiment Is Telling.

The crusade for better traction service is growing and becoming widely popular among all classes. Even councilmen who have time and again voted against any improvements in this direction are beginning to feel the force of public sentiment.

This was shown yesterday in the action of select council passing an ordinance regulating the speed on street cars in various districts of the city. The ordinance was introduced by Max Heidenan. While its provisions are considered of little importance, it received unanimous vote. The speed fixed for the downtown district, below Grant street, is eight miles an hour. In other sections the speed is 12 and 16 miles an hour.

Two measures were presented in select council yesterday afternoon, of one of which Assistant Controller Morrow is the author. Mr. Morrow's bill prohibits passengers standing on platforms of cars, and provides a fine of $5 on every conductor who permits a passenger to stand on a platform.

The other ordinance, which was also prepared by Mr. Morrow, at the request of another person, provides that only five persons shall be seated in a compartment of a summer car and that no person shall stand between the seats. The penalty for a conductor permitting this ordinance to be violated is not more than $10 for each offense and not less than $5. For the passenger the penalty is not more than $5 and not less than $2. These two measures were referred to the public safety committee.

LARGE INCREASE IN STEEL AND IRON EXPORTS

September Foreign Shipments Amounted to $3,837,563 Over Same Month Last Year.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The total steel and iron exports for September, not including ore, amounted to $11,150,815, compared with $7,293,250 in September, 1903. Increase of $3,857,565. For the nine months ending September 30, the total iron and steel exports were $92,365,867, compared with $72,714,360 for the corresponding nine months in 1903, and $78,952,175 for the first nine months of 1902. The September imports of iron and steel were $1,175, compared with $2,362,700 in September, 1903, a decrease of $521,554. For the nine months ending September the total imports were $16,591,000, compared with $34,652,234 in the nine months ending September 30, 1903, and $38,838,237 for the corresponding nine months of 1902. This shows a decrease of over 50 per cent, as compared with a year ago.

EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN.

Sunday Observance Association Giving Sole Attention to Publicity.

The executive committee of the Allegheny County Sabbath association met yesterday to discuss the proposed campaign of education on Sabbath observance, in the distribution of literature, to begin the latter part of this month. A committee was appointed to prepare articles for publication.

Announcement was made that the annual convention of the State Sabbath association would be held here November 14 and 15 and that Judge Ashman of Philadelphia and Chancellor McCormick of the Western university would address the convention in the East Liberty Presbyterian church on the night of the 14th, and that Theodore J. Shaffer of the Amalgamated Steel and Iron association and the Rev. William Patterson of Philadelphia would address the convention in the Second United Presbyterian church, Allegheny, on the night of the 15th.

ACCUSES HER HUSBAND.

Woman Alleges He Conspired to Injure Her Character to Obtain Divorce.

Adolph Hecht, a wholesale liquor dealer; Hyman Levin, a grocer, both of Braddock, and Joseph Horne, who is now said to be in Russia, were sued before Alderman Toole yesterday, charged with conspiracy. The information was made by Mrs. Fannie Hecht, wife of the liquor dealer, who was acquitted of a charge in criminal court last week, preferred by Horne.

The woman alleges the three men conspired to injure her character in order that her husband could obtain a divorce. Hecht and Levin gave bail for a hearing.

BIGELOW'S METER BILLS HIT HARD

Ordinances for Additional Employes and to Purchase Devices Meet Set-Back.

RETURNED TO THE COMMITTEE

Director Bigelow's meter ordinance met with an unexpected setback in select council yesterday afternoon, being referred back to the public works committee for reconsideration instead of being passed finally as Director Bigelow predicted. The ordinance has already passed common council and if it had been put through the upper branch yesterday, it would have been promptly signed by the mayor and quite a number of additional employes would have been put on the water bureau payroll immediately.

Both this ordinance authorizing additional employes in the water bureau to install meters, and the one authorizing the purchase of meters were sent back to the committee. This was done on the motion of P. A. Manion of the Fourth ward, who gave as his reason that the plumbers wanted to be heard on the subject. The motion to send these two bills back was adopted without opposition.

Several important measures were introduced: J. J. Booth introduced an ordinance authorizing the employment of an additional assistant city solicitor at an annual salary of $2,500. Mr. Booth's ordinance is said to be illegal because it conflicts with the new charter ordinance. Section 31 of the charter ordinance contains this provision:

"The city solicitor shall have four assistants and they shall be appointed by the city solicitor," etc.

The city solicitor now has four assistants and until the charter ordinance is amended in this particular he can not employ another assistant. Mr. Booth said the ordinance did not come from the city solicitor and the city solicitor knew nothing of it, he believed. He said he introduced it to favor a person who wants the position. "But, that provision in the charter ordinance will kill it," said Councilman Booth and he looked perfectly satisfied.

No city printing of any kind can be done hereafter by firms outside of the city if an ordinance introduced in select councils becomes a law. This ordinance is aimed at an Oil City concern which for years has been printing the council manual and other work.

Among other bills presented was an ordinance giving the consent of the city to the annexation of Sterrett township to the city; opening and widening Melwood street, from Center avenue to Bayard street; two ordinances preventing passengers standing on street car platforms and between seats of summer cars.

Among the bills passed finally was a resolution transferring $8,000 from the Point bridge fund to the fund for a ferry at the Point, the resolution being adopted when it was explained that this was necessary as there is an ordinance pending in common council to again transfer this money from the ferry fund to the bureau of highways and sewers, it being too late now to operate a ferry as the Point bridge will soon be reopened.

Twelve ordinances for street vacations in the Twenty-first ward, along the line of the Brilliant cut-off, and the ordinance authorizing the director to enter into a contract with the Pennsylvania railroad for a stone arch bridge over the Brilliant cut-off at Lincoln avenue, were passed finally, the former bills finally, and the latter on second reading after being amended. The bridge is to cost the city $49,000.

Roenigk's artesian well ordinance, which provided for the expenditure of $10,000 from the water bureau appropriation, was put to sleep for some time by a motion to indefinitely postpone. This was carried by a vote of 11 to 10. Councilman Roenigk appeared on the floor of select council and begged the members to reconsider their action but his appeal fell upon deaf ears. Director Bigelow wants the $10,000 for other purposes.

COMBATANTS FACE TO FACE.

Parson Montgomery and Elder Heath Met in Publication Rooms.

Both the Rev. S. T. Montgomery and Elder Edmond P. Heath, the victor and vanquished in the one-round pugilistic encounter that occurred last spring in the Jefferson Township United Presbyterian church, were in the United Presbyterian publication book rooms yesterday morning. Whether or not they were there to arrange their difficulties could not be learned, but the enlarged committee, appointed at the recent meeting of the Monongahela presbytery, with full power to settle the difficulty, held no meeting yesterday, nor has a meeting been called for any future time.

Members of the committee stated last evening that if any attempt at compromise had been effected the visit of the interested parties had no connection with the committee.

Its effect is truly magical and gives complete relief in from 3 to 5 minutes."

HEARS GOOD NEWS FROM PRESIDENT

English Visitor Informed American-British Arbitration Treaty is Being Arranged.

DUTCH MINISTER VISITS HAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Dr. W. Evans Darby, secretary of the Peace society of London, presented to President Roosevelt today, a memorial from the society, urging that a treaty of arbitration be negotiated between the United States and Great Britain. The president informed Dr. Darby that he was in entire sympathy with the movement and that already steps looking to such a treaty had been taken; indeed, that negotiations for such a treaty now were in progress.

Jonkheer R. De Marees Van Swinderen, minister from The Netherlands, called on Secretary Hay today to say farewell as he is leaving Washington tomorrow for Holland to arrange his private affairs there before returning to his post here to be married to Miss Glover. He introduced as the charge of the mission during his absence Mr. DuTuyll, the new secretary of legation.

The minister assured Secretary Hay that in his judgment the Dutch government will be very glad to have accepted by the powers the secretary's suggestion, that the second peace conference be held at the Hague and he was sure that every courtesy and opportunity would be extended to make the meeting a success. Perhaps the first stone of the new Temple of Peace, which will be the home of the permanent Hague tribunal and the meeting place of future peace conferences, will be laid by the time the second conference assembles. It is the intention to invite plans for the building from the architects of the world and especially from American architects.

CONVENTION BETWEEN FRANCE AND AMERICA

Treaty of Arbitration Will Be Negotiated Soon After the Presidential Elections.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—France and the United States expect to begin the negotiation of an arbitration treaty at Washington soon after the presidential elections. The treaty will be known as the Hay-Jusserand arbitration treaty, and according to the present program will follow closely the lines of the British-French arbitration treaty.

Some time ago the French government, through its ambassador at Washington, informed Secretary Hay that France was ready and willing to conclude such a convention whenever it was the pleasure of the United States.

It is believed that Italy will be found favorable to the negotiation of arbitration with this country, also Great Britain, though in the case of the latter country it is expected the initiative this time must come from the American government.

"The Bible as Related to Government and Civilization" was the subject of a paper read before the United Presbyterian clergymen by the Rev. Dr. W. T. McSonnell. "How a Superannuate Feels" was told Methodist Protestant ministers by the Rev. S. F. Crawther. "Doctrine of Life" were discussed before the Baptist association by the Rev. J. M. Dear Sir: "Ever since I was in the Army I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered everything and was much alarmed—my strength and power was fast leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root and wrote asking advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp-Root only a short time.

I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In order to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my water today and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition.

I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp-Root to all sufferers, I am." Very Truly Yours,

I. C. RICHARDSON.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but it promptly cures kidney, liver and bladder troubles, the symptoms of which are—obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brickdust or sediment in the urine, headache, backache, lame back, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

TO MAKE SECRET TEST OF ARMOR

Plates of Midvale Steel Company Will Be Shot by Government.

MANUFACTURERS INTERESTED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.

Some time during November, on a date to be arranged later, a test will be made at the Indian Head proving grounds of an armor plate manufactured by the Midvale Steel Company of Philadelphia. The company has asked the government to submit one of their plates to the test usually used, and Admiral Mason, chief of the bureau of ordnance of the navy, has consented. The expense of firing at the plate will be borne by the government, as is customary, the department going on the theory that the government is sufficiently interested in developments in armor making to stand the expense of powder and shell if the manufacturer goes to the expense of submitting a plate to be shot at.

The test will be guarded with great secrecy, as it will be considered a private affair of the Midvale Steel Company, and the government officials will permit no outsiders to be present unless requested by the company. Upon the result of the test will depend much to the United States navy. If it is successful, it will demonstrate beyond any doubt that the Midvale Steel Company will be able to carry out the contract it now has for furnishing 6,180 tons of armor for the government. This contract was taken at prices of an average of $40 to $50 a ton less than was bid by the Carnegie Steel Company and the Bethlehem Steel Company, the two concerns that have furnished every pound of armor used by the United States navy up to this time.

Navy Shared the Doubt.

When Midvale appeared in the field last year and bid upon the armor for the battleships Vermont, Kansas, Minnesota, Idaho and Mississippi, offering to furnish it at prices far under those charged by the other two companies, there was much doubt expressed by those conversant with the matter as to the new bidder's ability to make armor that would stand the government tests. So far as known there were but two processes by which plates could be manufactured so as to pass the tests, the Harvey and the Krupp methods. The Harvey process is covered by patents in this country and Europe and the Krupp process is a secret one, guarded very carefully by the Krupp concern in Essen, Germany. Both processes are controlled in this country by the Carnegie Steel Company and the Bethlehem Steel Company.

The navy department shared in this doubt to the extent that, instead of awarding the entire contract to the Midvale company, it divided the lot, giving 6,180 tons to the Midvale company and splitting 10,620 tons between the Carnegie and Bethlehem concerns. Ever since the award there has been a keen curiosity among steel manufacturers as to the process by which the Midvale company expected to make its armor, but no definite information on this point has been permitted to become public. It has been hinted that the secret process of the Krupps has been secured, and another theory is that an entirely new hardening method has been discovered.

Purely an Experiment.

Navy officers claim they are not interested in the process used, but only in the results. Yet they are doing considerable speculating among themselves. Meanwhile the Midvale company has been installing its plant and saying nothing. Now it is ready to permit one of its plates to stand up before a projectile to determine whether its plates will be able to pass the official test. Upon this test that is to be made in November, however, nothing depends so far as the contract is concerned. The plate to be shot at will not represent a group, but is purely for experimental purposes.

The fact that the Midvale company has asked for a test shows that its armor plant is now complete and ready for business. If the experiment is successful, the officials of the company will be able to carry out their expressed intention of beginning deliveries on their contract soon after the first of the year, although under their agreement they are not obliged to have the first plates ready until June.

The results of the forthcoming test will be watched with interest by the steel manufacturing world. If it is shown that the Midvale company can make armor successfully without using the processes that have heretofore been recognized as the only efficacious ones, the result will no doubt be the entrance of other steel manufacturers into the field as bidders on government contracts. As the United States is committed to a policy of building up its navy, this competition, with its resulting decrease in prices and increase in capacity, would be welcomed by the government.

L. W. STRAYER.

WILL NOT BE PRESENT.

Andrew Carnegie Refuses to Witness Dedication of New Public Library at Duquesne.

Andrew Carnegie has refused to visit Duquesne on the day of the dedication of the new library which is the gift of the iron master to the borough. H. D. Williams, superintendent of the Carnegie steel plant at Duquesne has returned from New York, where he exhausted every effort to have Mr. Carnegie present. There is a belief that Mr. Carnegie feels resentful over the manner in which the borough council has treated his company in the matter of certain concessions asked for.

W. E. Corey, president of the Steel Corporation, Joseph E. Schwab, under whose management at Duquesne the library was started, and several other prominent members of the company have accepted the invitation. Mr. Williams has arranged for a meeting of the committee this week, when he will make an effort to complete the details of the dedication, which will take place on November 12.

Mayor Suspends Detective.

Mayor Falkenstein yesterday ordered the indefinite suspension of Detective Fred J. Lamp of McKeesport, pending a final investigation of the charge by Officer John Hoope of assault and conduct unbecoming an officer. Lamp and Hoope got into an argument Saturday morning, and Lamp is alleged to have become so disorderly that Hoope attempted to arrest him. Lamp then took Hoope's mace and, it is said, threatened to kill Hoope.

Jackson Sent to Jail.

William Jackson, the Braeburn millworker who is accused of striking his father-in-law, W. C. Richards, on the head with an ax last Friday, was arrested yesterday by Constable James Lemon of Arnold. He received a hearing before Burgess Hartley Howard and was committed to the Greensburg jail to await the result of Richards' injuries.

REPORT ON TRAWLERS.

Commission Says Fishing Fleet Was Badly Damaged by the Russian Fire.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Four commissioners, representing the board of trade and owners, who were sent, October 25, at the suggestion of the foreign office to ascertain the damage done to the North sea trawlers by the Russian second Pacific squadron, have just returned and presented a verbal report, confirming the reports that some of the trawlers were seriously damaged by shells and machine gun fire, while others suffered in a smaller degree.

Trawls and fishing nets were destroyed or damaged, the commissioners say. Fragments of a 4-inch shell, which burst on the deck of the trawler Thrush, and many other evidences of the "deadly and wanton attack" were found, while the working efficiency of the whole fleet is seriously diminished in consequence of the crews being unnerved and unable to work with their accustomed energy.

Strike of Hoisting Engineers Will Affect Many Coal Diggers in Illinois.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The strike of hoisting engineers in the Illinois coal mines, which is expected to result in a shutdown, will be peacefully inaugurated on account of a religious holiday. The result of the strike promises to be as follows:

Eight hundred engineers will quit work at midnight in 240 mines; operators will order a shutdown of mines tomorrow morning; 50,000 miners will be thrown out of work; higher prices in soft coal may prevail. Cause, refusal of engineers to accept a cut of 5.56 per cent in wages.

He who sang in front of thousands now shrinks from the presence of sympathetic friends, and in seclusion spends his days, awaiting his end.

FIRE APPARATUS STUCK IN MUD

Five Dwellings at Jacks Run Were Consumed Before Help Arrived.

ALLEGHENY TO THE RESCUE

Jacks Run, a suburb of Allegheny, suffered a fire last night that destroyed five dwellings, did damage to the amount of about $6,000, rendered a number of families homeless and threatened for a time to wipe out the entire colony. For more than an hour the residents worked desperately with buckets while awaiting the arrival of the volunteer fire corps from Bellevue.

Because of the inaccessible location of the houses, at the foot of Jacks run, near the Fort Wayne tracks, the Bellevue department never got to the scene of the fire. They stalled in the mud in the vicinity of High bridge and an alarm was sent in to the Allegheny fire department. The houses were on the hillside just beyond the city line, but three companies from Allegheny responded.

After traveling a circuitous route in order to get to the fire, it was found there was not enough hose on the three carriages to reach to the nearest plug. A run was made back to No. 15 engine house in Arthur street for an additional 200 yards of hose. The line was connected with a plug in Termon avenue, almost half a mile over the hill from the fire. Before all these obstacles had been mastered, however, five houses had been ruined. The department devoted its efforts to saving the remaining buildings in the neighborhood.

There is some doubt as to where the fire started, but it is thought to have had its origin in the explosion of a lamp in the house occupied by John McCargo. The flames communicated with the adjoining dwelling, occupied by Henry Hare. The latter conducted a grocery store on the first floor and the entire stock was consumed. The home of Patrick Hunt and two vacant houses were also burned to the foundations.

The houses were two-story frames, owned by H. C. Grubbs of Allegheny. All the families whose homes and furniture were destroyed are colored. They were taken care of by neighbors last night. So far as could be learned there was no insurance on any of the buildings.

FIRST "TECH" WORK WILL BE IN OCTOBER NEXT YEAR

Director Hamerschlag Announces That the Architects Must Complete One Building by That Time.

"The first department of the Carnegie Technical schools will be ready for opening in October, 1905."

This statement was made by Director Arthur A. Hamerschlag of the "Tech" yesterday, and is the first official announcement of a definite time for the start of the school's work. It had been hoped that Founders' day in 1905 at the Carnegie Institute would be the time for dedicating the schools, and this may yet be true, as Founders' day comes in the first week of November.

"Messrs. Palmer and Hornbostel, the architects, will be here Wednesday, when we shall discuss further the method of procedure," Mr. Hamerschlag said. "What I wish to learn is the extent of the construction they can guarantee to have completed by October of next year, and then we shall be in a position to make definite plans for the equipment of that part with instructors and with facilities. That work can only follow the growth of the buildings for the schools."

SHOTGUNS FOR THIEVES.

Braddock's Chief of Police Advises Residents to Arm Themselves for Protection Against Burglars.

Because of menace to the lives of residents of Braddock from burglars, as emphasized by the experience of M. M. DeLackso, who was shot by a robber Sunday night, Chief of Police William Bennett of Braddock yesterday issued a statement urging people to have protection in the shape of firearms. According to his idea a shotgun loaded with buckshot is the proper weapon with which to welcome thieves.

Had it not been for Mr. DeLackso's caution there would in all likelihood have been a dead burglar. He wounded one of the two, as blood marks show. Instructions were sent yesterday by Chief of Police Bennett to surgeons and physicians in nearby towns notifying them to report to Braddock police headquarters if any patient comes to them to have a gunshot wound dressed.

ROBBERS STILL AT CRAFTON.

House of Capt. Lewis M. Speer Entered and Valuables Stolen.

Crafton is excited over another bold daylight robbery, committed yesterday afternoon at the home of Capt. Lewis M. Speer, in Creighton avenue. Mrs. Speer left the house at 3 o'clock to visit neighbors. While she was leaving the home of a friend she met three men, one of whom asked to be directed to the home of Mrs. Jamison in Colter street. Mrs. Speer's suspicions being excited, she followed the trio until they reached Colter street, where she left them and went to the Presbyterian church, where preparations were being made for a social.

Upon returning home at 4 o'clock, she learned that her house had been robbed. Every room had been ransacked. The thieves took six gold rings, several set with diamonds, a gold watch, valuable trinkets and $16 in money. The total value of the property taken is estimated at $300.

PROTEST AGAINST THE REMOVAL OF STATION

Brushton Citizens Held Mass Meeting and Authorize Committee to Call Upon Pitcairn and Cassatt.

A mass meeting of the citizens of the Thirty-seventh ward was held last night in the Bennett street school house to protest against the proposed removal by the Pennsylvania railroad of its Brushton station. Dean Clark presided and F. B. Coe was secretary. Chairman Clark stated that the object of the meeting was to petition the railroad company to reconsider its order to abolish the station and to present arguments to the company why the station should remain.

A motion was adopted to appoint a committee of three to confer with the railroad officials. The committee was instructed to call first upon Robert Pitcairn and if he is powerless to give aid to make a trip to Philadelphia and call upon President Cassatt. Chairman Clark will name this committee today and he will also appoint a finance committee to raise funds to defray all expenses of the other committee.

Says Principal Abuses His Son.

Charges have been made against Prof. H. S. Foster of the Centennial school building at McKeesport, and the committee on discipline and morals has been called to meet tomorrow evening to investigate. The charges are made by Richard Farmer of Riverview park, who alleges that his son was so beaten by the principal that his body was marked with bruises. Prof. Foster declares it was necessary to punish the boy to control him, but that the bruises were received in a football game.

MELLOR'S

The Best Piano Is the Noble Steinway

Why is the Steinway the best?

Because the men who make the Steinway have only one object—that is, to produce the very best instruments possible irrespective of price.

Other manufacturers are more or less actuated by considerations of economy.

So why shouldn't the Steinway continue the standard piano of the world—the favorite alike of the critics and the royal families of Europe?

The best IS the best.
Argument is superfluous.

WAVED SALUTE ABOVE CLOUDS

TRIAL A BRILLIANT SUCCESS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31.—After circling in every direction at a height of 2,000 feet above the cascades, in sight of thousands of cheering, enthusiastic spectators on the world's fair grounds, A. Roy Knabenshue of Toledo, in command of Thomas S. Baldwin's airship, California Arrow," today returned to the place from which he started, covering three and one-half miles, part way against an eight-mile wind.

The descent of the Arrow was the signal for a great demonstration. Dozens of large bands were upstretched to grasp the frame of the flying machine, which, with the navigator, was carried around the concourse on the shoulders of the jubilating men.

The successful flight followed a day full of discouragement. Baldwin and Knabenshue had worked for 26 hours, without sleep, to prepare for the flight and the first essay at an ascent, with Baldwin himself in command, had ended disastrously, the Arrow falling suddenly to the ground and breaking a blade of the propeller. In half an hour the airship was repaired, was again brought from the aerodrome and groomed for the flight. At a signal from Knabenshue the Arrow rose slowly and easily, its prow directed toward the west. When at the height of 1,000 feet Knabenshue turned the rudder and the aerial craft, answering to its helm, pointed south and continued its flight without interruption.

Airship Jumps the Fence.

Knabenshue at that time was not high enough to clear the aeronautic fence and as he rapidly approached it the crowd held its breath, fearing the craft would be dashed against the barricade. But Knabenshue, waving his cap to assure those who were following his every move, moved toward the rear of the airship. The Arrow pointed its prow upward and, answering the propeller, soared lightly over the fence and rapidly gained an altitude of 1,000 feet.

Knabenshue again changed the direction of the craft and passed over the crowd. After proceeding about half a mile westward, Knabenshue turned the airship about and again passed over the concourse, at the same time increasing his altitude until he was 2,000 feet above the earth. Sailing first to the northeast and then to the southeast, occasionally making complete turns, Knabenshue continued in a generally eastern direction over the cascades, the center of the world's fair grounds, and about a mile and a half in a direct line from the point of starting.

Sails in Wind's Teeth.

The barely perceptible breeze that had been blowing from the west, increased to about eight miles an hour and veered to the north. In order to return to the starting point it was necessary for Knabenshue to breast this breeze. It seemed that his first effort to turn the airship in a course before the wind was unsuccessful, but after trying to turn to the left he swung the rudder sharply in the other direction and the "Arrow" came into the wind, staggered a moment, and then, gaining power, sped toward the concourse at a speed that caused the spectators to cheer and toss hats in the air. The demonstration was observed by Knabenshue, who leaned far out and threw down and empty ballast bag in reply.

When within a few hundred feet of the concourse Knabenshue moved forward in the car, the "Arrow" pointed downward and sailed toward the ground without any slackening of speed. Knabenshue entered the concourse from the east at a height of 200 feet, and, slowing the speed of the motor, directed the airship toward the wooden frame that had supported the Arrow before the flight. The momentum was too great to admit of stopping exactly in the place from which he had made the ascent, but the airship settled to the ground within 100 feet of the deck.

After Knabenshue had assisted in housing the airship in the aerodrome, he was introduced to President Francis of the exposition, Mayor Wells of St. Louis, and other world's fair and city officers. Knabenshue's mother and wife, who had arrived from Toledo today just in time to see the flight, added to the young aeronaut's happiness by joining their praise with that of the distinguished men.

VAL MEN DEFICIENT IN STEAM ENGINEERING

Lack of Officers Familiar With This Line of Duty, Service Faces Serious Problem.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—For lack of officers familiar with steam engineering the navy is finding a serious problem. In his annual report, made public today, Engineer in Chief C. W. Rae states that the number of officers now available for engineering duty is 65. Rear Admiral Rae suggests the following remedy:

That officers of the line to be given a sufficient quantity of engineering duty on board ships in commission, at first in a subordinate position, to enable them to be in charge of the engineering department of vessels and all subordinate duties, the making permanent of this officer's now designated for engineering duty only, and the selection each year from the list of midshipmen who have completed their two years' service at sea, otherwise from the list of graduates, of a certain number of officers for engineering duty, who shall not perform line duty at sea after attaining commissioned rank."

MAN IS KILLED BY TRAIN IN SUBWAY

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Struck by a subway express train, hunted along like a football, mangled by the wheels and rails, Christopher Frawley, the first man to be killed since the road opened to the public, was crushed to death today at the Fourteenth street station, while a crowd of several hundred persons on the southbound platform watched the tragedy unable to lift a finger to save his life.

The killing was followed by a panic. Men and women rushed to the open air with white faces and trembling limbs as though they feared that death itself was at their heels.

In the meantime tender hands had lifted Frawley from his bed of death to the lit-switch house at the end of the platform. He was barely living, and, in the hope of saving his life, an ambulance was summoned, but the man died five minutes after he had been lifted from the track.

WILL BE LYNCHING IF THIS NEGRO IS CAUGHT

MOBILE, ALA., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—News has been received here that there is great excitement at Maplesville, Ala., over here, over the killing of Mr. Wilson Davenport, a prominent contractor, this afternoon by negroes. A crowd of fifteen blacks gathered in front of the Davenport home and began cursing and shooting. Davenport ordered them away, whereupon Jim Harden shot him dead. Should the assassin be caught tonight nothing short of a detachment of militia can prevent a lynching.

ARCHBISHOP ELDER IS SINKING TO REST

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Peacefully, the venerable Archbishop Elder is slowly passing to his reward. Dr. De Coursey, the attending physician, says his patient can last but a few hours. The archbishop is entirely conscious, but his strength is practically gone. Late this afternoon he carried on a conversation with the Rev. Father Hickey, with whom he has been long associated. The dying prelate is exceptionally popular with all classes.

Thousands of women of every age and condition break down and are brought to the very verge of utter collapse because they have kidney trouble and do not know it. It saps vitality—shatters nerves—makes work or rest or sleep impossible.

Many a sufferer takes medicine for imaginary "female complaints" until she is utterly discouraged and much worse. And yet it is so easy to tell when the kidneys are sick, and so easy to cure them with the right sort of treatment.

Prolonged neglect means diabetes or Bright's Disease.

How many apparently healthy women there are who begin to find household work a burden; who are constantly "all-tired-out," irritable and depressed, and who suffer often from sick, dizzy headaches, pain in the back and sides, rheumatism and irregular flow of the urine?

They are always ailing, but not sick enough to go to bed, and they wait for the spells to pass away.

But the cause is still there. The kidneys are sick, and work only aggravates the trouble.

The kidneys have in some way become congested, irritated, or inflamed, and are failing to remove the uric acid and other poisons from the blood. These poisons are attacking the nerves, muscles and vital organs.

Get at the root of the trouble and cure the kidneys. Use a medicine intended for the kidneys only—Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy quickly relieves the tired-out kidneys—gives them new life and energy. The poisons disappear from the blood, and pains, aches, and nervousness vanish.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills in your own city prove this. Read the testimony of a resident, perhaps your neighbor.

Pittsburgh Proof.

Mrs. Mary E. Shafer, wife of H. W. Shafer, contractor, of 1815 Fox st., South Side, says: "Some years ago I gave a testimonial for publication telling of my husband's experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. I told how he had suffered from backache for two years and was under the treatment of two physicians without finding any permanent relief. He used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they did for him what the doctors failed to do. I have also used the pills myself with very satisfactory results. Since I made this statement for publication seven years ago we have both continued to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. My husband's work is hard and sometimes when he gets wet and cold he feels a slight return of the backache. He always falls back on Doan's Kidney Pills and they never fail to relieve him promptly."

DEATH TOOK HEAD OF CINCINNATI SEE

Archbishop Elder Died Last Night—Hero During Yellow Fever Epidemic.

SKETCH OF PRELATE'S CAREER

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31.—Archbishop William Henry Elder died at 11:50 tonight.

The archbishop was born in Baltimore, March 22, 1819, and was the ninth of a family of 10 children. He was descended from one of the oldest Maryland families. His grandmother was a Spalding, the family of former Archbishop Spalding of Baltimore and the present Bishop Spalding of Peoria. After completing his college course in America he attended Urban college in Rome, where he was ordained in 1846 and afterwards received the degree of doctor of divinity. He was for nine years at the head of Mount St. Mary's seminary at Emmittsburg, Md., from which he had formerly graduated. In 1857 he was consecrated bishop of Natchez, Miss., where he was conspicuous during the civil war. At one time he was arrested and sent to the military prison in Louisiana, but he was sustained by the authorities in Washington and released. He was noted for his attention to wounded and suffering soldiers on both sides during the civil war and for his heroic work during the yellow fever epidemic in 1878. He was himself stricken by the dread disease while administering to others and at one time announcement was made of his death.

After the financial failure of Archbishop Purcell of Cincinnati, involving over a million dollars, Rome released that prelate from his charge and in January, 1880, Bishop Elder received the appointment in conjunction with the right of succession. He immediately became the practical head of the diocese. Upon the death of Archbishop Purcell in 1883, Archbishop Elder became the metropolitan of the see and the pallium was conferred upon him. In 1880 he observed the golden jubilee of his ordination.

"PARSIFAL" IN ENGLISH APPROVED IN NEW YORK

Verdict of Excellence Is Given by a Large Audience of Sophisticated Opera Goers.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Henry W. Savage's English production of "Parsifal," which took Boston by storm at its premiere two weeks ago, was given its first performance here at the New York theater this evening in a manner and under circumstances that emphatically confirmed the Boston verdict of its excellence. It not only marked the most important step yet taken toward that much desired goal—grand opera in the vernacular—but it was in its own right and on general grounds an operatic production of which any impresario could be proud.

The audience, a large gathering of sophisticated opera goers, paid it a tribute of close and reverent interest, to the mystic music drama and compiled irreproachable with the request of the management in refraining from applause at the curtains. The performance was begun shortly after 5:30 o'clock. An hour's intermission was taken after the first act, from 7:30 o'clock to 8:30, and the final curtain fell at 11.

PRAISED HIS DEATH WEAPON.

Boy Pulls Gun Toward Him, It Is Accidentally Discharged, and He Is Killed.

JOHNSTOWN, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—"It's a pretty good old gun," said 16-year-old Roy James, son of Thomas James of Elmira, while he and George Weakland sat in the kitchen of Mrs. Elizabeth Woods' house at Bakertown last evening waiting for their friend, Charles Wood, to finish his supper.

He referred to a shotgun which stood in a corner and for which he reached, drawing the weapon toward him, muzzle first. There was a loud report and the boy pitched forward with a bleeding wound over his heart, the gun having been accidentally discharged. He died within five minutes.

The Aspinwall tent has been absorbed by the Washington tent and will now be in charge of Washington tent officers. The speaker of the evening was L. S. Boyd, great record keeper. Other speakers were G. W. Barnes, sergeant of Washington tent; Peter Gemmel, and Capt. A. G. Lloyd.

The officers of the enlarged Washington tent, which now has 160 members, are: Commander, E. L. Stuart; lieutenant commander, W. R. Taylor; sergeant, G. W. Barnes; chaplain, John Harris; record keeper, James Corbett. The retiring commander of Aspinwall tent is Edward S. Dressing.

COMMITTEE DISAGREES.

The question of whether or not the Pennsylvania railroad is occupying part of Church avenue, Allegheny, threatens to result in a battle in Allegheny councils. The committee appointed some time ago to inquire into the matter met last night and a long wrangle ensued. Thomas McHenry asserted that the railroad was using part of what is called park property, and moved that the resolution to elect the railroad from this strip be returned to councils with a negative recommendation. Chairman Andrew Easton opposed McHenry's stand and refused to consider his motion.

LISTENED TO COMPLAINTS AGAINST PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—The interstate commerce commission today listened to testimony in the case of W. J. Koch & Co., grain shippers of this city, against the Pennsylvania railroad, charging the railroad with discrimination in the stopover privileges in favor of the mills of the west. Koch & Co. told how they had erected a mill in Harrisburg at the cost of $12,000, and were forced to abandon it when they were unable to get the stopover privilege.

Landed in Jail on Forgery Charge.

A. G. Baldwin of Coraopolis had a hearing yesterday before Justice Charles Stevenson on a charge of forgery, and was committed to jail for court. Baldwin, who is an oil well driller, is alleged to have forged a check on the Coraopolis Savings and Trust Company's bank for $50. He pleaded guilty and asked his father, E. I. Baldwin, a wealthy oil well owner, to go his bail, but his father refused.

Annie Russell Coming.

In "Brother Jacques," the new comedy which Charles Frohman will present at the Nixon theater with Annie Russell as the star, we are assured that Miss Russell has a comedy part admirably suited to herself. It is a decided pleasure to see this charming actress in comedy. Her art is original and full, combining in the right proportion intensity and force with convincing sincerity.

BURIED TWO CATS IN A CEMETERY

BESIDE HER HUSBAND'S GRAVE

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31.—The little village of Parkville, on the Harford road, a few miles north of the city limits, is agog over the discovery of the fact that two cats are buried in the churchyard of Hiss Methodist Episcopal church, beside the grave of the late Theodore H. Rice, husband of Mrs. Sarah Rice, who now resides on Central avenue, this city. To add to the excitement created by the discovery the church trustees accused Mrs. Rice of burying the cats there with her own hands, and she does not deny the impeachment. Indeed, she acknowledges killing them.

About a year ago, when her husband died, the trustees of Hiss church, which was near her home, sold her a lot in the churchyard, and today Mr. Rice's grave is marked by a small monument. When Mrs. Rice made up her mind to move to Baltimore, the question of what to do with her cats worried her. She did not want them to fall into the hands of strangers, and she could not bring them to the city. What was better under the circumstances than to administer poison?

Anyhow, this is what Mrs. Rice acknowledges doing. Before the eyes of some of her neighbors Mrs. Rice carried what remained of her pets to the churchyard and placed them beside her beloved husband. Next day the Rev. Frank Isaacs, pastor of the church, and the trustees of the institution, discovered the newly made grave, on which had been planted lilies of the valley. The trustees did not like cats and demanded their removal, and upon refusal of Mrs. Rice a warrant was sworn out before Justice Joseph Newmyer.

At the hearing the trustees failed to appear, they said, because they were in attendance upon an ill church member, and the case was dismissed. And now the lilies of the valley still wave above the cats' graves, while the trustess plan future legal action.

ETHER CAUSES DEATH.

Katherine Buckley, aged 45, of 32 Carter street, Allegheny, died at her home last night from an overdose of ether. She had been ill and was found about 10 o'clock in an unconscious condition. Physicians were summoned, but the woman was dead when they arrived. Her relatives say she did not commit suicide, but took the drug to sooth her pain.

The coroner was notified last night of the death of George Fletcher of Braddock. He was taken ill while at work at the Edgar Thomson steel works. The physicians who attended him were unable to determine the cause of death and the coroner was asked to investigate.

Charles Murdock, aged 45, of No. 3 Wesley street, dropped dead at his home last night from heart disease.

Peggy Tennant, aged 4, of 1908 McClure street, Homestead, died yesterday from burns received October 23 in the rear of her home. The girl was playing about a bonfire.

The relatives of Kasimer Fifer, who died October 25 at his home on the South Side, have requested Coroner McGeary to reopen the investigation of the case. On October 3 Fifer was held up and robbed of $280 near the Tenth street bridge. One of the men grabbed him about the neck, while the other went through his pockets. Fifer's relatives believe that his death was caused by this assault. A post-mortem showed death had been caused by cirrhosis of the liver, and Dr. A. J. Barchfeld said the marks on Fifer's neck had nothing to do with the cause of death. Coroner McGeary decided it was unnecessary to reopen the investigation.

Emanuel Cox, aged 45, colored, of Beaver avenue, Allegheny, fell from his wagon in Avalon yesterday and was killed. He was employed as a driver by the Iron City Sand Company, and while going up a grade fell under the wheels, which passed over his head. His brother was killed two years ago by his team backing off the car on the Mt. Washington incline.

CAPTURED PICKPOCKET.

Was Working in Street Car and Grabbed Purse, But Owner Runs Him to Earth.

S. M. Muchler of 431 Clark street, Knoxville, captured a pickpocket who had robbed him in a Center and Negley avenue car at Craig street and Fifth avenue, at 9 o'clock last night. The thief, who was caught "red handed," gave his name as W. J. Robinson of Colwell street. Muchler, with a friend, David Doran, of Clarissa street were on their way to the East End and noticed the man jostling passengers on the rear end of the car. When Fifth avenue and Craig street was reached Muchler missed his pocketbook. Robinson jumped from the car.

Calling on Doran to follow, Muchler ran after Robinson, and catching him by the collar said, "You have got my pocketbook and I want it returned." Without any hesitation Robinson produced the purse, mumbling about having taken it from a thief who had picked Muchler's pocket.

No. 5 police station was notified. The purse contained $25 in cash and a check for $10. The prisoner is nearly 50 years old.

NOT LOSING STEEL TRAFFIC.

Gould Roads Are Not Suffering from Colorado Fight With Steel Corporation.

Little credit is given to the report that because of the competition in the western markets between the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company and the United States Steel Corporation, freight is being refused the Gould roads in the east by the Steel Corporation.

Mr. Rockefeller is equally interested in the Colorado company and Mr. Rockefeller is too large a factor in the Steel Corporation and the Gould roads to allow such revenge to be taken, it is urged.

As a matter of fact, Gould lines are handling daily now large tonnages from the various Steel Corporation concerns, and in many cases securing business in competition with other lines that reach the same points.

ALDERMAN FAINTS AND FALLING BREAKS JAW BONE

Former Alderman William Watson, of the Twelfth ward, Allegheny, fainted last night while standing at the corner of Ohio street and Madison avenue. In falling against the curb his jawbone was broken. He was taken to his home in No. 2 patrol wagon.

Scotland Yard Police Send Circulars Broadcast for Miniature of Baron Dimsdale.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—A circular, similar to thousands that have been spread through the world, has been received at the detective bureau from Scotland Yard, London, advertising the theft of a miniature painting of great value, stolen from the British National portrait gallery. The miniature is a portrait of Baron Thomas Dimsdale, noted in medical history in the eighteenth century as one of the champions of vaccine inoculation as a preventive of smallpox. It is reproduced in its actual size on the circular.

Unknown Man Takes Refuge in a Barn, Which Is Destroyed by Fire.

KITTANNING, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Several weeks ago a girl named Coulter was attacked near Vandergrift on her way to school and the most vigilant search failed to find the assailant. Friday of last week the same man was chased by two men. He eluded them and entered the barn of John Kunkle. Fifteen minutes later a fire started and the barn was destroyed. The man is supposed to have perished.

NEWS OF THE NEARBY TOWNS AND COUNTRY

WESTMORELAND AUTHORITIES WANT THREE MEN IN ITALY

Murder Charges Against Them—Coroner's Inquest Fails to Solve Mystery of Thomas Wright's Death.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

GREENSBURG, Oct. 31.—The Westmoreland county authorities will probably secure the arrest of three Italians wanted here on charges of murder.

The coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Vincenzo Dipofio, whose skeleton was found in a wood near here a week ago tonight, recommended that steps be taken to effect in Italy the arrest of John and Francesco Defiare, brothers. It was testified that the brothers had left here four months ago with Dipofio for Jeannette and that they returned at night without him.

Dipofio was known to carry a large sum of money and the Defiare brothers soon after his disappearance left for the old country. Letters from one of them indicated that they were spending money freely.

Rafeal Libertas, who is alleged to have murdered James Daugherty, a section hand of the Pennsylvania railroad at Carney, eight years ago, has been located at Caseri, Italy, and the county authorities will have him brought to Greensburg for trial. Libertas fled this country after the crime.

The third session of the inquest into the murder of Thomas Wright at Jamison No. 1 was held. No testimony was offered to place the responsibility for the crime and the inquest was closed, leaving the crime a mystery.

ITALIAN IS IDENTIFIED.

Man Arrested Gives Names of Two Foreigners Whom He Says Stabbed Conductor Floyd Anthony.

LATROBE, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The arrest this evening of Frank Corsa will, it is believed, result in the capture of all the Italians who nearly killed Conductor Floyd Anthony on a Latrobe and Baggaley car last night. He was identified by William Marix, motorman on the car. Corsa is said to have supplied the officers with the names of the two men who stabbed Anthony, although denying that he himself was implicated. Joseph Guiseppi and Frank Solcak are under arrest here, but are believed to be innocent of complicity in the crime.

The Latrobe Street Railway Company has offered a reward of $300 for the apprehension and conviction of the men who wounded Anthony. Anthony is expected to recover.

Creekside citizens went to the officers' help and the prisoners were locked in a room and a guard was placed over them.

The Italians were brought here this afternoon, and after a hearing were found guilty of killing two robins, two blue birds and a wren. Fines aggregating $110 were imposed.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—State Treasurer Mathues has added the First National bank of Coudersport to the list of state depositories, which now number 14 banks and trust companies. The balance in the general fund at the close of today's business was $12,420,133.05, which is exceptionally large for this time of the year, considering that nearly all the school districts have been paid their share of the school fund for the fiscal year beginning the first Monday of last June.

SHADYSIDE IS INVITED TO BIG INDOOR MEET

Crack School Boys Will Compete at Washington, D. C.—Football Practices Are Held.

Shadyside academy has been invited to enter athletes in a meet in Convention hall, Washington, D. C., on the evening of Saturday, January 21, 1905, when the second annual interscholastic indoor track and field games will be held. Crack schoolboy athletes of Washington and eastern prep. schools will be present. Invitations have been sent to 100 schools in Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Pittsburgh, Wilmington, Del., Newark, N. J., Atlantic City, and several smaller cities in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Among the out-of-town schools to which invitations have been sent are Mercersburg academy, Hill school, the High school of Commerce of New York, the Boys' High school of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Newark academy, Penn Charter school, Brown Preparatory school, and the Central High school of Philadelphia; Shadyside academy of Pittsburgh, Lawrenceville academy, the Boys' Latin school, Marston university school, and the Country school for Boys, all of Baltimore. All the private schools of Washington have also been invited to enter men, and the games this year promise to equal in importance those held every winter by the schoolboys of Boston and New York.

Shadyside Practice.

The football practice yesterday at Shadyside was listless, due to the fact that some of the players still felt the effects of the game at Scottdale Saturday. None, however, was injured. About half of the regulars were missing from the practice, among whom was Capt. Arch Williams. Shadyside will play the Washington and Jefferson scrubs Saturday at Washington.

Kiski Idle.

The Kiski players yesterday had a day of rest. The game with Connellsville Saturday was a hard one, and the players were given a day off yesterday by the coaches. Practice, however, will be resumed this afternoon. There was much improvement in the team work of Kiski Saturday, and the students are looking for a victory over Shadyside when they meet.

McGraegor made two long runs, as did also McCreight at Connellsville. Urling, the Pittsburgh boy, hit the line well and it is probable he will be used against Shadyside for Hunter. Capt. Harry Gordon got into the game Saturday, playing guard, having recovered from his injuries sustained some weeks ago.

East Liberty Strong.

The East Liberty academy team is in good condition for the game with Pittsburgh High school next Saturday. The game with W. and J. academy Friday last was well played, and the comparison of scores of Pittsburgh High school and East Liberty academy against W. and J. academy shows that these two teams are closely matched. This week will be devoted to strenuous practice and much enthusiasm is being awakened. It will be one of the best games of the city this season.

OLDFIELD'S TITLE CLEAR.

The World's Champion Will Now Show Denver His Speed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Barney Oldfield, with his restored crown jammed down securely over his ears and none to dispute his title of "champion track automobile driver of the world," is on his way to Denver, his Green Dragon flyer following him by fast freight. After the Denver engagement he postponed to redeem himself with New Yorkers he will make a tour of the west, winding up on the Pacific coast with record trial at San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The fame of his wonderful performance continues to be the topic in automobile circles. Although Thery is booked to sail for France next Saturday, there is a bare chance that he may stay over for the election day meet and the Eagle Rock hill climb. It was the general opinion that the European champion made a creditable showing, considering that he had only two days in which to get familiar with the track, speed and prepare his car for a new test.

LESS BIG GAMES.

Suggests Yale News for Leading College Football Elevens.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 31.—The Yale News today, in commenting on the defeat of Yale, Harvard and Princeton by lesser college teams, all within one week and three weeks before the close of the season, says there is a very good reason for this unlooked-for situation. The policy of the big colleges is to bring their teams gradually through a stage of development for the big games, while the minor colleges, which turn out stronger teams than formerly, concentrate their energy in preparation for the games with the big colleges.

"While actual defeat may be a good thing for a beaten team," says the News, "it does not seem altogether desirable that the winning team should get the credit of being the better under such circumstances. The obvious way to avoid this unsatisfactory state of affairs is for the three colleges to make their schedules shorter and play fewer strong opponents."

Lipton Gives Up Hope.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Several friends of Sir Thomas Lipton, members of the New York Yacht club, have received private advices from the Irish knight stating that he has abandoned all idea of challenging for the America's cup for a 1905 match. Sir Thomas states that his only reason for not coming over with a new boat next year has been his inability to induce George Watson, the designer, to lay down plans for a new challenger.

WASH.-JEFF. WILL NOT PLAY W. U. P.

Post-Season Game Suggested, but Such a Contest Will Not Be Arranged.

H:NKEY IS DUE TODAY

Coach Mosse of the Western University of Pennsylvania spent half of the daylight hours yesterday at the long-distance telephone and put in the other time in directing practice, which was resumed at Exposition park at 3:30.

His first call was to Washington, Pa. He asked for Manager Grubbs of W. and J., and then presented a formal challenge for a game. Grubbs expressed regrets, but said that W. and J. cannot possibly play W. U. P. until the Saturday after Thanksgiving day, and possibly not then. Mosse intimated that he considered W. and J. wise in taking this stand, as he thinks the Wups are strong enough to win from any team in this part of the country, with the possible exception of State college, and he says it is too early to even think about the clash with that team. Mosse declared that the W. and J. matter was off his mind for the season, and he does not intend to mention the subject again.

Mosse's next call was to Morgantown, and the manager of the West Virginia team was on the other end of the wire. Mosse asked for an explanation of the delay in furnishing W. U. P. with a list of the players eligible to play in the game at Exposition park on Election day. The matter will be attended to promptly, so he was told. Under the agreement for the W. U. P.-West Virginia game, each should have sent to the other two weeks before the event a complete list of its players. W. U. P. mailed its list last week, but did not hear from Morgantown.

On last Saturday Coach Chez of West Virginia was here to see the W. U. P.-California game, and he asked a number of questions then about the college men of the different W. U. P. players. He was finally referred to a member of the faculty of the university, who assured him that every Wup player was a student in some department of the university. Mosse did not blame Chez for seeking information, but he did think that before asking so many questions West Virginia should have lived up to the agreement and sent in its own list of players. There is no chance of a hitch, however, and representatives of the two universities will probably meet here early this week to select the officials for Election day.

W. U. P. has no game for November 12. One of the big four opened negotiations for a game on the following Saturday for its scrub team, but Mosse turned down the proposition. He has a game scheduled for that date, and besides he believes that the contest would give the players too much work when they will have the fight of their lives on Thanksgiving day, five days later.

The entire squad was out for practice at Exposition park yesterday, but some of the men who were in the thick of the fray last Saturday were not able to take any violent exercise. Mosse had charge of the practice. The coach is rapidly regaining his strength. He is rapidly regaining his strength. The coach is rapidly regaining his strength. Waynesburg will be W. U. P.'s opponent next Saturday.

Louis Hickey, the famous Yale end, who was to arrive yesterday to assist Coach Mosse, failed to appear, but a telegram was received stating that he will be here this morning, and in the afternoon will give the W. U. P. players his attention.

ERNE HAS THE NERVE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—Frank Erne, former lightweight champion pugilist of the world, who has been in St. Vincent's hospital for about a week, suffering with typhoid fever, is much better today and his physician says he will be able to leave the hospital in a short time. Erne fought his way to the lightweight championship and held the title until he was whipped by Joe Gans, who tonight meets "Jimmy" Britt in San Francisco.

Although suffering very much, Erne has taken a lively interest in the fight. He has taken a lively interest in the fight. He has taken a lively interest in the fight. He

GREAT MULTITUDE CHEERED PARKER

SAYS HIS VIEWS ARE KNOWN

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Judge Alton B. Parker was the leading speaker at a Democratic mass meeting in Madison Square garden tonight. The great hall was crowded and 850 policemen were required to keep back the people who surged through Madison square and adjacent streets. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Parker and Davis Business Men's association and representatives of the leading exchanges and clubs of the city were in the audience. Most of the people in the garden carried small American flags which they waved energetically when enthusiasm was manifest.

Judge Parker was escorted to the garden by a committee of 100, consisting of the most prominent Democrats in the city. Heading the escort were Mayor George B. McClellan, and Isidor Straus, the latter the presiding officer of the evening, and among the others were Admiral W. S. Schley, Gen. Nelson A. Miles, August Belmont, Carl Schurz, John G. Carlisle, William T. Jerome, John B. McDonald, Perry Belmont, William McAdoo, Harry Payne Whitney and Daniel S. Lamont.

Not only was the appearance of Judge Parker cheered, but every mention of his name by speakers who preceded him provoked outbreaks of applause. The tumult of unrestrained enthusiasm which accompanied Judge Parker's entrance to the garden was in contrast to the close attention given him during his speech of not more than half an hour. While his address was punctuated by applause the throng which filled the garden to its capacity was markedly considerate in its treatment of the candidate. He had but to raise his hand to gain control of his audience. Though his voice was not strong it is said he could be heard in every part of the building. He spoke as follows:

Old Articles of Faith.

I have come in response to your invitation to address you briefly in what you justly term the stronghold of Democratic faith and of Republican revolt.

My views are sufficiently known to you and all others whose suffrages the Democratic party has asked on my behalf. My words will be little more than a greeting from a candidate to his supporters who are in accord in believing that to the Democratic party, freed from dissensions, pledged anew to its old articles of faith and to its lofty traditions and united for victory can better be entrusted the future of this country than to the Republican party, whose record for the past few years has been the embodiment of the idea that might makes right and that the end justifies the means whatever they may be, a record which has represented a complete departure from cherished traditions and precedents and which has indicated complete intolerance of legal and constitutional restraints. More and more as this canvass has proceeded and the unjust stewardship of the Republican party has been made clear am I convinced that in this election we are confronted with issues which must be determined rightly if we are to avoid grave consequences to our country.

I am not speaking, I believe, in this even unconsciously from any selfish point of view. I am speaking with the conviction of a man who has taken into review the questions before the country—largely in a judicial way—and the conviction has grown stronger as the days have gone by, and I have examined this record of the Republican party, and even the defense it interposes for its justification, that to permit the conduct of this party to go unrebuked is to invite the establishment of new and dangerous principles and standards for our guidance as a people.

Fears for the Future.

Our return to old-fashioned ways cannot, if my opinion, be too precipitate, unless we are prepared to shut our eyes to the consequences that will follow if we proceed further along a path that is full of danger to our future. We need what patriotism, devotion to principle, and high moral ideals have, until late, always given us—a government of law and constitutional restraint, and not of caprice or reckless adventure.

We need no new light; we need no new advice; we need no new theories upon this subject; we need the coinage or the invention of brain of no man, however intelligent, however well-disposed he may be, to devise for us what he conceived to be for the best interests of this land. Our fathers determined this for us a long time ago and we have adopted it as a part of our political heritage. We need only to preserve that heritage and to keep our sacred possessions safe from attack, either from without or from within, in order to insure our material prosperity and moral well being as a nation. And any conception of government such as has been set up for our adoption in this country by the Republican party during the past few years is such an attack both from without and from within.

In an earlier utterance I have referred in detail to what is notoriously going on in the matter of the collection of funds by the Republican party for the campaign. Now I know, as you know, that money is required in order to defray the expenses of a campaign. Under right conditions its collection and expenditure are equally legitimate. But the spectacle of demanding campaign funds now presented to this country is, when rightly regarded, of a character to shock the moral sense.

Stop a Minute.

We shall do well to pause for a moment to ask whither we are drifting in our indifference to right standards and to our old-fashioned sense of propriety in such matters.

Congress creates a new department of commerce and labor. Of that department the president of the United States appoints a secretary. That secretary was his private secretary. Within that department provision is made for the collection from large corporations, including the so-called trusts, of information which, it is to be borne in mind, is to be submitted to the president for public or private use as he may direct. By grace of the same executive, this secretary, through whose department this information is collected, becomes the chairman of the national Republican committee. His chief duty it has been and still is to collect funds for the purpose of securing the election of the president. And it is now notorious that there has resulted from this organized importunity—whatever may be the precise way in which it is made effective—an overflowing treasury to the committee, of which boast is openly and continually made.

Although this may be satisfactory to the conscience of Republican leaders, it must, I firmly believe, be condemned as nothing short of scandalous, not alone by myself or the Democratic party, but by the American people as well. It is said by Mr. Hay that the character of Mr. Lincoln furnishes the standard for Mr. Roosevelt in his conduct as president. I do not have to pause to hear your thundering NO when I ask, would Lincoln have done or permitted this to be done? The whole performance is a shameless exhibition of a willingness to make compromise with decency in order that sums of money may be gathered together sufficiently vast to justify the insolent boast even now that there is no question as to the success which by such a course the Republican managers so confidently predict. The performance is entitled only to the credit that it in no sense partakes of hypocrisy. It is as bold as it is improper and indefensible.

Prediction for Disaster.

We are approaching the parting of the ways. Either we want, as we certainly need, a foreign trade in articles honestly made by honest and industrious workmen as the result of steady and lucrative employment, and honestly sold in all markets, or we may look forward to a time, not remote, when only a fraction of our existing machinery and powers of production can be utilized, and when idleness and demoralization must, of necessity, come as the effect of our own short-sighted policy.

In due time our farmers, who now furnish so large a proportion of our exports, will either reach the limit of productive power, or our own population will consume what the country can grow. What, then, will become of our delusive balance of trade? Where, then, will our artisans find remunerative employment? What, then, will it matter how prudent our investors may be? When other people have taken advantage of great economic opportunities, how shall we, wearing industrial handcuffs, meet our responsibilities to our own people?

The world does not furnish a parallel for the skill of our workmen. The inventive genius of our people is unequalled. It has so developed labor-saving machinery as to cheapen the cost of production. What we need to do is to cultivate foreign markets for manufactured products, thus enabling our mills to run to their full capacity, thereby securing steady employment for our workmen. That policy was suggested in that last and great speech of President McKinley, which has troubled the "Stand Patters" ever since.

PARKER MANAGERS CLAIM THEY WILL WIN ILLINOIS

Republican Vice Chairman Now Confident the State Will Go Republican by 100,000.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—With due respect to the various polls and prophecies from non-partisan sources, all of which put Illinois safely in the Roosevelt column, National Committeeman Roger C. Sullivan declared today that Parker would carry Illinois by 35,000 plurality and that 25 of the 35 wards of Chicago would give a plurality of their votes to the Democratic national ticket. John McGillen, chairman of the speakers' bureau, gave out a statement based, he said, on reports of the meetings held throughout the state during the past week. He said: "If Roosevelt does not have a plurality in the state greater than 35,000, Mr. Deneen will fall by the wayside."

On the eve of departing for his home in Indiana Vice Chairman New of the Republican national committee, declared that Illinois would give as big a plurality for the Republican national ticket as Ohio and that in each case it would reach 100,000. Regarding Indiana, he gave no figures, saying the Hoosier state would go for Roosevelt by a "comfortable plurality."

THANKS FOR RABBIT FOOT, SAYS PRESIDENT

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—

White House, Washington, Oct. 27, 1904.

My Dear Mr. Frazier:

The president thanks you for the handsomely mounted rabbit foot, and accepts it as an omen of good luck.

Conveying to you an expression of the president's regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

WILLIAM LOEB, JR.,

Secretary to the President.

It's all over but the shouting, of course, but to make success doubly sure the president has the foot of a rabbit that was slain under the most auspicious circumstances. The foot was sent to the president by John W. Frazier, registrar of the city bureau of surveys, who received the above letter of acknowledgment.

KNOX CONFIDENT OF BIG VICTORY

PENROSE MAKES PREDICTION

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Press Building.
PHILADELPHIA, PA., Oct. 31.

Senator P. C. Knox today said in his judgment President Roosevelt will be elected, and that he will carry New York, New Jersey and Indiana. Senator Knox also said he is sure the Republicans will again control congress.

Senator Boies Penrose predicts 100,000 plurality for President Roosevelt in New York. Senator Penrose will not attempt to give a detailed estimate on Pennsylvania by counties before the latter part of the week. Regarding conditions in the several congressional districts Senator Penrose today said he saw no reason for changing his original estimate of 29 members from Pennsylvania.

Senator Knox yesterday conferred with Senator Penrose at Republican state headquarters. State Treasurer W. L. Mathues of Delaware county, Congressman H. Burd Cassel of Lancaster county and Congressmen Henry H. Bingham and George A. Castor of this city, also met Senator Penrose by appointment during the day. Speaking of the political outlook, the senator said:

Steadily Gaining Ground.

"President Roosevelt most certainly will be elected. I am certain of it. He has been steadily gaining ground as the campaign advanced, and nothing the opposition can do will change my opinion. The Republican party managers are in perfect control of the situation.

"New York state surely will return a large majority for the president. I have felt this all along, but now I am convinced of it. Moreover, I believe Higgins will be elected governor by a big vote.

"Regarding Indiana, I have no reason whatever to change my belief that the Republicans will win. I think Senator Fairbanks' estimate of 30,000 majority in that state is about right. All the men from Indiana with whom I have talked, have assured me the Democrats are waging a futile campaign there.

"New Jersey, too, is safely Republican, and the general outlook as I see it, is that the president will have an overwhelming majority in the electoral college.

Large Majority in Congress.

"I don't think that there is any reason to fear that the Democrats will gain control of the house of representatives. Careful reports received at headquarters indicate a larger majority of the Republicans than in the present house."

Senator Penrose said every indication pointed to a safe plurality for Higgins for governor in New York, but that the plurality for Roosevelt would undoubtedly be much larger.

"I shall not be ready to give detailed estimates on Pennsylvania until the end of the week," continued Senator Penrose. "When I have received reports from all of the Republican county chairmen I shall give out my figures. I haven't any doubt the figures will be satisfactory."

CHESTER D. POTTER.

Want Knox to Speak.

CANONSBURG, Oct. 31.—(Special.)—There will be a Republican rally here on Saturday. An effort is being made to have United States Senator P. C. Knox address the meeting. Other speakers will include Judge J. M. Taylor and W. S. Parker of Washington and D. L. Heiner of Pittsburgh.

Cossacks Charge Mob, Using Swords.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 31.—The issuance of an order by the governor general of Warsaw for the troops to fire at assailants, instead of in the air, if they were pelted with stones, led to a demonstration at Wola, October 28. Cossacks with drawn swords charged the mob, many persons on both sides being wounded.

JUDGE PARKER MIXED THE TREASURY FIGURES

Acting Secretary Taylor Says the Candidate Made a Bungling Effort in His Speech.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—H. A. Taylor, acting secretary of the treasury, said today with reference to the speech of Judge Parker to a delegation of farmers last Friday:

I made a brief statement a few days ago mildly calling attention to several very apparent errors on his part, unintentional no doubt, but made out of the fullness of his misinformation in regard to the conduct of certain public affairs. The judge has not "joined issue" as to any of the facts, neither has he admitted his mistakes, but he seems to have thought some reply necessary, and so he prepared a speech mixing up a few of my names with many others to which I made no reference.

Judge Parker referred again to the treasury deficit of $24,000,000 during the first two months of this fiscal year and compare it with the small deficit of last year for the corresponding months. Just why he singled out last year for a comparison I leave the reader to judge. If he had taken several other recent years he would have found the deficit larger than this year. As I said in my previous statement, the drafts upon the treasury are always of necessity the heaviest during the first months of the fiscal year.

APPEAL FOR THE FAMILY OF LATE ROBT. E. PATTISON

Committee Issues a Letter Asking for Contributions, as Widow and Children Need Aid.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—The following letter, which is self-explanatory, has been issued by friends of the late Robert E. Pattison:

The late Robert E. Pattison, former governor of Pennsylvania, owing largely to conditions for which he was not responsible, was unable to make any provision for his widow and two children, except a small life insurance policy, the proceeds of which have been paid to Mrs. Pattison. The home of the family, No. 5039 Drexel road, Philadelphia, is heavily encumbered with mortgages, and is to be sold on November 15, 1904, for the payment of debts.

In view of the eminent public service rendered by Mr. Pattison as city controller of Philadelphia and as governor of Pennsylvania, it is believed that there are many in this community who will be glad to contribute to a fund to be raised for the benefit of the family, the fund so collected to be invested and applied in such manner as may be determined by a trustee or trustees to be selected by the undersigned committee.

A number of gentlemen have already signified their willingness to contribute to such a fund. It has been suggested that you might be willing to contribute. If so, kindly send your check for such amount as it may be your pleasure to give to the treasurer of the committee, George C. Thomas of Messrs. Drexel & Co., Fifth and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia.

Respectfully,

MANY OFFICERS TO BE VOTED FOR

Numerous States Will Choose Officials When Voting on the National Ticket.

30 SENATORS' TERMS EXPIRE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Nine national political conventions were held this year and nine candidates for president and vice president of the United States were nominated, but only six electoral tickets will be generally voted for one week from tomorrow. Besides "the two great political parties," seven others made nominations—Peoples, Prohibition, Socialist, Socialist Labor, Continental (labor), National Liberty (negro) and Lincoln (negro). The two negro parties, however, apparently ended their work when the national conventions adjourned, as no electors have been selected, or at least none will appear on any official ballot; and the Continental party seems to be confined to Illinois, and perhaps to Chicago, the place of its origin.

The terms of 30 United States senators expire March 4 next. Seven of the vacancies have already been filled, and the legislatures of 23 states to be elected November 8 will fill the other 23. Members of the house of representatives are to be voted for in all except three states—Maine, Vermont and Oregon—which have already elected their congressmen.

In 27 states a governor and all, or nearly all, the elective state officers are to be chosen; in 5 states minor state officers are to be selected, and in 13 electors are to be voted for.

One Ticket in South Carolina.

South Carolina has only one ticket in the field. All the other states have from four to six. Illinois leading with seven. There are three Republican tickets in Delaware. The Republicans in Wisconsin will have a choice between two tickets for state officers, the "stalwarts" having decided to keep up their fight against LaFollette. The electors on both tickets, however, are identical.

The Democrats and Peoples party, or Populists, fused on the state ticket in Kansas and Nebraska, but in both states the Peoples party named separate presidential electors. In Nevada the Democrats and one wing of the Silver party divided the minor state officers to be voted for, but the "stalwart Silver" men put up their own electors.

The Peoples party, which indorsed Mr. Bryan in 1896 and 1900, has an active organization in 33 of the 45 states, the nominees for state officers and electors being on the official ballot in 12 states and for electors in 21.

Prohibitionists in 39 States.

The Prohibitionists have electoral and state tickets in 27 states and electoral tickets in 12 others—one less than in 1900.

The Socialists (called in some states Social Democrats) have electoral and state tickets in 22 states and electoral tickets in 11 others—11 more than in 1900.

The Socialist Labor party have whole or part electoral and state tickets in 12 states and electoral tickets in two others—six less than in 1900.

Democratic—President, Alton B. Parker, New York; vice president, Henry G. Davis, West Virginia.

Alabama and Arkansas vote only for presidential electors. California also votes for justice of the supreme court. In the following, unless otherwise noted, the heads of the Republican and Democratic tickets only are voted:

Colorado—R., governor, James H. Peabody; lieutenant governor, Jesse P. McDonald; D., governor, Alva Adams; lieutenant governor, Elias M. Ammons.

WATSON'S MOUTH EXPLODES IN HOME OF THE LYNCHERS

Declares "We Have Negro in Hollow of Our Hands and Are Going to Keep Him There"—Will Wipe Roosevelt Off Earth.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

STATESBORO, GA., Oct. 31.—Thomas E. Watson, populist candidate for president, in a speech today said, in part:

"We are not afraid of the negro, as we have him in the hollow of our hands, and are going to keep him there. Have we not done everything to him in the south that we wanted to? The Democrats have disfranchised him everywhere except in Georgia, and here they were afraid of the Populists. He is a veritable hellion on every other day except election day.

"I care nothing about Parker but to get him out of the way. If the people will stand by me I will wipe Roosevelt off the earth in 1908.

"Parker is nothing, and not much of that. He is the dog in the manger. He won't get in himself and won't let me in. You had just as well throw away your vote on me as Parker.

"I never expect to be president, but I intend to reorganize the Populist party that will elect a man some day.

"My home papers are the only ones that matter to me. They say I am a great man, and brag on my books, but damn me to hell in politics."

Slocum Survivors Thank Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—President Roosevelt today received a letter from the officers of the Organization of the General Slocum Survivors thanking him for the interest he had manifested in the disaster and for his prompt action in dismissing from the government service those upon whom, in a measure, the responsibility for the disaster rested.

ROOSEVELT'S PORTRAIT HUNG BEHIND PULPIT

"That is one of the greatest men the world has ever known, and the next president of the United States," declared the Rev. Dr. George W. Chalfant to the congregation in the Presbyterian mission at Rennerdale, in the Rennerdale school house, Sunday night, as he discovered a five-foot portrait of Theodore Roosevelt hanging on the wall back of the pulpit.

The portrait had been placed there by the pupils of the school, and Dr. Chalfant allowed it to remain behind the pulpit throughout the service. "I was honored to have at least his portrait among the congregation," said Dr. Chalfant yesterday, "and I want to say right here that while I am an active Prohibitionist, and am working diligently for the cause of prohibition, and have every respect and confidence in Dr. Swallow, I will not vote the Prohibition ticket for the presidency. Roosevelt is good enough for me."

PENNSYLVANIA MAJORITY WILL BE OVER 300,000

Bingham Assures Roosevelt That 29 Congressmen Will Also Be Republican.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—President Roosevelt was today assured by Gen. H. H. Bingham, member of congress from Philadelphia, that he would carry Pennsylvania. Gen. Bingham also told the president that he would carry it by 300,000. Personally the general thinks the plurality will run above that figure. He called at the White House to pay his respects today.

"Pennsylvania will give you 300,000 majority this year, Mr. President," he said, and 29 of the 32 representatives in the house will be Republicans."

On leaving the White House Mr. Bingham said that he had given the president the most conservative estimate possible. He thought it very probable that the Republican majority would reach 350,000 and that the elections in the congressional districts of the state might possibly result in the return of 30 Republicans instead of 29. "No other state will do as well for the Republican party, you can rest assured of that," said Mr. Bingham.

THE DEMOCRATS HAVE SIMPLY FOUND FAULT

Party Has Not Taken the Aggressive in Any Matter During Campaign.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—M. Linn Bruce, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, was the principal speaker at the noonday meeting at No. 596 Broadway today, under the auspices of the Roosevelt and Fairbanks National Commercial league. The other speakers were John R. Wormer, W. A. Ullman and Hal Bell.

Mr. Bruce began by predicting that the Republican national ticket would come down to the Bronx with the largest majority ever known, with the possible exception of the last McKinley campaign.

"The Democrats have not taken the aggressive in any matter," said the speaker, "but they have sat down to fault finding and sour criticism. They criticise the cost of the army and the navy, and they want those arms of the country reduced in magnitude and efficiency.

"They preach low prices and cheap living. Now if you sell wall paper, meat, clothes or grindstones for a good price you are willing to pay a living price for everything you buy."

ODDS DROPPED TO 4 TO 1 ON ROOSEVELT'S ELECTION

All Kinds of Bets Were Made in Wall Street on the General Result.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Odds on Roosevelt dropped to 4 to 1 and lower today. The betting on the state election changed to 6 to 5 in favor of Herrick. Several small bets were made today at 4 to 1 that Roosevelt would be elected. The wagers on the election results in New York were at odds of 6 to 5 that Herrick would be elected.

All sorts of betting propositions were made in Wall street during the day. Charles H. Marshall offered to bet $3,000 even, or any part of it, that Roosevelt will carry New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Indiana. P. J. Goodhart & Company bet $4,500 to $1,000 that Roosevelt would be elected, E. C. Potter & Company taking the Parker end.

The betting at present does not differ much, so far as the presidential result is concerned, from the odds offered on McKinley and Bryan in 1896 and 1900.

FIRST FREAK BET OF THE CAMPAIGN IS REPORTED

The first freak bet of the campaign reported in Pittsburgh comes from the Lawrenceville district, and for oddity it is hard to beat. Frank Cowles of 4900 Butler street has wagered with John Williams a ton of hard coal against $50 that Parker will be elected president. Cowles gets odds of about 8 to 1 by the bet, but if Parker loses Cowles is pledged to paint every lump of the ton of coal white, with the smallest brush Williams can find.

OFFICERS USED REVOLVERS.

Indulged in Hand-to-Hand Fight With McKeesport Law Breakers.

An effort to exterminate a large portion of the Hebrew colony in the First ward, McKeesport, proved disastrous yesterday to "Red" O'Donnell, Samuel Urik and Charles Botto. Officers found the three men hurling stones and bricks down on the heads of people in a court beneath the Third street bridge. Several were injured. The men were cornered in a yard after a hard chase.

A hand-to-hand fight took place, each of the officers being compelled to subdue his man at the point of a revolver. Yesterday Mayor George J. F. Falkenstein gave a $50 fine to each, in default of which they went to the workhouse for six months.

WILL INTIMIDATE COLORED VOTERS

Democrats to Place Armed Men at the Polls in West Virginia.

ADOPT DESPERATE METHODS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Oct. 31.—The Democrats are preparing to take desperate measures to carry this state for their ticket. Armed white men will be stationed at all polling places to intimidate negro voters and wherever the Democrats control the election machinery, the canctity of the ballot boxes will be disregarded.

A circular has been sent by the State Democratic committee to each election officer who will be concerned with the counting of the votes, instructing him to reject all ballots favorable to the Republicans wherever there is the slightest technical irregularity in the marking of the same and to accept all Democrat ballots no matter how imperfectly they may be executed.

Since the last election the Democrats have secured control of a number of important polling places through the appointment of Democratic judges of election, and great dependence is placed upon the power of these officials to manipulate the returns so as to decrease the Republican vote. Party feeling in this state, especially as concerns the state ticket, is running high and while West Virginia is normally Republican by a good plurality, no means will be spared by the Democrats to cast doubt upon the result.

PARKER LOSES A VOTE.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—E. H. Moore, twice mayor and delegate-at-large to the Democratic national convention at St. Louis, as well as a prospective candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket next year, failed to register. He discovered late last night that he had not placed his name on the registration books, being occupied with business.

Moore was one of those delegates who fought the nomination of Parker at the St. Louis convention, and it is claimed by his enemies that he had no desire to vote for the man from New York.

Foes of Liquor Won.

TORONTO, O., Oct. 31.—(Special.)—The election held here today under the Brannock law to exclude the sale of whisky in residence districts, carried by a large majority.

Mrs. Hughson, of Chicago, whose letter follows, is another woman in high position who owes her health to the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I suffered for several years with general weakness and bearing-down pains, caused by womb trouble. My appetite was fitful, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. Mrs. Pinkham's medicines are certainly all they are claimed to be."—Mrs. M. E. Hughson, 347 East Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.

Apparently trifling incidents in woman's daily life frequently produce displacements of the womb. A slip on the stairs, lifting during menstruation, standing at a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks may result in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started.

The first indication of such trouble should be the signal for quick action. Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Mrs. Lelah Stowell, 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—You are indeed a godsend to women, and if they all knew what you could do for them, there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony.

"I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, womb trouble, nervousness, and excruciating headache, but a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy, and I do not know what sickness is, and I now enjoy the best of health."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints,—that bearing-down feeling, weak back, falling and displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and all troubles of the uterus or womb. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in the early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues excitability, nervous prostration, and tones up the entire female system. Its record of cures is the greatest in the world, and should be relied upon with confidence.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Double Last Year's Business

Almost double last October's business and $595,755 ahead of the greatest previous October in the Agency's 24 years' history is the record of the Pittsburgh Agency of The Equitable Life Assurance Society for the month just closed—

So far this year the total sales of the Agency amount to

$12,006,754

A mark that has never before been reached by this or any other agency for ten months' business—

And that is pretty conclusive evidence of the confidence shrewd business men have of Equitable Life Assurance as a strong, dependable security—one that is absolutely stable—and that does not fluctuate with changing business conditions.

PROBING CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

PLUMBING ACT TO BE TESTED

James Fleming, an East End saloonkeeper, was placed on trial in criminal court yesterday, charged with voluntary manslaughter in having caused the death of John McDonald, a horseshoer, who was attempting to adjust a property dispute with the defendant in the law office of Thomas M. Brown, when a fight occurred. McDonald, it is alleged, was struck by Fleming during the quarrel and died a month later from the effects of the blow.

There were no witnesses to the actual fighting. S. C. Farrar, a civil engineer, produced a plan of the law offices. Dr. J. K. Sterrett, an eye, ear and throat specialist, testified that a blow on the nose caused an abscess, which worked its way into the brain, producing death from a blood clot. McDonald told the doctor he had been struck by a man named Fleming. Other physicians corroborated Dr. Sterrett.

William Herron, connected with the Brown law firm, heard a scuffle in an adjoining room on the day of the fight, and later found McDonald with his nose bleeding and Fleming standing in front of him. He caught Fleming by the arms, but he broke away and again struck McDonald on the right cheek. The men afterward talked with each other. On cross-examination Herron said Fleming had a bruise on his forehead and that the mark was about the size of one of the paper weights lying on the desk. He did not know whether McDonald struck the defendant with the weight.

James McDonald told of visiting the law offices with his brother to settle a dispute with Fleming, who was said to have been in arrears with rent. He was not a witness to the fight.

Plumbing Act Under Fire.

The right of the city to regulate house plumbing is to be tested in the supreme court. Nearly two years ago John Beltz had some plumbing done in a house in the Homewood district in a manner that did not conform to the house drainage and plumbing ordinance. Suit was entered against him and when the decision was adverse he carried the case to the county courts. He lost his case and appealed to the superior court. That tribunal affirmed the lower court, and yesterday the supreme court made an order allowing Beltz to take an appeal from the finding of the superior court. Justice Smith, who wrote the opinion in the superior court, decided the case on the grounds that the classification of cities is constitutional and that the right to supervise house drainage and plumbing is a proper function of the police powers of a city.

Another appeal allowed will give the Southwest Normal school at California a further chance to preserve its campus. The school authorities desired to have vacated a street that if opened would intersect the campus. Adjacent property owners held that the campus was not necessary for the proper maintenance of the school and the Washington county court and the superior court decided against the school. Allowing the appeal to be taken will bring the question before the supreme court.

The arguments yesterday were all in Allegheny county cases. They were: William J. Moorhead and others vs. Elizabeth J. Scovel and others, appellants, an action over the deed made by the late Mary E. Moorhead to Miss Scovel; William G. Kaufman vs. the Pittsburgh Carnegie & Western railroad, an action over a piece of ground in the Thirty-third ward, taken for the Wabash right-of-way; appeal of R. E. and Lawrence Warner in the estate of E. S. Warner, deceased, the case in which an ante-nuptial contract was set aside to the benefit of the widow of the deceased; appeal of the Colonial Trust Company, guardian of C. H. King, in the estate of R. H. King, deceased, an action over the interpretation of a trust clause in the will; J. J. Sedden and others vs. Hugh McBride and others, appellants, an action to decide who are the officers of the National Beneficial association; Nicholas Wolf vs. the Glassport Lumber Company, appellant, an action over a mechanics lien; Mary A. Houghey and others, appellants, vs. the Pittsburgh Railways Company, an action in a suit for damages for death; Charles A. Warmcastle vs. the Scottish Union and National Insurance Company, appellant, an action on an insurance policy.

Jahn Refused New Trial.

John Skoda and Frank Bucar were sentenced by Judge Joseph Buffington for passing counterfeit Hungarian money, of which they were convicted; Skoda was sent to the penitentiary for two years and six months and Bucar was sent to the same institution for one year and nine months. The men claimed the money was procured by them in Hungary out of the proceeds of the sale of a herd of cattle.

Judge John D. Shafer refused a new trial in the case of J. Henry Jahn, who was convicted on a charge of false pretense made by J. S. Lenhart. The prosecutor alleged Jahn secured $250 from him by misrepresenting the condition of a pootroom at Vandergrift. Jahn was convicted on October 27 last year and a motion was made for a new trial the next day. Since then the case has been in the hands of the court.

In criminal court the case of David Underwood, charged with a misdemeanor, was on trial all day, owing to the witnesses, several of whom were deaf and dumb. The charge was made by Mary A. Vascoh. The trial was a very quiet one, as the attorneys in the case would ask the interpreter a question and it would be some time before an answer could be secured. All the interpreting was done by hand motions, the deaf and dumb alphabet being used. The case will be finished this morning.

Judge James R. Macfarlane handed down an opinion in the case of John L. Mullen against the Riverside Bridge Company of Wheeling, discharging a rule to set aside a service brought by the plaintiff company. The case is one in which the company, a foreign corporation doing business with offices in this city, was sued, service being brought against C. C. Burgess, the agent in charge. Judge Macfarlane held that the company's agent was liable to service.

Non-Suits by Default.

Several non-suits were ordered in common pleas court No. 1 yesterday, the cases being called and the plaintiffs not appearing. The cases were as follows: Anna Harrington vs. James N. Laughlin; Anna Harrington vs. David J. Murphy; T. G. Evans vs. Samuel McKnight; H. C. Lippencott vs. William R. Porter.

In the divorce suit brought by Sadie Brown against William Brown, leave was granted to withdraw the case, the libellant paying the costs. Libels in divorce were filed as follows: Augusta Renzelman against Henry Renzelman, and Ella McGuigen against Charles J. McGuigen, desertion; John T. Sykes against Mary Sykes, infidelity.

William Glew took out letters of administration in the estate of Elizabeth Glew, deceased, in orphans court yesterday. The estate is estimated at $27,000. Attorney J. M. Clark has charge of the estate.

Benjamin Lindenberg brought suit for $10,000 against Ellen A. Korney, alleging slander and defamation of character. Lindenberg alleges that the woman threatened to run him out of town and called him a thief in the presence of many witnesses.

Suit for damages for false arrest was brought by D. Feinberg, a jeweler of Braddock, against Officers Michael C. Tierney and Sylvester Critchlow. He asks for $5,000 damages, alleging that he was arrested on October 18 and locked up in the Braddock lockup without an information being made against him, and later discharged, being informed that his arrest had been a mistake. He claims his business was damaged by the disgrace attached to his arrest.

Hallowe'en Poverty Party.

A very delightful affair last evening was the Hallowe'en poverty party which members of the Friendship Euchre club of the East End gave in honor of their president and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Williams of Graham street. The affair was a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Williams. The guests were masked as they entered the Williams' home and their costumes were grotesque to a degree. Among the members present were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carlin, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. McClinton, Mr. and Mrs. James Bonar, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fricke, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Keeling, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gormly, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Hockensmith, Mr. and Mrs. Grant S. Hubley, Mr. and Mrs. William McKenna, Mr. and Mrs. W. Danced the Virginia Reel.

The Creighton homestead in Crafton, the oldest in the Chartiers valley, built in 1847, was the scene of an old-fashioned Hallowe'en party last night. Festoons of autumn leaves adorned the walls, jack-o'-lanterns were placed in every conceivable corner, while hay and straw were strewn around the floor. The guests were dressed as farmers, with wide-brimmed straw hats and cowhide boots. Some of the young ladies represented milkmaids, while others were on the Sis Hopkins style. The dancing of the Virginia reel was a feature. Guests were present from Carnegie, Bridgeville and the East End.

Change in the Bridal Party.

At the wedding of Miss Cornelia Brackenridge McKelvy and Edward Houston Bindley this evening a cousin of the bride, Francis Graham McKelvy, will serve as usher in place of Alan McLean of Litchfield, who is ill. Guests Bobbed for Apples.

An old-fashioned Hallowe'en party was given last evening by Miss Elizabeth and David Milligan at their home in Glen Wallace, near Avalon. The event is an annual one and about 150 guests were present. Cider was served and there were Hallowe'en games, including bobbing for apples and studying the mirror for future husbands and wives.

Gave a Costume Party.

Several Hallowe'en parties were given in Sewickley last evening, probably the handsomest being that given by Mr. and Mrs. J. Sharp McDonald, at their home, "The Maples." It was a costume affair. Hallowe'en refreshments were served, games were played and the decorations were suggestive of the evening.

Novelty Union Entertained.

The Novelty club, which is affiliated with the Catholic lyceum, gave a novelty dress reception and dance in the lyceum rooms in Washington street last night. Decorations were artistic and consisted of red and green interspersed with cabbages, pumpkins and chrysanthemums. The costumes were unique and prizes were awarded wearers of the most novel attire.

Notes of Society.

Miss Helen Hersperger of Grant street, Sewickley, entertained her class from St. Stephen's Episcopal Sunday school at an old-time taffy pulling, last night.

Friday evening of this week the Junior Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church of Sewickley will give an entertainment and social in the lecture room of the church.

Misses Elizabeth and Isabelle Arrott, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Arrott of Glen Osborne, entertained friends at a Hallowe'en party last night. They pulled taffy, played games and topped off the evening with an elaborate dinner.

In the Clubs.

Collegiate Alumnae in St. Louis.

College women from all over the country will gather in St. Louis this week for the annual meeting of the Association of Collegiate alumnae. The meetings of the association will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with many social affairs between the sessions. Mrs. Philip N. Moore of St. Louis is president of the association. President Francis of the exposition will deliver an address of welcome and other addresses will be given by the Hon. Howard Rogers, Prof. C. M. Woodward and Mrs. William Trelease, president of the St. Louis branch of the association. On Thursday afternoon the board of lady managers will give a reception in honor of the visiting women. Friday evening the Wednesday club of St. Louis will give a reception. The Kansas City and St. Louis branches will give a luncheon to the members of the association in the Missouri building.

Extending Knowledge of the Work.

One method of increasing knowledge of the general public in the work of the juvenile court is in enlisting the interest of young people in the churches in this particular line of city missionary effort. Last Sunday evening Miss Suzanne S. Beatty, a member of the juvenile court committee, addressed a meeting of young people in the Third United Presbyterian church, Allegheny. She presented her cause in so broad and instructive a manner that the people responded heartily and a generous donation was made to the work. Miss Beatty has been asked to give a similar address before the people of the First United Presbyterian church, Allegheny, in the near future.

WESTINGHOUSES GIVE A HALLOWE'EN PARTY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

LENOX, MASS., Oct. 31.—Mr. and Mrs. George Westinghouse held a brilliant celebration of Hallowe'en at Erskine park this evening, which was the final large event of the season in the resort town. It was a typical New England Hallowe'en party, most everyone going in fancy dress costume, especially the young people.

The dinner for 75 or more was served in the gymnasium, which was handsomely decorated with a number of novel electrical effects. Experts had come on from New York to arrange for the display. Pumpkins, stacks of corn and vegetables were conspicuous in the decorative scheme.

Mr. and Mrs. Westinghouse are entertaining a large house party at Erskine park, including Mrs. W. E. Smith and the Misses Smith of St. Petersburg, Russia; Miss Margaret Wadsworth, Albany; Messrs. Lewis, Chapin, Rees, D. Alsop and F. W. Dudley, Yale students.

The dinner was followed by a dance of the old-fashioned type, for which a Pittsfield orchestra of 20 pieces furnished the music. Practically everyone now in Lenox and Stockbridge attended the dance.

Seat Sale Was Excellent.

The sale of single tickets for the opening concerts of the Pittsburgh orchestra Thursday evening, November 3, and Saturday afternoon, November 5, began yesterday. There was an excellent sale. At the orchestral rehearsal yesterday Mr. Paur found occasion to again compliment his players on their fine work.

SEES NO REASON FOR THE CHANGES

County Commissioner Evans Favors Preserving Architectural Beauty of Court House.

HE MAKES TRITE SUGGESTIONS

County Commissioner James Evans is not in favor of destroying the architectural beauty of the court house by the addition of two or more stories. In a letter addressed to D. L. Browne he gives reasons why the change should not be made, and also comes forward with suggestions which show conclusively that the proposed changes are not necessary. Commissioner Evans has been in Europe, and says that the suggestions for the changes originated in his absence. His letter, written in answer to a protest by Mr. Browne, which appeared in The Gazette, is as follows:

County Commissioners' Office, Pittsburgh, October 29, 1904.

Mr. D. L. Browne, Fourth avenue, city.

Dear Sir—In answer to your open letter of the 27th inst., addressed to me as county commissioner and published in The Gazette, I beg to reply as follows:

The proposed addition of two stories to the court house was broached during my absence in Europe and I first learned of the matter on my return about two weeks since, when the preliminary plans showing the proposed changes were submitted for my consideration. I have since learned that this matter was first presented by certain judges of the county to Commissioners Mercer and Clark, and was not then looked upon favorably, but was subsequently approved and at their instance preliminary plans were prepared. I know that there is a wide diversity of opinion on the matter, and while many citizens favor the change, doubtless an equal if not greater number are strongly opposed and, like yourself, think it would be a wilful destruction of a masterpiece of architecture, the preservation of which strongly appeals to the civic pride of all good citizens. Looking at it somewhat in this light, I have studied the matter as fully as the time would permit and have arrived at the following conclusions:

It is admitted that a new court for the county will be created by the legislature at its coming session, for which additional court room must be provided, and it is claimed that there is no available space in the building for this purpose. It is further claimed that the noise of public traffic, especially on Fifth avenue, renders the court rooms on the second floor of the building unfit for use, and it is further asserted that all the court rooms on the second floor are defective in acoustic construction, and other minor objections have also been urged, and that for these reasons they should be relocated on the fourth and fifth floors as proposed under a new arrangement, the first, second and third floors of the present building to be then used for increased office facilities.

No Necessity for Change.

While the county has grown at an extraordinary rate since the building was erected 20 years ago, in my opinion there is at present no real necessity for so radical a change in the court house. I am convinced that all the demands of the public business so far as court room accommodations are concerned can be fully met and fair provision made for the future for 10 years at least by slight interior changes in the present building. The objection to noise from street traffic in the court rooms on the second floor can be largely overcome, if not entirely removed, by paving the surrounding streets with wooden blocks, the most noiseless pavement in use, and when well laid, as in the busy thoroughfares of London and Paris, is almost as durable as brick or asphalt. When this would be done annoyance from sound on all sides except Fifth avenue would certainly be eliminated, and on that side, if the windows were kept closed, the rooms would be equally free from disturbance.

In this connection I might state that with a proper heating and ventilating system, such as is in use in the county morgue, the Lake Erie depot, and other buildings, there would be no necessity whatever for opening windows at any time for ventilation, and the rooms would then be free from smoke and dust, as well as noise. However, should it still be thought best that the Fifth avenue court rooms on the second story should be abandoned, additional rooms supplying their place, as well as rooms for two additional courts, can be secured on the present third floor by building rooms now used for office purposes, and ample space for all the business now transacted in said rooms can be secured by the use of the court room on the second floor so vacated.

These rooms are of unusual height (28 feet), and the floor space can be doubled simply by an additional floor and minor changes and connections made with a corridor entrance, for which the original plans seem to have provided. So far as I can learn no objection has at any time been made on account of street noise in the room used by the supreme court on the third floor and acoustically the construction is considered good. The difference in this respect between this room and the rooms below may be accounted for by a reduction of eight feet in the height of the ceiling, and all the court rooms to be so made on the third floor would be equally satisfactory, although some in the center of the building might be objected to as rather low in the ceiling.

Would Provide for Future.

This objection could be overcome, however, by a location of the present orphan's court on this floor and the use of the present orphan's court for the new court. I can see no difficulty in thus providing, on the second and third floors, sufficient rooms to supply the needs of the county for 10 years or more to come. I concede that the rapid growth of the county, which is almost certain to continue, may in less time call for increased office facilities, and should this be the case, a building for that purpose, as you suggest, could be in time erected on the ground now owned by the county on the south side of Diamond street. In order to have ample room for all future needs, I agree that it would be well for the county to specify to secure all the ground on that side of Diamond street from the University building west to Grant street, of a uniform width of say 100 feet, or to correspond with the University building.

The public has not yet been informed of the possible cost of the proposed changes in the court house, but it can be readily seen from the character of the work how much in excess of preliminary estimates the actual cost of the completed building might be. Judging by my brief experience in county work, I would place it at $2,000,000, and it might even reach the cost of the original building, and certainly it could not be claimed that its architectural beauty would be increased by the proposed changes. However, should it be finally determined after full consideration to continue the common pleas courts on the second floor of the building, the rooms for the use of the new court can be had by assigning it to the rooms now used by the orphan's court and transferring that court to rooms immediately above on the third floor, now used for transcribing purposes.

Space for the business done in these rooms can be had by the use of the sheriff's sales-room at the east end of the building, and thereafter the sheriff's sales could be held either in the sheriff's office or in one of the court rooms. The changes necessary for this arrangement would all be of a minor character and entirely satisfactory to the judges of the orphan's court, and the architectural beauty of the court house would thus remain unchanged.

Yours very truly,
JAMES EVANS.

MINE TUNGSTEN BY THE CARLOAD

PREVIOUS SUPPLY MEAGER

Tungsten, hitherto an almost priceless mineral, but one very essential in certain processes of hardening steel, is said to have been discovered in Colorado in quantities sufficient for mercantile distribution, and a company controlling the American mines, 80 per cent of the total world's output, is preparing to open headquarters in Pittsburgh.

Tungsten, the supply of which was for years restricted to several small mines in Australia, has been used almost exclusively by European steelmakers with the possible exception of several small packages of the precious metal which found their way to Pittsburgh. A renowned mineralogist, after 10 years' search, located a mine in Colorado four years ago and finally secured co-operation sufficient to purchase 1,000 acres surrounding his claim.

Work on the claim began six months ago, and 42 miners are now employed bringing forth carload shipments valued at $550 a ton, the full supply being contracted for until January 1.

Tungsten is smelted in proper proportion with steel and brings forth a temper said to be far beyond that produced by the ordinary methods of nickel and ferro-chromium solutions. Especially in the making of tool steel, dies and armor piercing shells is its value apparent. Tungsten composition is quoted at $1 25 a pound at present, while the new concern is offered $8 50 a unit for its product. It is assayed at 68.69 units to the ton.

An invitation will be extended to members of the Iron and Steel Institute to inspect the product of the new company upon their visit here, the more general use of the mineral heretofore in Europe giving them practical experience in determining the qualities of the new American product.

Chemical analysis of the Colorado product shows from 60 to 70 per cent tungsten acid; 20 to 25 per cent iron and the balance silica. By-products are tungsten of soda, tungsten acid and ferro-tungsten, the latter being the hardening quality. It is grayish-black in color, and is much heavier than lead though not quite as heavy as gold.

According to reports, a recent test at the Sterling steel works showed that a chisel hardened by the American tungsten could turn down an 18-inch armor piercing shell.

The company has opened temporary headquarters here, with F. R. Dutton as its representative.

PERMANENCE OF CURE.

The Chief Merit.

Many so called pile remedies will afford the user slight temporary relief, and the majority of sufferers do not expect more than this. Women especially, after having tried every preparation recommended for the cure of Piles, have come to the conclusion, that there is no cure except by an operation. This is rightfully viewed with dread, because of the shock of the delicate nervous system of women, and many of those afflicted have resigned themselves to the situation with never a thought that there is any help in sight for them.

We invite the attention of all such to the experience of the lady whose address is given below:

"I feel it my duty to recommend the Pyramid Pile Cure, for after suffering ten years with the most distressing form of Piles, I am entirely cured, thanks to this remedy. Anyone doubting this can write to Margaret Brady, 2 Whitman st., Cleveland, Ohio."

Ten months later she writes: "I am glad to say that I am still perfectly free from Piles and have not had the slightest trouble since first used your remedy. I am well known in Cleveland and have advertised Pyramid Pile Cure extensively here. I take pleasure in doing so, as it saved me from an operation which I always dreaded, and you are assured that no remedy can have no firmer advocate than I."

Testimony like this should convince the most skeptical, that Pyramid Pile cures not only cures, but cures to stay cured. It is in the form of a suppository; can be applied in the privacy of the home, directly to the parts affected, and does its work quickly and painlessly.

Druggists sell this famous remedy for 50 cents a package and we urge all sufferers to buy a package now and give it a trial tonight. Accept no substitute.

Write Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their little book on this cause and cure of Piles, which is sent free for the asking.

GENERAL REACTION IN NEW YORK STOCKS

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

As a rule, the opening prices in the New York stock market yesterday were the highest of the day, and in a few instances represented a new high mark on this movement. London quotations for American securities were slightly higher, but foreigners were sellers on balance, and from start to finish there was a flood of liquidation. At no time during the session was there a recovery worthy of the name, and the close was weak at the lowest prices, the declines ranging from 1 to 3 per cent.

The most important news of the day was the engagement of a total of $5,200,000 gold for export to Europe by Thursday's steamer, and there were indications that additional shipments would be made on Saturday. So far as the quoted rates for call loans were concerned, there was no appreciable change, the opening and closing quotation being 2 per cent and the highest 2½ per cent. One of the largest banks, however, early in the day marked its call loans up to 2½ per cent, and 3½ per cent was freely bid for time loans running from 60 to 120 days. The banks have been losing cash to the sub-treasury, and while the bulls on the stock market professed to believe in a continuation of easy monetary conditions, the outlook for higher rates no doubt had some influence upon traders, who are carrying large lines of stocks on which there is a profit, and they hastened to take these profits early in the day. Another minor factor was the attention given to the political situation, practically for the first time during the present campaign. This is the last week of the canvass, and naturally the last week in which the chairmen of both parties can carry the election. Next week the people will settle the matter, and there has been no development other than the "claims" put out by the Democratic campaign committe to indicate any change in the political situation. The rumor mill was unusually quiet, the net output being a report that the commander of the Russian Baltic fleet had fired upon an English merchantman and a French collier. English consols would have dropped more than 3-16 per cent if there had been the shadow of foundation for such rumor. There was a little rally in wheat when the report made its appearance, but even the Chicago grain speculators refused to take any stock in the yarn and wheat closed lower. The probabilities are that the recovery on Friday and Saturday was altogether too rapid, and the wildness of the speculation on Saturday threatened a runaway market yesterday, to prevent which the interests in control sold stocks and traders helped them by going short.

Two of the strongest stocks at the opening were Amalgamated Copper, which made a new high mark on this movement by advancing to 71¼, and Sugar, which opened at 148. Amalgamated had the benefit of a higher market for the metal, and Sugar was helped by rumors of a scrip dividend, but both these stocks were among the weakest on the afternoon decline and closed at a net loss of 2¼ to 3 per cent. U. S. Steel preferred opened at 82½ and sold off to 80⅝, but several times rallied to 81 and was heavily bought at that figure. However, it closed at the lowest. The minor iron and steel stocks also declined sharply. Colorado Fuel and Iron breaking from 44⅞ to 42.

The largest net decline in the railroad list was in Delaware & Hudson, which sold off from 185 to 181¼. The more important net losses for the day were 1½ per cent for New York Central, 2 for Pennsylvania, 1 for Baltimore & Ohio, 2⅝ for Reading, 2⅞ for Union Pacific, 2 for Southern Pacific, 1¾ for St. Paul, 1½ for Rock Island, 1¾ for Southern Railway, 3 per cent for Louisville & Nashville and 2¾ for Missouri Pacific. Ontario & Western broke from 43 to 41⅜, and the traction stocks were 1¼ to 3 per cent off, the latter for Metropolitan. The feeling at the close of the market was that the reaction might go farther today.

The strength of Pittsburgh Coal preferred, which on sales of 2,200 shares rallied to 74, the highest price of the year, was the feature of the local stock market. The stock closed at 73¾ bid, and predictions were made that it would sell higher on announcements that may be made later in the week. The common stock was unchanged at 16⅝. U. S. steel preferred was second in point of activity, but it declined in sympathy with the weakness in the east and closed at a net loss of 1⅜ per cent. Crucible Steel preferred held firm all day and closed unchanged at 41⅞. Westinghouse Electric Second preferred on very light transactions declined to and closed at 85, a loss of 1¼ points. Air Brake, on the other hand, was strong and higher, selling at 137 and closing at that price bid, a net gain of $2 a share. The rise was based on the report that the company had booked an important contract for the Grand Trunk Railway. Pittsburgh Plate Glass, after selling at 125, rallied to 127½ bid at the close. National Fire Proofing preferred was ½ higher at 31, while Brewing common declined ½ to 26. The sale of 100 tons Bessemer pig iron warrants for November delivery at $14 represented an advance of $1 05 a ton over the last previous sale. River coal bonds advanced ½ per cent, selling at 108½, and closed at that price bid.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Pittsburgh bank exchanges for October exceeded $188,500,000, which was an increase of more than $32,000,000 over the September total, and the largest for any month this year. Some portion of this increase was due to the larger dealings in the local stock market and to private transactions in bonds, which were of more importance than in any month this year; but by far the larger part of the gain was due to the revival in general business, particularly in iron and coal, and the improvement in mercantile circles. Pittsburgh is passing through the last quarter of 1904 in a much more cheerful frame of mind than during the first and second quarters.

The strength of Pittsburgh Coal preferred was accompanied by a report that the company had closed a contract under which it would operate the mines acquired by the Wabash with the latter's purchase of the Pittsburgh Terminal Railroad & Coal Company. There is also said to be a large short interest in the stock, particularly for account of out-of-town traders, and bulls believe that on any further advance this short interest will feel inclined to cover. Miller, Burns & Redlich, Hall, Spear Bros., Whitney, Stephenson & Co. and Sproul & Co. were prominent in the dealings yesterday.

On the exchange 108 was bid for West Side Belt bonds, Pittsburgh & Allegheny Telephone 5s were quoted at 70 bid, 75 asked. Small sales of Pittsburgh Oil & Gas were reported at 71 and 72.

One of the noticeable features of the dealings in United States Steel preferred on the local exchange yesterday was that the selling was largely by private wire houses, which are supposed to have bought in New York on the decline and sold here at a slight advance before the ticker reported the market. The buyers, on the other hand, were brokers who represented local investors and the business was well distributed. Sproul & Co. were sellers of 500 shares.

On the purchase of 20 shares, Westinghouse Air Brake advanced $2 a share to 137 and closed at that price bid for quotable lots. The basis for the rise was a dispatch from Hamilton, Ont., which stated that the new Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company had contracted with the Canadian Westinghouse Company for brake apparatus for its new equipment. This calls for 15,000 freight car brakes and more than 400 locomotive brakes, and is one of the largest brake contracts ever placed in Canada.

The Valley Deposit and Trust Company of Bellevernon is clearing through the Mellon National bank, the Central Savings and Trust Company through the Columbia National bank, and the Fifth National bank through the Fort Pitt National bank.

Pittsburgh stock exchange seats were bid up to $7,800 and offered at $8,000, R. C. Hall making both quotations.

On the exchange $100 was paid for a call on 500 shares of Pittsburgh Coal preferred at 75 good for 30 days.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass made a quick recovery of last week's loss and closed at 127½ bid. Robinson Bros. and Darr, Luke & Moore were sellers to Preston, Watt & Schoyer and Holmes & Sons.

All the gold engaged in New York yesterday is for shipment to Paris. The greater influence of this movement on the stock market was probably due to the discussion of the causes lying back of the movement in the financial conditions on the continent of Europe. It is a growing belief that besides the requirements of a further large Russian government loan there are other needs pressing for gold in Germany, even while declining prices here offered no advantage in international arbitrage operations. There was a degree of uneasiness, although this feeling was vague, over the tone of public discussion of the relations between Russia and Great Britain and the irritation displayed in the public opinion of the two countries.

Rather more attention was given to the prospect for money and the growth in the rate of the government's deficit in the latter part of October, which threatens a necessity for withdrawal of government deposits from the banks.

Market gold withdrawals were indicated by the renewed weakness caused by the late announcement of additional engagements. The room for doubt as to the terms to be offered to minority stockholders of Ontario & Western by the new control was a new ground for uneasiness amongst speculative holders of that stock, but it was by no means a leader of the decline.

Amalgamated Copper was a feature in the first advances on account of the sensational buying demand for the metal. Sugar rose on the advance in refined sugars, and Tennessee Coal on the reported large order for steel rails by the Louisville & Nashville.

OCTOBER MADE A FAIR AVERAGE

Total of Realty Sales Greatly Exceeded Business of August and September.

RESIDENCES CHANGE OWNERS

The total of realty dealing for the month of October fell slightly below the average for that month during the past five years, but made an excellent showing in comparison with the last three months of this year. October of 1902 made the banner record in Pittsburgh for an autumn month, but the total for that month was swelled by the registry of 740 deeds that brought up the average of the transactions to over $10,000 each. In 1901 and 1903 the total was but little more than half the month, and the average sum for the deals was about the same. This, considering the fact that these were considered boom periods in Pittsburgh realty dealing, makes the showing of the last month the more remarkable. The total number of deeds registered and their amount for the month of October for the last five years is given below. The deals of 1904—525 deeds..... $3,088,100
1903—540 deeds..... 3,552,100
1901—524 deeds..... 3,190,300
1900—561 deeds..... 2,500,200

September of this year showed a total of 488 deeds, amounting to $2,198,100. August had a record of 458 deeds, amounting to $6,183,800, and in July there were registered 5 deeds, totaling $5,338,400. As noted in the Gazette Sunday, the number of realty sales of over $25,000 put through during October was more than twice the number in August and September. This should make a total of November a large one in comparison, as all signs now point to a steady revival in real estate dealing.

Buying Houses for Income.

Through the office of Borland & Weddell, Klebansky has sold to Clinton L. Childs 2 houses on the west side of Fulton place, off Baum avenue, Knoxville, for $15,000. The houses are six-room dwellings with solid brick walls, and were built last year. They rent for $20 each per month, and make a total of nearly 20 houses that this firm has sold in the last three weeks to investors who were seeking good income producers.

The sale is reported of the Samuel Shumaker residence in Sewickley for $15,000. The house is a fine brick residence of the reception-hall type and stands on a lot 50x182 feet on the north side of Shoenberger street, near Beaver avenue, First ward. It contains 12 rooms and was finished last year. The buyer is said to be a local manufacturer who will rent the property for a time.

Through the office of C. G. Mitchell, John J. Laughlin has sold to Estelle M. Holderby the property at 5124 Hatfield street, near Braddock avenue, near Guthrie street, Thirty-second ward, for $10,000. The lot is improved with a modern brick house.

Articles of agreement have been signed in the sale of a Penn avenue property near Sixth street for about $85,000, and also for a Penn avenue business property worth about $45,000.

G. Paul yesterday closed the sale to the Carnegie Realty Company of the lot at Shady avenue and Aurelia street, which will be used as a site for a big natatorium. Plans for this will be prepared shortly by Architect F. C. Sauer.

Progress Up the Allegheny.

Residents of the towns up the Allegheny river are beginning to get enthused over the prospects of quicker and more convenient transportation to Pittsburgh as well as to the other towns up and down the river. Last week agents of the street railway company were securing rights of way from property owners in Springdale township for the line which it is proposed to build from Aspinwall to Springdale, six miles, and thence across the Allegheny river to Boquet station, where the New Kensington street car line ends. The line will pass through Hardwood, Montrose, Harwarville, Cheswick and Springdale. It will be laid on the new macadamized road and work will be started this fall, it is said, if the rights of way through the other towns this side of Springdale can be secured. Land along the line is now worth from $500 to $2,000 an acre, the price being fixed in large measure by the grade of transportation facilities offered. With the prospect of a street car line up the valley, and the Brilliant cut off scheme to take the passenger trains into the Union station, there is a fair indication of a boom in real estate up the Allegheny next spring, and land buyers are beginning to race back of the places that can be used to good advantage for lot plans.

The Real Estate Trust Company will this morning start a novel innovation in sign advertising. All the sale and renting signs of the company, which number nearly 10,000, will be taken down and new ones substituted. The present signs are rectangular in form and contain the customary words "For Sale" or "To Let." The new signs are all in the form of shields and will be conspicuous standing among a dozen other rectangular signs with nothing in particular to distinguish the signs of one firm from another but the name. To make them still more effective the wording has been changed to "To Be Sold" or "To Be Let." The changes will be made on all the principal street car lines today and by tomorrow night all the new shields will be in place.

BUTTER, EGGS AND SUGAR TAKE BIG JUMPS UPWARD

Sharp Rise in Three Important Commodities in the Local Markets.

The market moved up 2½ cents yesterday on Elgin, Ohio and Pennsylvania butter. This move has been expected for some time. Strictly fresh eggs have also raised to 25 cents and are expected to go still higher unless some relief comes to the market soon in the shape of increased receipts.

The fact that Christmas is coming is the reason given for the advance in sugar by the refiners; in spite of the fact that sugars have been sold to have been extremely dull for the past week or more. The price was advanced 10 points on all grades yesterday, greatly to the surprise of buyers generally.

The advance is attributed by the refiners to the fact that confectioners are crowding the market now and buying up their stocks for the Christmas season. It is claimed that the demand now is heavier than it has been at this season for a couple of years from this cause, and an immense Christmas candy business seems to be looked for from the manner in which the candy makers are getting into the sugar market.

Flour held steady yesterday in spite of the drop in wheat and it is generally believed the grain will be back again to a figure above 112 shortly after the opening of the month. Wholesale flour dealers do not look for any cheaper wheat or flour until the next wheat crop is reported upon next year.

Sales of produce along the street yesterday were good and dealers generally considered it a fair day for Monday. Nuts dropped in all lines yesterday, as was to be expected when the Hallowe'en buying ceased. They are expected to take another fall today. Chestnuts are being shoved out on the market as rapidly as possible, as no dealer cares to be left with a stock of them on hands.

The receipts of fruit and produce yesterday were: Apples 28 cars, making 68; tomatoes 6, making 10; cabbage 18, making 49; celery 2, making 9; grapes 22, making 61; onions 9, making 17; oranges 3; pears 4, making 8; potatoes 37, making 155; squash 1, making 2; sweet potatoes 1, making 1; turnips 2, making 6; Miscellaneous 8, making 15.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts of hay, grain and feed yesterday were as follows: Baltimore & Ohio railroad, 6 cars oats, 22 cars hay, 2 cars corn; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, 10 cars hay, 8 cars oats, 2 cars corn; Pennsylvania lines, 45 cars hay, 20 cars oats, 6 cars corn, 7 cars feed, 9 cars straw, 1 car rye, 2 cars oats.

In spite of heavy receipts of hay yesterday the market held firm, although a slight depression is looked for today, depending on the amount of No. 1 received yesterday. Mill feed has started down a little and is quoted a half dollar to a dollar a ton less than last week. It is expected to go still lower. The demand for good hay and for shelled corn still continues and second-rate goods are slow in the market.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

In order to clear off a flaw in its title the Lake Superior and Pittsburgh Mining Company has given 10,000 shares of its treasury stock to certain interests in Bisbee.

The output from the independent smelters of Utah for last week was as follows: Bingham Consolidated, 244,816 pounds of copper bullion; United States, 256,880 pounds, and from the Utah Consolidated, 303,104 pounds. The settlements for ore and bullion on the local market last week made a remarkably good showing, the total receipts being $645,911, as compared with a total of $473,700 for the week before.

The output from Tintic district last week consisted of 100 cars of ore. The shipments from the Centennial-Eureka were nearly normal, being 30 carloads. The Gemini shipped 17, the Bullion-Beck and Mammoth 10 each, Grand Central and Star Consolidated, four cars each, and the following shipped two cars each: Ajax, Godiva, May Day, Tetro and Victor Consolidated.

The strike in the May Day is growing larger with every shift, and no limits have yet been discovered.

The shipments from Park City last week showed a considerable increase over the output for the previous week. All the shippers sent down more ore. The Daily-West shipped 2,723,200 pounds; the Silver King, 2,-136,200 pounds; the Ontario, 488,000 pounds, and the Kearns-Keith, 289,000 pounds.

The shipments from Goldfield last week were 353 tons, contributed by several mines. The value of these shipments is so high that they are generally sent out under guard. It is now given out that the Tonopah Railroad Company will positively extend its line to the new camp. The shipments from Tonopah were 815 tons, of which 598 tons came from the Tonopah mine.

The directors of the United Copper Company declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent on the preferred stock, payable November 15 to stock of record October 31.

Telegraphic advices have been received from Superintendent McVickie of the Bingham Mining Company to the effect that the ore body in the Dalton & Lark mine has been cut at the 1,100-foot level and exposes a seam of ore four feet wide running in lead and silver about $30 a ton. This is regarded as a very important development, inasmuch as this is the deepest level in the property.

Recent press dispatches from Salt Lake stated that Mr. Samuel Newhouse had made a contract with the American Smelting and Refining Company for the treatment of $40,-000,000 worth of ore. This refers to the ore of the Cactus mine, owned by Mr. Newhouse, the contract for treating of which has been sub-let to the Bingham company. The Bingham smelter therefore will treat this ore, and by the time the fifth stack is in operation, deliveries of this ore should begin.

ACTIVE LIQUIDATION MARKED WHEAT PIT

Exceedingly Liberal Shipments from Russia Was the Cause. Prices Go Down.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Exceedingly liberal shipments from Russia was a cause of active liquidation today in wheat. Apathy of all cash grain intensified depression. As a result, December wheat made a net decline of 1¼@1⅝c. May is off ⅞c. Corn is up a shade. Oats are down ⅛c and provisions 2½@5c.

Extreme weakness characterized trading in the wheat pit throughout the entire session. The item of early news that most strongly impressed pit operators was the exceeding heaviness of Russian shipments for last week, exports from that country being 6,144,000 bushels. Total world's exports were nearly 11,-000,000 bushels, which was one and a half million bushels more than had been estimated by a leading English crop statistician. The enormous movement from Russia overcame a considerable reduction in the amount shipped from India and Australia. The domestic situation was equally as bearish. There were reports from the northwest that receipts, instead of becoming smaller in the near future, were

GAYETY THEATER OPENS ITS DOORS

HYDE & BEHMAN ARE PRAISED

Pittsburgh moved up to a higher place in the amusement world last night when the Gayety theater, Hyde & Behman's new playhouse in Duquesne way, was formally dedicated to the art of Thespis. The success of the first performance augurs a brilliant career for the new theater, and all the old-time playgoers in town were there to extend their good wishes to the management of the new enterprise. "Way Down East," that familiar and virile drama of country life, proved a popular attraction for a memorable opening night.

Pittsburghers who were there—and the house holds 2,800 people—saw one of the prettiest theaters in the country. Comparisons are odious, but it will be no disparagement to any Pittsburgh theater to say that few playhouses in the country can approach the beauty of Hyde & Behman's commodious new theater. Pittsburgh now boasts of several of the finest places of amusement in America and the Gayety stands among the very best of the list. The boxes were filled with beautifully gowned women and in the audience bright costumes distinguished the assemblage as one which could be regarded by the management as the highest compliment for their venture.

MR. RICHARD HYDE,
One of the Proprietors of the New Gayety Theater.

The sound of the workman's hammer had scarcely died away when the orchestra struck "The Star Spangled Banner" as the opening overture. For weeks the contractors have been struggling in putting on the finishing touches. Two hours before the curtain was raised the florists came to the aid of the decorators, upholsterers and carpet layers, and at 7:30 o'clock the entrance and foyer looked like the portal of an immense conservatory. The audience arrived early to inspect the house. On every hand were heard exclamations of surprise and delight and scores crowded around Richard Hyde, one of the owners, and James E. Orr, the resident manager of the house, to congratulate them upon the beauty of the theater and the success of the opening performance. Manager Thomas Kirk, Jr., of the Nixon, Manager R. M. Gulick of the Bijou, Manager Harry Davis, representing his triumvirate of show houses, and Manager Walter Floyd of the Duquesne were among the first to extend greetings to the new managers.

MISS PHEOBE DAVIS,
Star of "Way Down East."

After the patriotic overture Joseph R. Grismer, manager of "Way Down East," stepped before the curtain and told how he had watched the encouraging growth of Pittsburgh's patronage of the drama and how one after another he had seen this city erect some of America's finest theaters. He introduced James F. Burke, who said:

> by this opening our wonderful city adds another to the incomparable institutions of amusement and instruction for which she has become but very recently noted. For a century the people of this community outclassed all other parts of the world in making and saving money and denying themselves so many of those legitimate pleasures and pastimes that have made other places so attractive whenever they consented to part with a portion of their savings. Within recent years, however, the spirit of pleasure and the muse of art emerged from their Rip Van Winkle slumbers and looked down upon a city and a people who but waited the wave of a magic wand to cast aside rust and then the miserable monotony of money-getting, and realize that there was quite as much pleasure to be found in smiling upon pleasant pastimes as upon the dull, dear face of the dollar.

The result of all this is that today, in the world of art and science and literature, we are rapidly attaining a cherished position in the eyes of the world without forfeiting in a single degree our industrial supremacy.

Here we may come night after night and witness wonderful transformations in our world of fancy. We may come with heavy hearts and leave with every shade of sadness dispelled. Here the professional man rests his brain, the merchant forgets the cares of the counting room, the politician forgets his enemies, the women forget the trifling vexations, the jealousies and petty annoyances of daily life; here the cribbed finds privacy for its keen discernment, and in fact we all live in an atmosphere of ease, while the world's conflicts and contentions seem buried in our immediate surroundings of comfort and contentment.

To possess another of these temples where all these delights may be experienced, while we are surrounded by the pure, sweet atmosphere of the home, will be a source of supreme felicity to all our people. I bespeak for this institution and its management the fullest realization of their dreams.

"Way Down East" has lost none of its charm and in the hands of almost the entire original cast it posses new claims for a long lease of life. The play is effectively mounted and the characters are splendidly portrayed. There is more live stock among the properties than would be found at the average country vendue, but the liberality in the number of cows, sheep, barnyard fowls and typical country rigs is one of the keystones of the success of the play. The hard cider comes in for its usual reference in rural revelry, and Seth Holcomb's "long-life bitters" retains its clandestine quality of good cheer. Seth, by the way, is done in admirable style by J. H. Bunny, who also attends to the intricate details of staging the play. Phoebe Davies possesses sterling emotional qualities in the role of Anna Moore and gives that character delightful winsomeness and grace. Robert A. Fisher makes a robust 'squire with an iron will but a melting heart. Josephine Bacon, as the squire's better half, makes an ideal backwoods housewife in everything but the handling of the churn, and in that small feature she is hopelessly a failure. Ulric B. Collins loves like a true country lover, with probably less awkwardness than his lines would justify. But this is a small fault and one that leans to the side of virtue. The work of the company throughout is good and the "village choir" feature is well sustained.

A thoroughly competent orchestra has been organized for the Gayety by W. H. Malsch, who is well known in Pittsburgh as a musician in the orchestra of the best theaters. His program last night was marked by the number of good old classics and folk songs, which he wove in with a few popular airs, and the idea was quite appropriate with the quiet atmosphere of the attraction.

This is Pittsburgh's ninth theater and the welcome it expressed last night that it would spring into immediate popularity.

In a Nutshell

GAYETY—Pittsburgh's newest theater was opened auspiciously. interiorly it is cozy and handsome. "Way Down East" is not new, but it is good.

NIXON—A vaudeville conglomerate with artistic Fay Templeton as a palatable dessert. Both the costuming and the ensemble are elaborate for that kind of a show, so is the price.

DUQUESNE—A pretty good "King Dodo."

GRAND—Vaudeville with some very bright spots.

ACADEMY—"The Merry Maidens" are burlesquely merry.

Nixon—"A Little of Everything."

It is easily conceivable how things like "A Little of Everything" get their vogue. You go down to New York (or is it up?) and dine well and feel thoroughly en rapport with the effervescence of that wonderfully cosmopolitan city. Perchance you read a sporting paper and get familiar with the hotel clerk after dinner. Along about 9 o'clock you remember that you haven't seen the town nor visited the leading attraction. Between the sporting paper and your friend, the hotel clerk, you discover that there is a "corking" show on at the roof garden. Everybody who is anybody from out of town goes to see it. You go, and between your dinner and the consciousness that you are free, away from home and in "old New York," you reach the conclusion that it is simply "great." You see what you consider swell New Yorkers wandering in and hear a lot of hand-clapping, and there you are. Perhaps when you get home and have time to think it over it will occur to you that, barring the Offenbach review, "A Little of Everything" is simply the same old vaudeville, coon songs and nonsense that you have been seeing and hearing ever since the stage went into the wilderness of tommyrot and called it "diversion." And yet "A Little of Everything is pretty good "$1.00 for the best seat" vaudeville. It is certainly chorused multitudinously and Fay Templeton is an artiste, while Peter F. Dailey is still Pete Dailey. The burlesque on the Florodora sextet is amusing; the Camille burlesque rather disappointing; the minstrelsy burlesque elaborate and rather tame; the evolution of rag-time without clear or convincing point or pith; the Offenbach review a real novelty, sketchily done, and the whole thing clothed and panoplied in the gorgeousness and beyond the usual visual glory of vaudeville shows. Mind you, we are not depreciating the good things in this vaudeville potpourri. We are simply trying to find them.

Fay Templeton is good anywhere and all the time. Her "Fishing" song was enjoyably and artistically rendered. Mr. Dailey's comedy is enjoyed by scores of people. His Armand in the burlesque of Camille is funny, but most of his songs failed to connect. A little woman, Miss Fisher by name, made a hit with a semi-baritone voice. Miss Leslay, in the "Letter Song," from "La Perichale," in the Offenbach review, was exceedingly pleasing. The entire piece scintillates with glittering female upholstery and blazes with various colored light schemes. Just the sort of review of nonsense that you want to enjoy—in New York and after a good dinner and a peep at the sporting paper that tells you where "everybody" is going.

Soberly, in Pittsburgh and at our own "splendid temple devoted to the drama" at $2.00 a seat—well, things are somewhat different. The audience last night was exceedingly cold. It had not been to New York and dined well. Then, it must be remembered that we had something of a vaudeville show on the outside, also. Perhaps when the Hallowe'en noise subsides and we get back our memories of New York and the fun we had, we'll go and see "A Little of Everything." It will be amusing, for there is so much of it, and it is worth while to have our metropolitan memories stirred, even though it may come high.

Avenue—"A Night-Off."

It was the playwright of another age who knew how to inject humor into a situation. If you do not believe this go to the Avenue theater this week and see the stock company do that good old comedy that Augustin Daly adapted from somewhere, the German we believe. It is farce but there is so much genuine, side-splitting fun in it, that it well deserves the more reputable title of comedy. The constituent elements, including the mother-in-law, the jealous wife and the elusive husband, are all situations that have been hammered out flat on the stage and in the comic papers, but this Daly comedy, "A Night Off," serves these incidents with such fine spice and sauce that you will do what the Avenue audiences did yesterday—laugh nearly all the time. "A Night Off" has been seen here before with Mr. Daly's incomparable company of players, but that has been a long time ago, and Manager Davis' players do the piece so well that you won't have any unpleasant comparative memories over it. The comedy gives Miss Dunn a fine chance in the role of Susan, the little slavey, and she makes good to the utmost limit of smart and clever acting. It is a deliciously natural, funny and ridiculous characterization, played with just the touch of humor that makes it most effective. Mr. McVay, as the unhappy professor, comes next on the merit role and does this part with all the unctious humor that we would expect from so fine a player. Next in order comes Mr. Faulding, who, though he is disposed to overplay Snap at some points, gets a lot of fun into a role that almost plays itself. Then we have Miss Kennark, Mr. Courtenay, Miss Gale, Miss Dills, Mr. Wyngate, who could not play a funny part if he tried the rest of his life, Mr. Melrose and Mr. Harris, all in varying degrees of excellence, contributing to the hilarity of a comedy of which we have no counterpart in modern authorship. The stock company is bidding farewell to the Avenue this week, but the production of "A Night Off" is a sure preventive of any tears on that account. It is a capital comedy, capitally acted.

Bijou—"The White Tigress of Japan."

"The White Tigress of Japan" is a sensational melodrama, founded on affairs in Manchuria, and was turned out on short notice by Charles A. Taylor. It bears all the earmarks of rapid-fire play making, but has elements of success which caught the popular fancy in New York and which doubtless will be effective here. The piece opens with a blaze of patriotism in the first act that makes patrons of melodrama stand up and cheer. It is a fine start, but the pace is too rapid and all the common places happen toward the end of the play. If the enthusiasm stirred up in the opening scenes could be maintained until the final curtain it would probably be the greatest popular-priced attraction on the road. Fanny McIntyre does most of the acting and plays the role of the "tigress" with sincerity and the emotional fortitude that gives an impossible character the environment of reality. Personal charms added to her painstaking work give dignity to the plot which evidently never entered the head of the playwright. Why he allows an American naval apprentice to stand up and sing "If I Were Mr. Morgan" is difficult to understand. While he is singing the audience listens also to the booming of hostile guns on the banks of the Yalu. That is bad enough, but when a Russian officer rushes in from the field of battle wearing a full dress uniform with a chapeau like that of a United States admiral, it would seem that the Muscovites are making a holiday parade out of their campaign. Japanese soldiers likewise rush in with bullets whistling about their ears. They are supposed to have been on the front for months, but it is not explained who creases their immaculate blue trousers or launders their high linen collars and pretty negligee shirts. Battlefield togs such as the fighting Japs actually wear in Manchuria would be much cheaper and certainly more to the purpose. Just why a lieutenant of the American navy is privileged to violate his country's neutrality treaty by rushing around the stage pointing a huge, nickel-plated Colt's revolver at every unlucky Russian in sight, is another little matter that jars somewhat with historical precedent. Of course, people who sit through sensational melodrama like more or less of dress parade uniforms, but the man who built "The White Tigress of Japan" should remember that the average theatergoer reads something of the progress of the war and knows that the Russian officers are not fighting in chapeaux; that the Japanese warriors disdain fancy shirts and stiff collars, and that United States officers on the scene of conflict are wisely keeping their guns in their holsters.

Empire—"Thou Shalt Not Kill."

The Empire offers a bill of unusual merit this week, both because of the strong presentation of the powerful melodrama, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," and the local interest attaching to the excellent work of the youngest performer on the list. The play itself is new in Pittsburgh. Its reception in the east, where it started this season, has been very flattering and local playgoers are likely to find more than the customary attraction in a story peculiarly constructed and containing some elements very rarely seen in the ordinary melodrama. Tolstoy's famous letter on bloodshed and war incited the author to produce a play in which a love story, interwoven with a murder and set in rural surroundings, is made the means of bringing out the power of mental telepathy. It is in the role of the peculiar mind reader, Alyce Granger, that Miss Franklyn Gale makes a signal hit with her hearers. George S. Trimble, as Frederick Clayton, the flippant lover and cunning money hunter, who murders his lover's father and by an almost miraculous use of telepathy is brought to justice, in spite of circumstantial evidence against the old man's son, is a strong character. The old deacon himself, Mr. F. R. Russell by name, is one of the best characters that has come on the Empire stage for weeks. The entire cast of about 40 persons deserves a liberal patronage and their work last night was very well received. Among the stage effects are some new scenic experiments, well calculated to add interest to the play.

To Pittsburghers, the chief attraction of the evening was little 12-year-old Marie Tener, who made her first professional appearance last night. The little maiden, who has been called the "Dancing Zephyr," holds a graduate medal for her dancing and Erice and won a firm place in the hearts of local amusement seekers last summer when she appeared at the children's carnival at the Duquesne. Her specialties this week are two songs composed by Frederick W. Grove of this city, "Come Into My Airship" and "Grace O'Leary." The former is well suited to her very sweet voice and was encored time and again. Little Miss Tener is a very clever dancer and her work is the more appreciated because she composer her own dances. She is a niece of Amelia Gardner of the stock company two years ago, and gives evidence of decided stage talent.

Duquesne—"King Dodo."

This tuneful Pixley and Luder's musical comedy came back to town last night at popular prices and with a cast that, taken all together, is quite as good as that which frolicked through the piece at high prices a year or more ago. Charles W. Myers as Dodo resembles Eddie Foy in mannerisms without being one-half so good a comedian. His Dodo is acceptable, however, while the Picola of Rose Cecilia Shay, Elvia Crox Seabrooke as the queen and Cora Williams as Annette fairly well sustain the reputation of their predecessors. The costuming is good and the ensemble effects have not materially deteriorated. The music of "King Dodo" abounds in melody and is of the kind that everybody contagiously whistles. When the Hallowe'en show gives the Duquesne back its normal audiences we imagine this "popular-priced" Dodo will be as popular as ever his more expensive predecessor was.

Grand—Good Vaudeville.

The week's bill at the Grand may be said to be a little above the average. The dramatic sketch is not strong in itself, but it is as good as the general average of such playlets, so the feature, as a whole, is worthy of praise. Mr. Harcourt, who leads the feature sketch, "A Dakota Widow," is an actor of pleasing personality and would cause a flutter among the matinee girls in a stock company. Besides knowing the fine points of acting he can wear clothes like a model and his correct movements with a lighted cigar number twice fifty-seven. His leading lady, Miss Helen Ashley, possesses an individuality that at once attracts and holds the interest. Enigmarelle is a mechanical man that seems endowed with reason when its wheels get going—a mechanical wonder. The three Keatons present a hilarious comedy act that is at times side-splitting. Frank Bush, with a lot of new stories, and a long list of varied vaudeville acts complete a really good entertainment.

Academy—"Merry Maidens."

A couple of real comedians and a chorus of pretty girls, make the "Merry Maidens" show worth seeing. Aside from being pretty the "maidens" are remarkable for being of an exact height and corresponding figure, which makes the aggregation somewhat unique in the burlesque circuit. Sam Hilee and Billy Spencer are natural fun-makers and the laugh is always going when they are on. Dan and Jessie Hiatt, in their musical act, are as funny and clever as ever. Miss Patti Carney is probably the favorite of all the soubrettes that come to the Academy, and scored her usual hit yesterday. A good acrobatic act by the Blying Rathbones is one of the features of the bill. Other numbers are the Vans, in a comedy turn and Nellie Hanley, with illustrated songs. The burlesques are breezy and abound with fun and good musical numbers, and are named "Merry Maidens at a French Ball" and "In South Dakota."

Marjorie Barrett in Vaudeville.

Last night seemed to be local favorites' night in the theaters. Besides the appearance of little Marie Tener at the Empire, little Marjorie Barrett, another prime juvenile favorite, pleased the patrons of the Star vaudeville theater. Marjorie does singing and dancing specialties with a grace and effectiveness remarkable in a child so young. Her engagement at the Star is for the entire week.

Inaugural of the New Alvin Theater.

The advent of the Harry Davis stock company at the beautiful new Alvin theater next Monday will mark an extraordinarily interesting event. It will practically be the opening of Pittsburgh's newest theater, for Manager Davis has left nothing of the former house but the four outer walls. In keeping with the importance of the new Alvin's inaugural, Manager Davis has also exerted himself in the matter of a production. To this end he has arranged with the Fanny Davenport estate for Miss Davenport's original version of Sardou's picturesque and powerful play, "Gismonda," which was the last play in which Miss Davenport was seen in this city.

ONE OF DR. CUPID'S PRESCRIPTIONS.

That Love sometimes cures disease is a fact that has recently been called to the attention of the public by a prominent physician and college professor. In some nervous diseases of women, such as hysteria, this physician gives instances where women were put in a pleasant frame of mind, were made happy by falling in love, and in consequence were cured of their nervous troubles—the weak, nervous system toned and stimulated by little Dr. Cupid—became strong and vigorous, almost without their knowledge. Many a woman is nervous and irritable, feels dragged down and worn out, for no reason that she can think of. She may be ever so much in love, but Dr. Cupid fails to cure her. In ninety-nine per cent. of these cases it is the womanly organism which requires attention; the weak back, dizzy spells and black circles about the eyes, are only symptoms. Go to the source of the trouble and correct the irregularities, the drains on the womanly system and the other symptoms disappear. So sure of it is the World's Dispensary Medical Association, proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that they offer a $500 reward for women who cannot be cured of leucorrhea, female weakness, prolapsus, or falling of the womb. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the complexion and sweeten the breath, they cleanse and regulate the stomach liver and bowels and produce permanent benefit and do not re-act on the system. One is a gentle laxative.
